District 117 makes move

By CHRISTY BLANDFORD
Staff Reporter

District 117 administrators are busy unpacking boxes this summer as they settle into their new district offices in the Antioch Township Center.

"The funds and opportunity to build this facility became available and it gave us an opportunity to be in a facility better suited for our needs," District 117 Business Manager Bill Ahlers said.

The new facility, which is located at 1625 Deep Lake Road, comes as a joint funding project from both the Antioch and Lake Villa Townships as well as the school district.

District 117 Superintendent Dennis Hockney said two years ago, Illinois Representative Tim Osmond (62 District), acquired funds totaling $650,000 for Antioch Township and $250,000 for Lake Villa Township from the Illinois First program.

These funds, in addition to money donated by both the Antioch and Lake Villa townships were used to fund the facility, for which the school district already owned the land.

"We had the land, they had the money," Hockney said. "The Board of Education provided the land and utilities and the townships contributed the money."

The facility was completed for a total cost of $2,700,000, which Hockney said was unique in that a tax increase was not necessary in order to fund it.

The district office, which is shared with the Antioch Senior Center in the township building, is in a convenient location adjacent to the site where a second high school campus is under construction, set to open in August 2004, Ahlers said.

"Since I am in charge of the construction of (the second campus), it is very helpful to be here," he said.

Ahlers said there were no major problems while transitioning from the old district office to the new one, which he said is more suitable for the district staff.

"It gives us more room and it's better laid out for us to be more efficient," Ahlers said.

Taste of Summer plans wide variety of events

By CHRISTY BLANDFORD
Staff Reporter

Antioch's annual Taste of Summer is moving to a larger location this year, and with the larger location comes an even wider variety of activities to entertain the whole family.

The event, which draws over 20,000 people each year, will move to Skidmore and Orchard streets this year. This location will provide a larger area to house the entertainment and food vendors, said Barbara Porch, executive director of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce.

"The new location is much larger, which allows us to have more food vendors, use the band shell, have lawn seating and a larger carnival," she said. "We anticipate this being a very positive move."

The four day long festival of food, street sales, entertainment and activities will run from Thursday, July 18 to Saturday, July 20 from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. and Sunday, July 21 from 11 a.m. until 6 p.m.

Due to the increased space that is available, there is a wide variety of new entertainment and food vendors offered to those in attendance.

Run for Freedom posts winners, record attendance

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

A record number of runners and walkers participated in Antioch's eighth annual Run for Freedom, sponsored by the State Bank of The Lakes, the first of a day full of Fourth of July events. Walkers made up 347 of the total 1,251 participants.

"The run is viewed as a community event where the public values participation, yet is still attractive to elite runners as worthy of their time and effort. We are pleased with the outcome," said race coordinator Mary Lou Toomey.

The 5K-run/fun walk is a USATF (United States of America Track and Field association) sanctioned event.

Overall awards were given to the top three male and female competitors as well as to those finishing in the top three slots for their age groups.

The fastest times were under 17 minutes with Jeremy Sullivan, 23, of Crystal Lake, coming in at 16:11, followed by Chris Setzler, 29, of McHenry at 16:21 and Mike Egle, 40, at 16:44. Overall winners in the female division were Cari Blind, 23, of McHenry, with 19:01, followed by Tracey Vondra, 40, of Lake Villa, with 19:54 and Shelley Hazel, 45, of Waukegan, with 20:54.

In the under 14 years old category, the top females were Alyssa Bradford, 14, of Mukwonago, Wis., with 22:30, followed by Kelsie

Principal welcomes high school challenges

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

After his first official week as principal of Antioch Community High School (ACHS), Jon Crawford said he looks forward to the challenges a high school in a growing community presents.

"The growth in Antioch makes for an exciting district," he said. "The community is committed to education and determining what education should look like for the 21st century and making the necessary changes."

Crawford's enthusiasm for ACHS's Task Force for Educational Change made him a good fit to take over as principal of the high school,

Heat may have been a factor in man's death

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

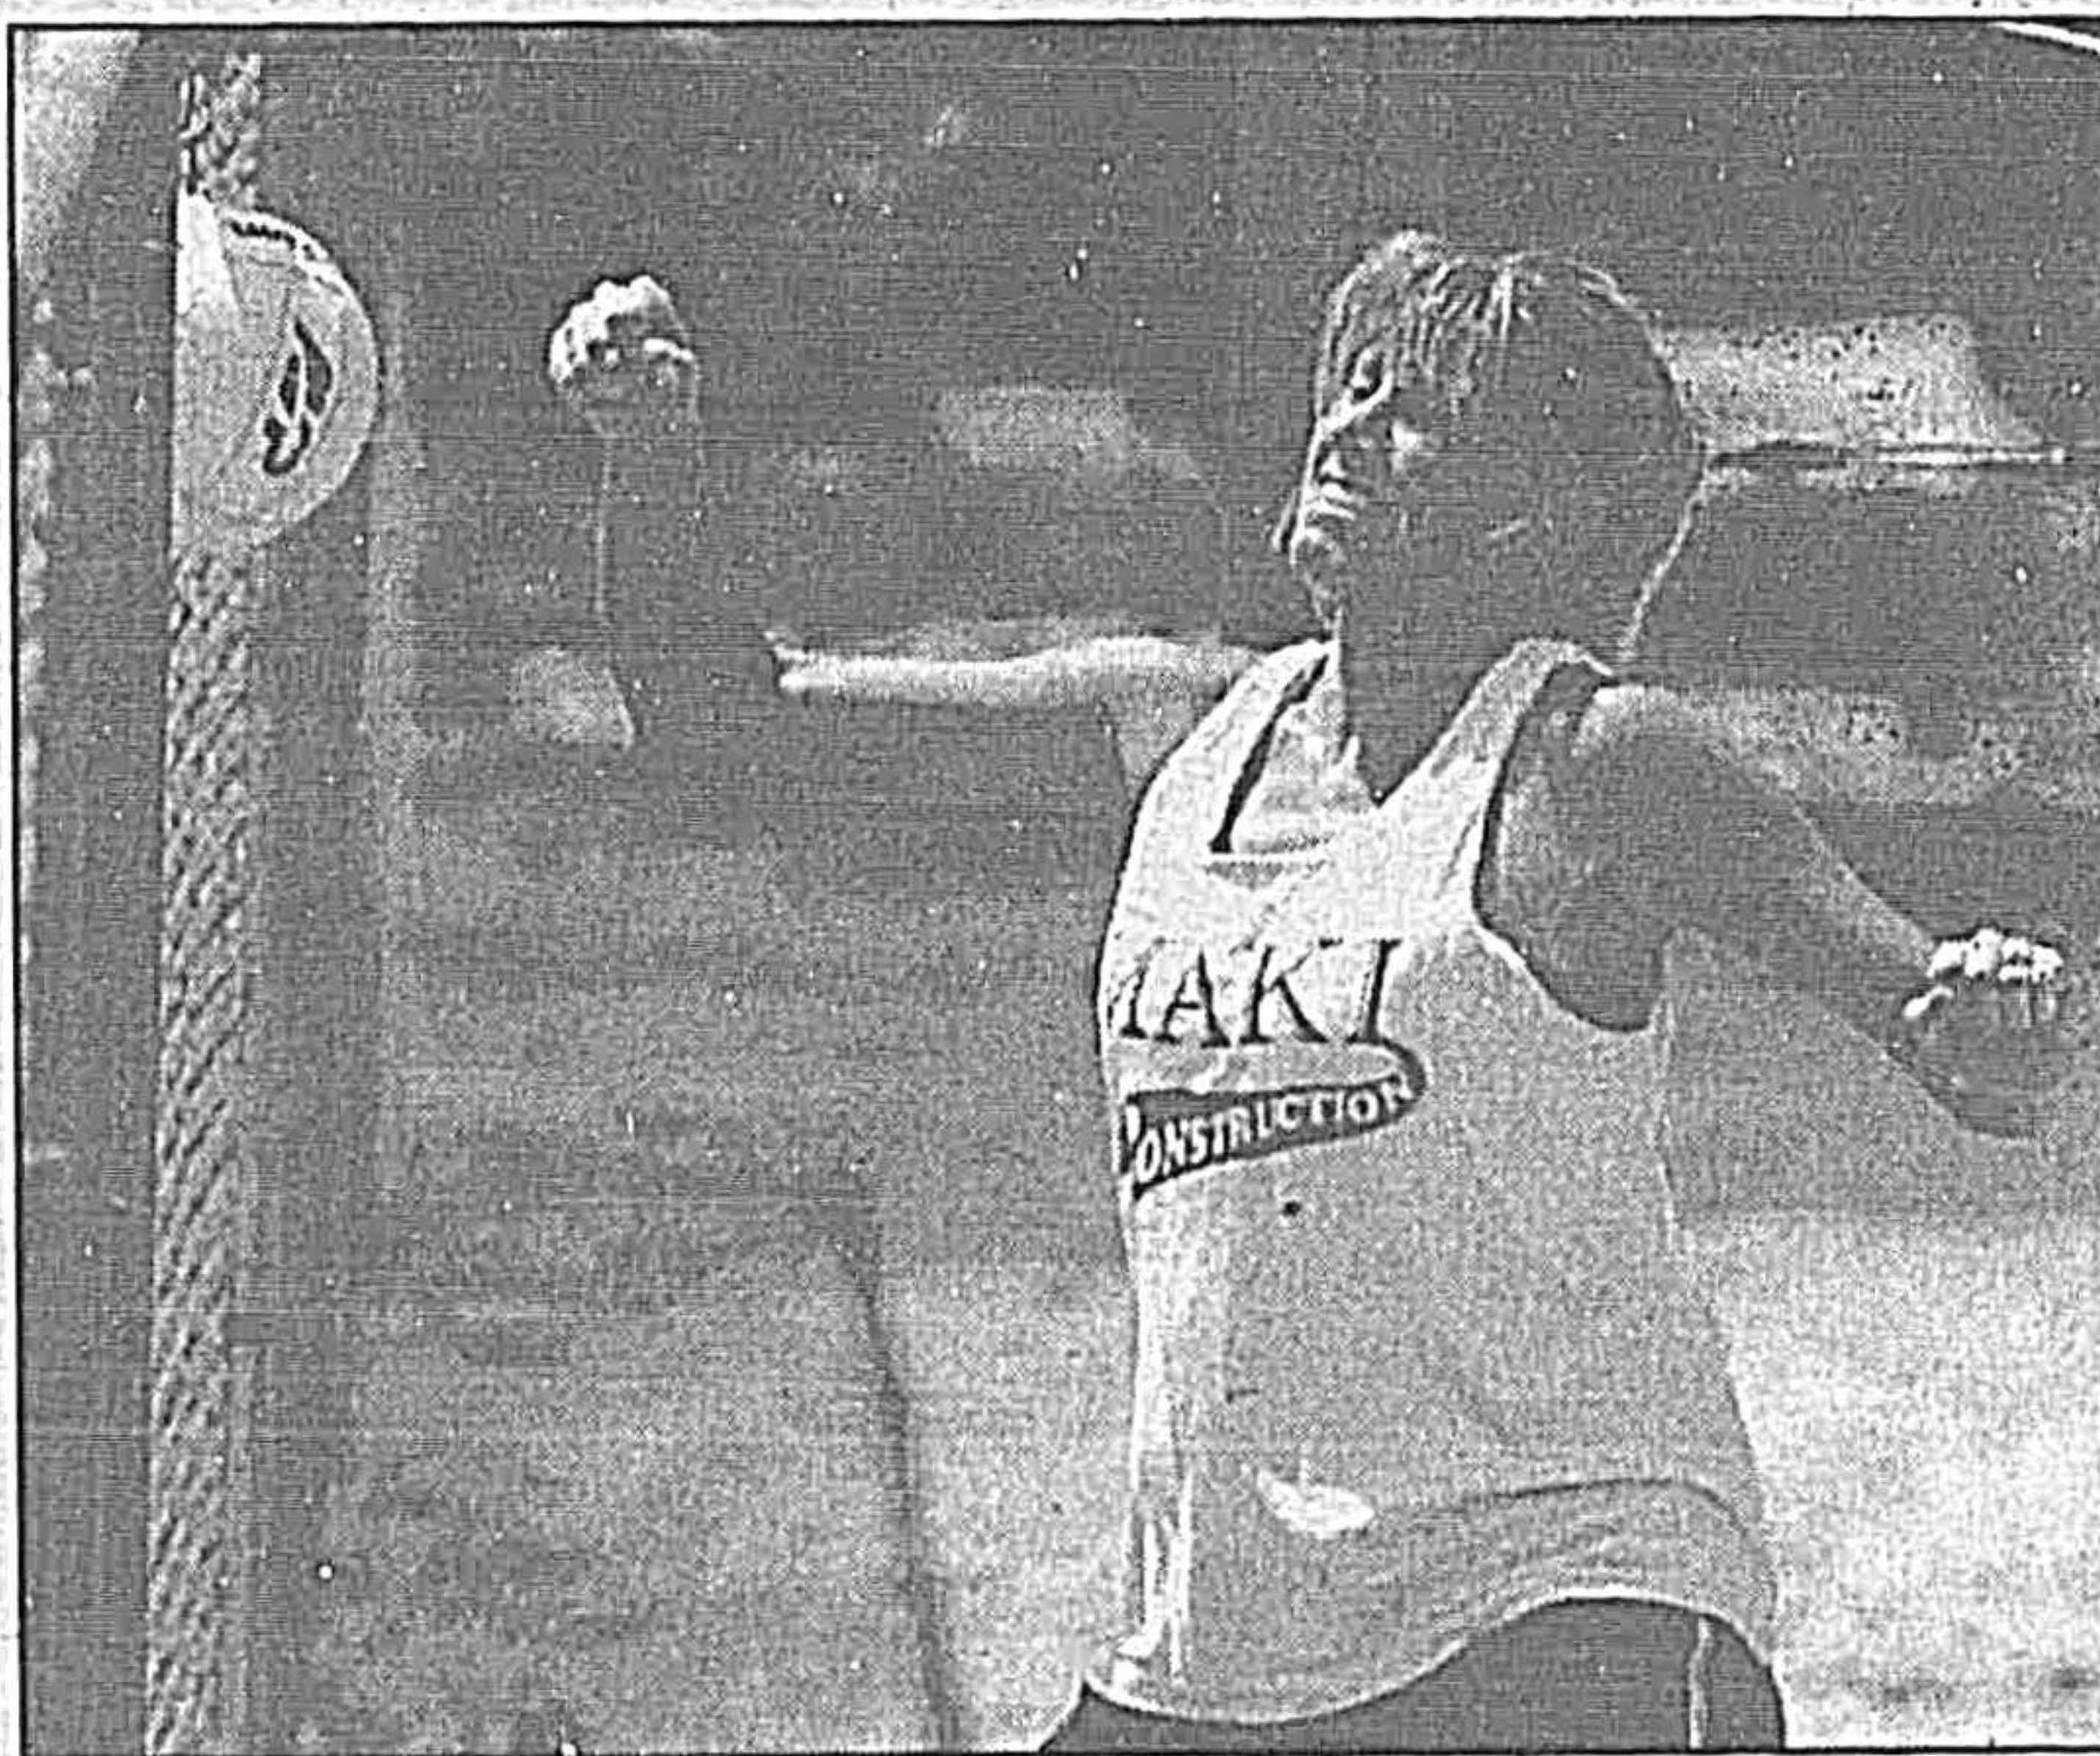

While heat and humidity may have caused some of the 1,251 runners and walkers to experience dizziness or dehydration, Gerald Zdanowicz, 37, of Grayslake, died of a heart attack yards from the finish line of the 5K Run for Freedom. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Victory Memorial Hospital on July 4.

"There were four trucks on the street for the run," said Antioch Rescue Squad Chief Wayne Sobczak. "A cell phone was used to call 911, and that dispatched through Lake County. Apparently, there were no locals with cell phones and the caller needed assistance to explain exactly where the incident occurred."

Sobczak said traffic, pedestrian and vehicular, caused the trip from Main Street and North Avenue to Poplar Street to take longer than it otherwise would have.

"There was ample personnel around between fire and rescue, and some fire fighters were participating in the race," said Sobczak. "CPR was administered the entire time until an AED (automatic exter-

AN OPEN LETTER TO OUR COMMUNITY

Dear Community Member,

Provena Saint Therese Medical Center and Victory Memorial Hospital have been caring for the healthcare needs of area residents for generations. Victory's roots go back to 1891, while Saint Therese was founded in 1929. Since opening, both hospitals have provided vital healthcare services to Waukegan and the lakeshore communities. We remain committed to this role.

Over the years, a friendly competition developed between Saint Therese and Victory. However, as healthcare leaders, we also found ourselves working together for the betterment of the community's health.

For instance, in the early '90s we shared a project to create awareness of the need for mammograms among minority populations, who statistically had late diagnosis of breast cancer which resulted in less successful outcomes. Saint Therese and Victory were also instrumental in the establishment of (and still take an active role in) the HealthReach Clinic, which provides access to routine healthcare services to people without health insurance or the ability to pay.

With the advent of magnetic resonance imaging (MRI), Saint Therese and Victory sought to make this valuable diagnostic service available to the community without duplication of expensive technology. We did so by forming a successful joint operating company, the M.R. Institute of Lake County (now the Vista MR Institute) located in Gurnee.

In recent years, hospitals across the country have been challenged from many sides. The way healthcare services are delivered and financed has changed. Outpatient services have grown, while people are admitted as inpatients less frequently. This significant change has been fueled by ever advancing medical technology, by managed care plans that provide incentive for outpatient care whenever possible, and by staffing shortages.

Medicare and Medicaid have continually reduced their costs by paying hospitals less for the services they provide. The Federal Balanced Budget Act further reduced reimbursement to hospitals.

These cuts affect all hospitals, but those like Saint Therese and Victory Memorial which together care for a disproportionately larger percentage of uninsured and Medicaid and Medicare patients than the average hospital have been impacted harder than their competitors.

As the impact of these changes increased, the boards of directors and administrations of the two hospitals looked for how best to continue their commitment to Waukegan and the lakeshore communities as well as to the residents of northwest Lake County. We understand the new economics of healthcare and know that two hospitals, just a few miles apart, offering the same services could not long survive. By combining our staff, technologies, resources and experience, it was thought that Saint Therese and Victory could better serve all of our patients, both economically and qualitatively.

In February 2000, Provena Health (Saint Therese's corporate sponsor) and Victory Health Services (Victory's corporate sponsor) signed a joint operating agreement that created Vista Health. In addition to the hospitals, Vista Health includes the Vista M.R. Institute and the Vista Surgery and Treatment Center in Lindenhurst.

One of the first activities of this new organization was to examine the health needs of the communities we serve, and develop a strategic plan to address those needs. The growth in the northwest quadrant of the county and the long drive time from there to a hospital led us to a plan of action that includes modernizing an existing eastern location and developing a new full-service hospital in Lindenhurst. Both aspects of this plan are subject to review and approval by state authorities.

Initially, plans were developed to consolidate to Saint Therese's Washington Street location. These initial cost estimates rose to $33 million as further evaluation of the site progressed. Today, due to the age, configuration and condition of the Saint Therese site, costs are nearing $50 million.

Along the way, Vista Health has encountered many delays, not always of our own making. The issue of reproductive services, for example, took over a year to resolve. More recently, one of our joint venture sponsors, Provena Health, citing financial constraints and commitments to its wholly owned hospitals, submitted its intention to withdraw from Vista Health. That withdrawal also requires approval of the Roman Catholic Church. This approval process is now underway.

Provena Health's unexpected withdrawal affects the ability of Vista Health to access capital to fund its strategic plan. With higher than anticipated renovation costs at the Saint Therese site, the Vista Health Board of Directors had no choice but to revisit the consolidation site decision.

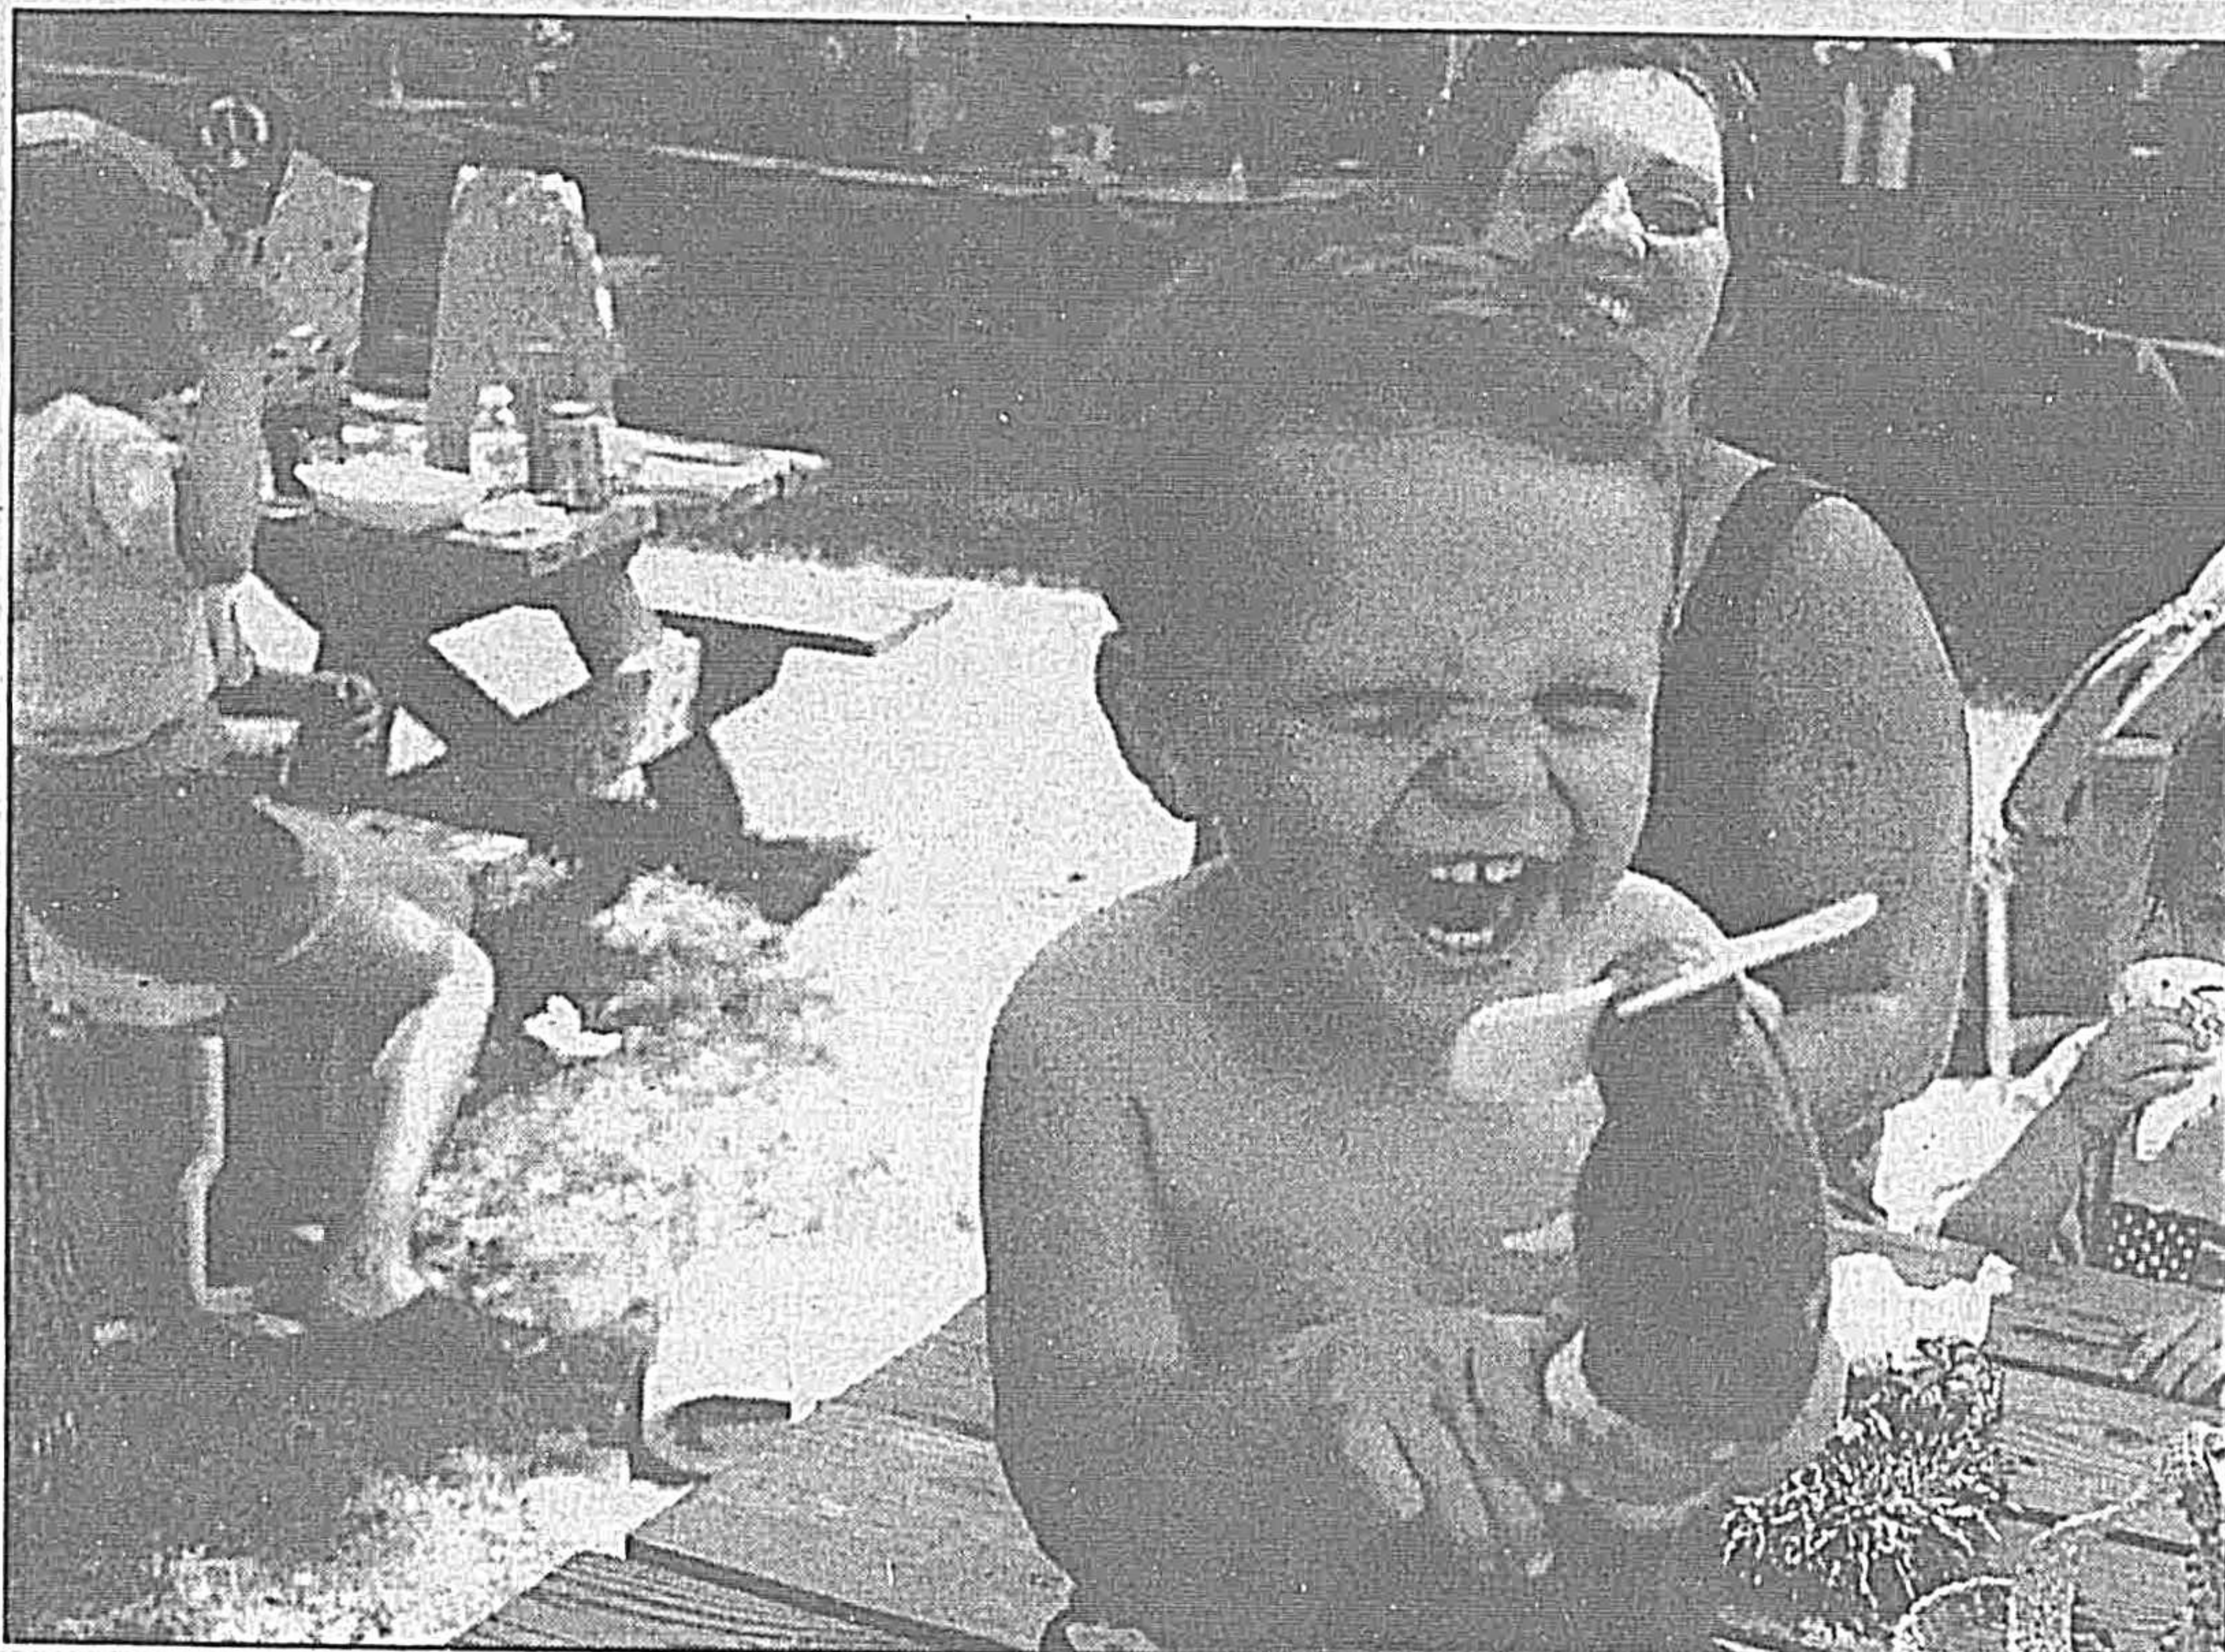

Upon further study and recommendations, it appeared that Vista Health could save at least $17 million on the consolidation project if it took place at the Victory Memorial Hospital location instead of at Saint Therese. Acting in the interest of good fiscal stewardship, the Vista Health Board of Directors has recommended that change.

That decision in no way conflicts with Vista Health's commitment to the people we serve. We will remain a strong healthcare presence in Waukegan. The Victory Memorial Hospital location is central to our lakeshore communities. At the same time, to meet the needs of the northwest Lake County communities our plans to build a hospital in Lindenhurst are moving forward.

For generations the organizations that make up Vista Health, the Provena Saint Therese Medical Center and the Victory Memorial Hospital have been integral to Lake County's health, not only as compassionate, innovative healthcare providers, but also as a major employer and good community neighbor. With the continued support of those we serve, we plan to continue that mission for generations to come.

Sincerely,

Tim Harrington, CEO
 Vista Health

Club hosts garden walk

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Though the Antioch Garden Club is hosting its annual garden walk on July 31, one can stroll through its gardens year round while visiting downtown Antioch.

"The club donated the landscaping to the north and south of the band shell at the William Brook Memorial Wetland Sanctuary and Entertainment Center," said member Karen Kuzmicki.

Kuzmicki said the group designed and planted the landscaping consisting of evergreens, shrubs and ground cover to provide colorful accents to the area.

"Six specimen evergreens were chosen for their unique color, texture and form," she said. "Then we used red rose groundcover and cotoneaster as well as burgundy shrubs to grace the berms in the foreground of the evergreens."

She said the club holds fundraisers to allow it to take on these projects that help to beautify Antioch. "These projects continue to grow and beauty to the community for years to come," she added.

Additional gardens are located at Main St. and Orchard, Orchard and Skidmore and in the walkway that connects Toft St. to Main St. by the J.J. Blinkers.

The club's garden walk will take fanciers to gardens other than those that can be seen by walking the downtown area.

A $20 fee will cover the cost of the tour, including lunch. It will begin at 9:30 a.m. Tickets and additional information can be obtained by calling Nancy Zitkus at 847-395-1202.

The Antioch Garden Club has been in existence since 1995. It meets on the first Monday of the month from September through June at the United Methodist Church at 7 p.m. New members are always welcome.

Antioch high school loses gifted teacher

By CHRISTY BLANDFORD
Staff Reporter

One month after his retirement from 29 years of teaching at Antioch Community High School, Roger Alm lost his two year battle with cancer and colleagues say they will miss the kind man who always had a smile on his face.

"The one thing I will always remember about Roger is that he always had a smile on his face," District 117 Superintendent Dennis Hockney said. "Even during the most difficult days of his illness, he always had a smile on his face."

Alm, 52, who is survived by his wife, Renee, and children Jason, David and Melissa, died June 30, leaving behind a long career in teaching.

After serving in the U.S. Army from 1966 to 1968, Alm graduated with honors from University of Illinois at Chicago and began teaching at ACHS in 1973.

He continued to teach mathematics — despite his illness — until his retirement in May. ACHS mathematics director Sydney Klocke attributes his drive to continue teaching to his strong values and commitment to his students.

"The man wanted to work," Klocke said. "He loved kids. He had very strong faith that allowed him to continue. He had a very strong desire to make sure each kid was successful. He displayed the patience that most people don't have for kids — he was just an awesome guy."

It was this patience with the students that Hockney said made Alm stand out as an extraordinary teacher.

"He was one of my favorite people in my entire career," Hockney said. "He was a teacher who genuinely cared about students. He had a certain feeling about teaching that was a gift — not everybody has this gift, but he had it. He communicated with the students in a way that was really special."

During his nearly three-decade career at ACHS, Alm also coached both boys' and girls' golf, which was another outlet for Alm to display his genuine dedication to his students, Athletic Director Steve Schoenfelder said.

"He was very dedicated to the sport," Schoenfelder said. "He stayed with the kids as much as he could and led by example. He was an outstanding teacher, and outstanding role model and somebody the kids could really look up to and model themselves after."

The annual ACHS golf tournament held each September will be renamed the Roger Alm Invitational in honor of Alm's love for the sport, Schoenfelder said.

As another memorial to the teacher that Klocke described as "thoughtful, generous, respectful, respected, kind and intelligent," a small flowering tree was planted in Alm's honor on the Northwest corner of the ACHS building.

Donations can be made to the Roger Alm memorial fund, an education fund for his three children. Donation envelopes are available in the high school's main office and State Bank of the Lakes in Antioch.

Hockney said the ACHS community is still grieving over the loss of the one of a kind teacher.

"It's a sad time for ACHS to lose someone like Roger Alm — there aren't too many Roger Alms in this world," Hockney said.

Chicken barbecue and auction to be held Aug. 4

The 28th annual Antioch Lions Club chicken barbecue and Antioch Rescue Squad auction will be held on Aug. 4 in Williams Park and promises all the good food, good fun and good deals of the past 26 events.

The proceeds from the food sales go to the Antioch Lions Club to support the community projects and programs it supports. The Lions Club will begin serving chicken at about 11 a.m.

Some of the items that will be up for auction include antique furniture as well as new and used items. "We are still looking for items of auctionable value, or cash donations to purchase items," said Antioch Rescue Squad Chief Wayne Sobczak. "We usually get most of our items in the last week before the auction, so it's hard to say exactly what all we'll have by the time of the event."

Sobczak said the event would run until there is nothing left to auction, typically until 4-5 p.m. Herman Behm will be the auctioneer.

Suspended driver's license

Joseph W. Rocks, 38, of 5384 Bowmanville, Chicago, was arrested for driving with a suspended driver's license on July 7 at 8:33 p.m. on Route 173 east of Deep Lake Road.

An officer was called to the area for a possible DUI and found the vehicle described to have no front registration plate. No signs of alcohol or behavior consistent with DUI were found, but a routine check of Rocks' identifiers through LEADS/SOS came back with information that his driver's license was suspended.

Rocks was arrested and transported to the Antioch Police Department where he was put through booking procedures and issued citations for no front registration plate and for driving while suspended.

He was released on personal recognition pending his Aug. 14 court date.

Reckless driving

Christopher C. Larsen, 18, of 325 E. Depot, Antioch, was arrested for reckless driving on June 26 at 8:53 p.m. south of the state line on Route 83.

An officer was dispatched to the area to assist the Kenosha County Sheriff's Department on a traffic stop.

The Kenosha officer stopped Larsen on a motocross motorcycle for offenses in Kenosha County.

Larsen reportedly failed to stop, driving into Illinois. The officer followed with spotlight on him as he was traveling with no headlights or taillights. Larsen was also said to cross a no passing zone twice and into the oncoming lane, forcing traffic onto the shoulder.

He was arrested and transported to the Antioch Police Department and put through booking procedures and issued citations for reckless driving, driving without lighted lamp, driving without taillights, operation of an uninsured vehicle, driver's license not on person, improper operation of an off-highway motorcycle, disobeying a no-passing zone, no valid registration, violation of classification and failure to wear protective eyewear.

Larsen was released on $200 cash bond pending his Aug. 14 court date.

Warrant arrest

Dallas D. Hodler, 22, of 4708 Williams Street, McHenry, was arrested on warrant on June 26 at 10:30 a.m. at the Antioch Police Department.

He was at the police department for other reasons and expressed concern over possible warrants. Antioch Police confirmed through the Lake County Sheriff's Office that there was an outstanding $10,000 warrant (10 percent applies) for obstructing justice.

Hodler was unable to secure bond and was transported to the Lake County Jail.

High school students' drug involvement 50 percent

In November 2001, the American Drug and Alcohol Survey (ADAS) was administered to about 1,700 Antioch Community High School students within all classes (9-12).

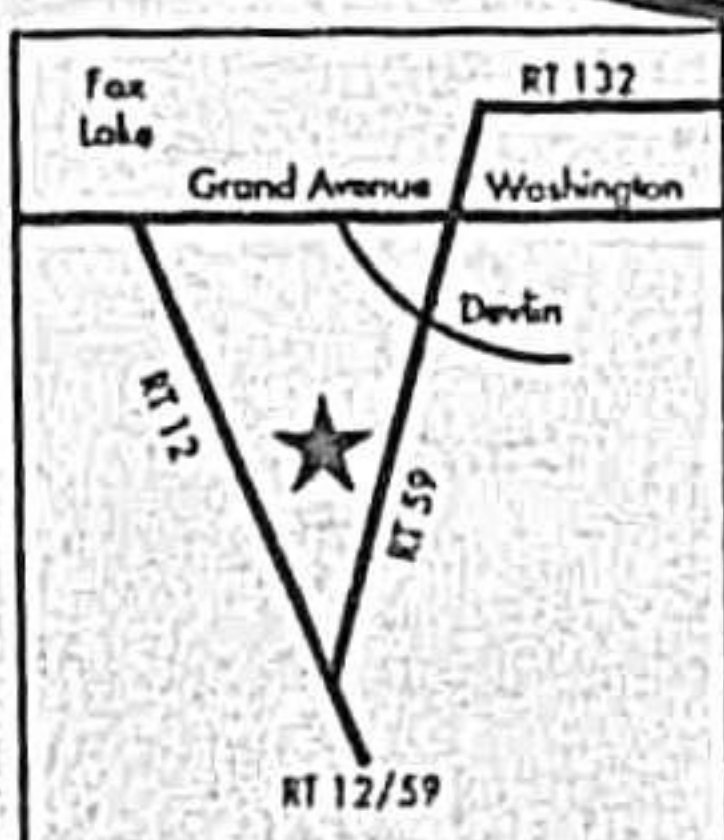

Based on student responses to the survey items, each student was classified into one of four categories that represents their particular experiences with alcohol, tobacco and other drugs. The categories established by ADAS are no, low, moderate and high involvement.

The results are as follows: 50 percent have no involvement, 22 percent have low involvement, 17 percent have moderate involvement and 11 percent have high involvement.

The four faces of freedom

Visiting Mt. Rushmore as a child is an experience I will never forget. The four giant faces carved in stone are those of four United States presidents, George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt. This monument represents the first 150 years of American history.

The four presidents symbolize the principles of liberty and freedom on which our nation was founded.

George Washington our first president was called the "father of his country." He presided over the convention that wrote the U.S. Constitution. Washington represents the struggle for independence and the birth of the republic. In the First Inaugural Address George Washington said, "The preservation of the sacred fire of liberty and the destiny of the republican model of government are justly considered as deeply, perhaps as finally staked, on the experiment entrusted to the hands of the American people."

Thomas Jefferson our third president was the main author of the Declaration of Independence. He represents the idea of government by the people and the territorial expansion of the country. In the Declaration of Independence, Jefferson stated, "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, among these are life, liberty, and pursuit of happiness."

Abraham Lincoln our 16th president is thought by many people to be the greatest of all presidents. He represents the idea of equality for all citizens and the permanent union of the states. Lincoln fought the Civil War in order to save the Union. If the union had failed the world might have decided that democracy did not work. He is remembered for the Emancipation Proclamation in which he freed the slaves. In the Gettysburg Address, Lincoln proclaimed, "It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us - that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion - that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom - and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

NEWS-WORTHY

Theodore Roosevelt our 26th president believed in strong leadership, reform at home, and an assertive foreign policy. He represents the 20th century role of the U.S. in world affairs and the rights of the common man. In his Address at Carnegie Hall, Roosevelt stated, "We, here in America, hold in our hands the hopes of the worlds, the fate of the coming years; and shame and disgrace will be ours if in our eyes the light of high resolve is dimmed, if we trail in the dust the golden hopes of men."

Our first four freedoms

In our Constitutional Amendments, the original ten being the Bill of Rights, the first amendment states our first four freedoms: freedom of religion, speech, press, and assembly.

Our country was founded on the principle of freedom of religion. We are fortunate to have and should take advantage of our freedom to worship.

Freedom of speech gives us the privilege of expressing our opinions. How do you feel about the phrase "One Nation Under God" being taken out of our Pledge of Allegiance? You have the freedom to call, write, or e-mail your senators and congressmen about this issue.

Freedom of the press gives us the opportunity to know what is going on in our country and around the world. We have the freedom to write to the editor of our newspaper to express our opinion on issues that concern us.

Freedom of assembly gives people the right to peaceably assemble.

Additional freedoms

Living in the "land of the free" gives us additional freedoms that we may take for granted. We have the freedom to get an education, choose a career, get married, buy a home, and raise children. We also have the freedom to invest our life into others and make a difference in this world. Stop and thank God today for the many freedoms you have and the privilege of living in this great country!

News for kids

An exciting week is planned for kids age three through 5th grade completed. Children can explore their creativity in art, music, drama, and play. They will hear five different Bible stories. We are a masterpiece of God in "God's Great Gallery" is the theme of the Vacation Bible School. It will be presented by the United Methodist Church at 848 Main Street on Monday through Friday, July 22-26 from 9:00 AM until noon. The registration fee of $10 includes a music cassette. To register call 847-395-1259 by July 15th.

Readers with information for "News-Worthy" should call Sharon Westbrook at 847-395-3079.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Wake up call

I have been subject to a rude awakening, prompted by noticing that the brand spanking new parking lot at the brand spanking new Hillcrest Elementary School was being torn up and piled high.

I decided to go in and ask the workmen what in the world was going on. I find out they're building two new additions to the school, one of which will take up most of the parking lot and that the "new" lot will be built up on the hill. What? The school is one year old.

I went to the school district office and asked as to when this project was approved, and was told "at the last board of education meeting." Isn't a referendum required? No. Developer impact fees are being used. What fees? Neumann homes fees? Oh no, we'll need new schools for that development.

I asked surely you knew one year ago that you were going to add on to a brand new school (deceive the taxpayer?), why did the taxpayers money go down a rat hole putting in concrete curbs, light standards, and asphalt paving just to be torn out again at taxpayers expense? You could have at least left the parking lot gravel.

Incompetency, waste, and deception, the order of the day in Antioch. I used to think it was just a matter of getting the right information to the right people and logical proper decisions would be made. How naive. This week's biblical truth on the St. Ignatius Church sign reads: "Bad trees cannot produce good fruit." I've got the gnawing feeling that the bad fruit that's been surfacing in the last couple of years is beginning to form a pattern that is bigger and more frightening than any of us dare to think about.

Deercrest, Mega-Neumann Homes, Mega-Wal-Mart, school waste. "There's something rotten in Denmark." There's some bad trees in powerful places that need thinning out. Let us not lose courage to stand up in this dark hour of Antioch's history and not be dictated to by those who think they know better than the people what's good for Antioch.

Rain men

By BRENDA BALIN-BEITSCHER Staff Reporter

Local volunteer observers fill in the gaps for the National Weather Service

Bob Dylan said, "You don't need a weatherman to know which way the wind blows." This may be true, but most of us do need a weatherman to know enough about the weather to make our lives work.

Farmers need precipitation information to help plan crops. Sailors and airplane pilots depend on weather reports to help them to navigate safely. Sports enthusiasts need reports on everything from snow consistency to ocean wave height.

Weather tracking is an American institution older than the republic itself. It began with individual observers, as far back as 1644, in a Swedish colony in what later became Delaware. It continued with Benjamin Franklin, George Washington and Thomas Jefferson, who all kept weather records. Jefferson envisioned a national weather observation system as early as 1797, when he outlined a plan for providing instruments to someone in each county of Virginia, so statewide records might be maintained.

Today, in the age of computers and automated meteorology stations, individual personal observation of the weather remains the backbone of the National Weather Service (NWS).

When watching local weather reports on TV, one may wonder if references to "Joe in Lake Villa" or "Phil in Mundelein" imply people poking their heads out of their windows and randomly commenting on the weather.

In fact, local observers are often more accurate than the "official" NWS sites, such as the one at O'Hare Airport.

"The O'Hare site was automated in 1996," explained Lake Villa, Joe or Cooperative Weather Observer Joe Bisek. "The FAA took over staffing, but there aren't enough people to watch the instruments all the time or fix them right away if they break down."

Joe's credibility is like the Rock of Gibraltar. If he says there's 1.59 inches of rain, you know it's true'

Tom Skilling,
WGN-TV meteorologist

The automated equipment sends readings directly to the NWS. Meanwhile, more than 11,400 volunteers make direct observations on farms, in urban and suburban areas, national parks, seashores and mountaintops. Each morning, they send their readings to local media, as well as to an office in suburban Romeoville, where data is collected and forwarded to the National Climatic Data Center (NCDC) in Asheville, N.C., to be tabulated with all other readings in the nation.

Locally, Lake County has five coop observation sites.

Two are rain gauges located in public utilities: one at Antioch's water treatment plant and one at Gurnee's Department of Public Works.

A coop observation station is located at a radio station, WKRS in Waukegan, where Rusty Silber monitors rainfall and temperatures, both for the benefit of local listeners and for the NWS.

Two Lake County observers are individuals: Lake Villa's Bisek, who has been an official observer since 1985, and Mundelein's Phil Rider, an observer since 1997.

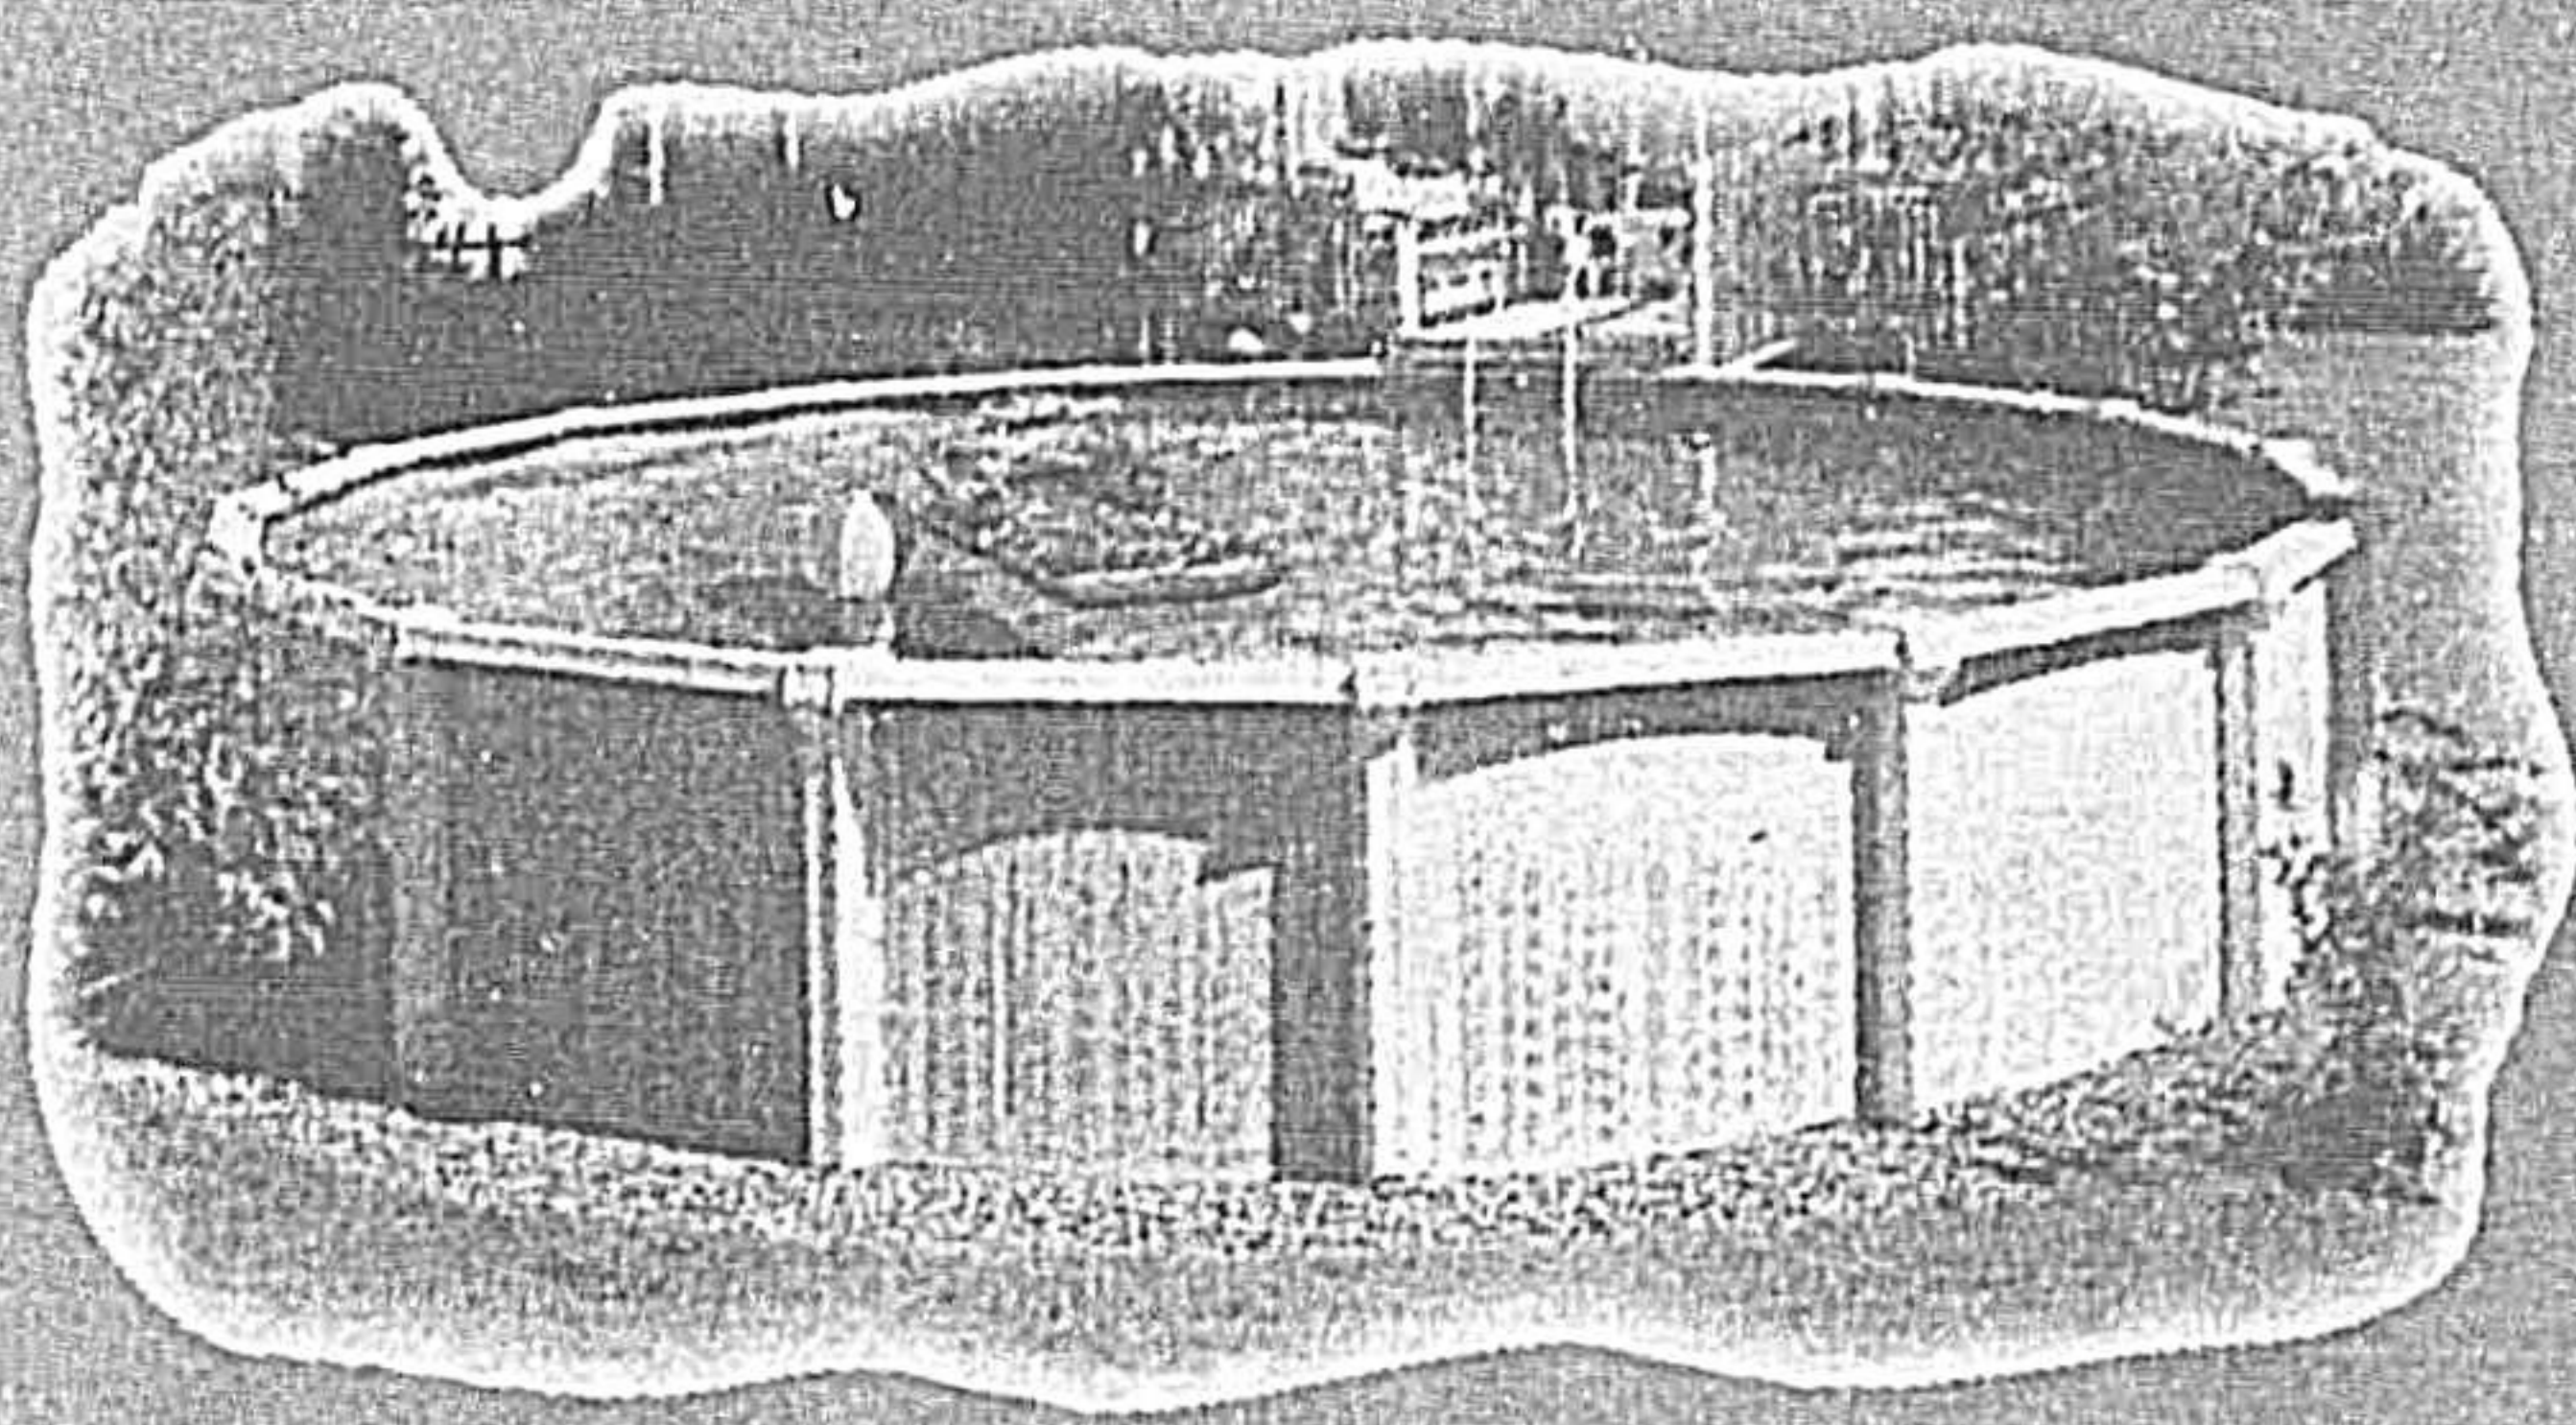

Individual observers come from all walks of life, but all share a profound interest in meteorology. They must do the job for love, because it doesn't pay any money.

The NWS provides each volunteer observer with a standardized 8-inch metal rain gauge and either a set of minimum and maximum thermometers or an electronic MMTS (minimum-maximum temperature sensor). That's it. No stipends, no salaries, no perks—and no hiding from inclement weather.

Perfect grilling with an Asian accent

With barbeque season here in full force, along comes a new book, "Asian Grilling" (William Morrow, 2002) by Su-Mei Yu to give a new twist to a favorite cooking approach.

Bangkok-raised Yu shares 85 satay, kebab and other Asian-inspired barbeque recipes, drawing from her own background and the influences of Vietnamese, Chinese, Indian, Burmese, Laotian and Cambodian cookery. Yu talks readers through grilling meat, fish, salad and fruit.

Chinese-style Chicken is a flavor-packed entree. We couldn't find bamboo leaves but found that corn husks from fresh corn on the cob worked well. A chilled, sweet-and-sour cucumber salad makes a nice accompaniment to this dish.

COOKING by the BOOK

Chinese-style Chicken in Bamboo Leaves

Makes six servings (Pouches can be prepared a day ahead for barbeques)

4 garlic cloves, minced (2 Tbl.)
1 tsp. minced ginger
3 scallions (white and green parts), minced
1 Tbl. five-spice powder
¼ tsp. sea salt
¼ cup Chinese rice wine or dry vermouth
2 Tbl. honey
1 Tbl. soy sauce
1 Tbl. sesame oil
2 lbs. boneless, skinless chicken breasts or thighs, sliced across the grain into ¼-in. strips

Six 18-in. squares aluminum foil
18 dried bamboo leaves, soaked in water for 30 minutes, dried, and trimmed to 9 in. in length, or 14 dried corn husks, soaked in water for 20 minutes, then dried
6 to 7 Napa cabbage leaves, torn into bite-sized pieces
½ lemon, thinly sliced
10 cilantro sprigs, coarsely chopped

Combine garlic, ginger, scallions, five-spice powder, salt, wine, honey, soy sauce and sesame oil in a large zippered plastic bag. Seal the bag and toss back and forth to mix. Add the chicken, seal and toss the bag back and forth until the chicken pieces are well coated with the marinade. Refrigerate for at least 1 hour, or overnight.

Heat the grill.

While waiting for the grill to get hot, remove the chicken from the refrigerator. Line an aluminum foil square with 2 overlapping bamboo leaves. Place a few pieces of cabbage in the center of the leaves. Top with approximately ½ cup of chicken. Garnish with a lemon slice and fold the leaves into a square package. Wrap the aluminum foil around it to make a tight pouch. Repeat with the remaining ingredients.

Rake the hot coals into a mound on one side of the grill. Put the pouches on the rack directly over the hot coals. Grill for 5 minutes, occasionally flipping them carefully. Move the pouches to the empty side of the grill cover and grill-smoke for 15 minutes. Be sure to open the air vents in the top of the grill cover. Unwrap one of the pouches to check if the chicken is cooked; it should feel firm to touch and the juices should run clear when it is pierced with a knife. Transfer the pouches to a serving platter.

Unwrap and transfer the chicken to a platter. Discard the leaves or husks and foil, and serve.

Summer at Symphony Center presents an evening with Bruce Hornsby

Multi-platinum, Grammy Award-winning artist Bruce Hornsby comes to Symphony Center for a special one-night-only performance on Wednesday, July 17 at 8 p.m. Since he emerged in 1986 with his debut album, "The Way It Is," Hornsby has thrilled audiences and critics alike with his wide-ranging musical style, which includes everything from swinging pop to gritty soul.

Hornsby began his career writing music for 20th Century Fox in Los Angeles. In 1986, Hornsby and his band, The Range, released their triple-platinum debut album, "The Way It Is," which produced three hit singles and a Grammy Award. Hornsby's releases have been consistently eclectic and captivating, revealing the head of a pop craftsman and the heart of a virtuosic jazz improviser. His latest release, "Big Swing Face," stretches his creative boundaries again, with a new spirited lightness of tone and irreverence of language.

An Evening with Bruce Hornsby and his Band is part of the new Summer at Symphony Center concert series. Tickets range from $20-$65 and can be purchased by calling 312-294-3000 or visiting the web site at www.cso.org. The Symphony Center is located at 220 S. Michigan Ave. in Chicago.

SPECIAL EVENT

American Cancer Society announces 2002 date for Relay For Life

The American Cancer Society has set a date for the 2002 American Cancer Society Relay For Life of Grayslake. The 2002 event will be held on August 3 and 4 at the Grayslake Community Park District Aquatic Center and Central Park.

The American Cancer Society Relay For Life is an event held throughout the world to raise money to help fund the fight against cancer. It is a unique, family-oriented team event where participants, representing local corporations, clubs, organizations, neighborhoods and families, can walk or run on a track, relay-style, for 16 hours.

Participants camp out overnight around the track, taking turns to ensure a member of their team is consistently represented throughout the 16-hour event. When not taking their turns walking, running or dancing around the track, participants take part in other fun and entertaining activities. Individuals or groups of any size are welcomed to participate. Cancer patients and their families and friends play an important role with their participation, demonstrating that, through the work of the American Cancer Society, the battle against cancer is a winning proposition. A special opening ceremony moment is dedicated to Cancer Survivors and their caretakers being honored and cheered as they kick off the event by taking the first few laps. The American Cancer Society is the nationwide voluntary health agency dedicated to eliminating cancer as a major health problem by preventing cancer, saving lives from cancer and diminishing suffering from cancer through research, education and service.

For further information, please contact Carin Roberts at your American Cancer Society at 847-432-0577.

Have you been feeling like you're getting all of the advantages with none of the responsibilities, Leo? Well, times they are a changing. Expect bumper roads ahead this week.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22

Suspensions have you jumping around like a circus acrobat. Calm down and put your anxiety into perspective, Virgo, or you'll run the risk of burning bridges.

Return of the Mod Squad

Lil Bow Wow stars as Calvin Cambridge who, with the help of a magical pair of sneakers, becomes the NBA's newest (and shortest and youngest) superstar.—Photo by Sidney Baldwin

Calvin (Lil Bow Wow) is a 14-year-old kid and 4 feet 8 inches short who dreams of being in the starting line-up of an NBA team. He gets his chance when a pair of gym shoes, that have seen their best days, are donated to the orphanage where he lives and make their way onto his feet. Inscribed with the initials MJ, he and his buddies are sure the shoes must have belonged to Michael Jordan. They bring magical powers to Calvin and change his game from so-so to the likes of an NBA superstar.

Calvin meets the coach of the sad sack LA Knights, who gives him tickets for seats in the nosebleed section. While at the game, Calvin is the person chosen in a raffle to play a short, one-on-one game during half time with superstar player Tracey Reynolds (Morris Chestnut). Calvin burns Tracey on the court and as a promotional gimmick the team promoter Frank Bernard (Eugene Levy), signs him to a one day contract with orphanage director Stan Bittleman (Crispin Glover). Calvin sinks a last second buzzer beater and the Knights are on their way to filling the stands and winning games.

Coach Wagner (Robert Forster) assigns Tracey as mentor and roommate for Calvin and new lessons are learned by both. Tracey is into me, myself and I and is estranged from his father. Calvin and others in the orphanage only want to be adopted. They would like nothing more than to go home with parents.

"Like Mike" is a two-tier story. One is a cute, rags-to-riches and fame sports saga. The other is a serious story about how children feel about living in a group home where the odds of being adopted are low unless you are young and cute. The older they get the less desirable they are, yet they need and want to be loved just like an infant.

Calvin's key 'mod squad' buddies are Murph (Jonathan Lipnicki) and Reg (Brenda Song), for those of you who remember the popular TV show. When Calvin needs help to assist his NBA teammates win the game that will get them into the playoffs, he calls on the mod squad and Ox (Jesse Plemon) to save the day. Lots of kid action, along the lines of "Spy Kids," makes "Like Mike" an entertaining movie with a message about family and responsibility.

Much of the story is similar to what you'll find in a film like "Hey Arnold! The Movie" and "Jimmy Neutron: Boy Genius." The difference at the end is our hero not only saves the day but the audience cheered and there were tears of joy from the kids that were in the theater. If you are looking for a fun filled, feel good movie, "Like Mike" is for you.

SUNSHINE STATE

Rating

PG-13 for brief, strong language, a sexual reference and thematic elements

Director

John Sayles

Starring

Angela Bassett
Edie Falco
Timothy Hutton
Bill Cobbs
Mary Steenburgen

Corporate real estate development weaves itself into the lives of one community, which long ago separated into two camps: one middle to upper class white and the other middle and working class black. The movie focuses on race in an understated manner. The real topic of discussion is about the money.

The story revolves around the lives and people who surround two women, Desiree (Angela Bassett) and Marly (Edie Falco). Marly manages a local motel and restaurant situated on prime coastal property in the town of Delrona, Florida, which developers are eyeing for expensive condos and smart shops, a la the Hilton Head Island, S.C.

Just down the road in neighboring Lincoln Beach, populated by long time black residents, the fight against encroachment is led by Dr. Lloyd (Bill Cobbs), who tries to motivate his community to protect what they have when most tend to be concerned with just getting through the day. Between predatory buyouts and eminent domain, both communities struggle to have a future other than a footnote in history in the name of economic development.

In Delrona, volunteer do-gooder and wanna be society maven, Francine (Mary Steenburgen) sobs that, "No one realizes how hard it is to create a tradition," as she gets Buccaneer Days jumpstarted in what is now a mall town. The state of both towns is best symbolized by Francine's husband Earl (Gordon Clapp), who has a smile on his face for his wife and the world, but is clearly an unhappy person.

"Sunshine State" is powerful with its many small moments of significance. Flash Phillips (Tom Wright) cruises back into town in a sports car and claims to want to revitalize Lincoln Beach. He tries to buy up land and uses his blackness and money as lures for better times; while in Delrona, real estate salesman Jack (Timothy Hutton) gives Marly a list of reasons why she should sell to the developers he represents. At one point after the two of them have been out drinking and sex is in the air, Marly tells him, "Making love to me when I've had this much to drink is like being at the dentist when you've had Novocaine. You can tell something is going on but you don't know what it is."

When the two of us visit a new place, we like to find out "where the locals go," so the tourist traps can be avoided. If everything becomes some sort of franchise, there may be a day when there are no local places. If there was ever a statement for the maintenance of open space, wetlands and the preservation of old buildings, this is it.

Playing at Renaissance Place Cinema. Highland Park 847-432-9999.

RAIN MEN

"I get bored when the weather is too consistent," said Bisek, who said he rushes outdoors during those very times when most people rush indoors. "I've never slept through a storm in my life," he noted.

The dedication of these volunteers is renowned. Legend has it that an observer in Louisiana was reading a rain gauge on a bridge when he was struck by a truck. Before getting medical treatment, he insisted on calling in his observation to the weather service.

Over time, Bisek has added a few pieces to his personal weather station (aside from the silver Mylar pinwheel, whimsically added by his mother). Bisek's own equipment includes an anemometer (wind velocity gauge), a tipping rain gauge that can measure rain in hundredths of an inch, and two clear rain gauges. These instruments, as well as his barometer, are primarily for his own use. All NWS reports must be obtained from the equipment furnished by the weather service, to insure accuracy and consistency.

Bisek, a market researcher and sales representative by trade, is considered a reliable source in the professional weather community.

"Joe's credibility is like the Rock of Gibraltar," said WGN-TV meteorologist Tom Skilling. "If he says there's 1.59 inches of rain, you know it's true."

Skilling lauded the coop observers for their important role in weather forecasting.

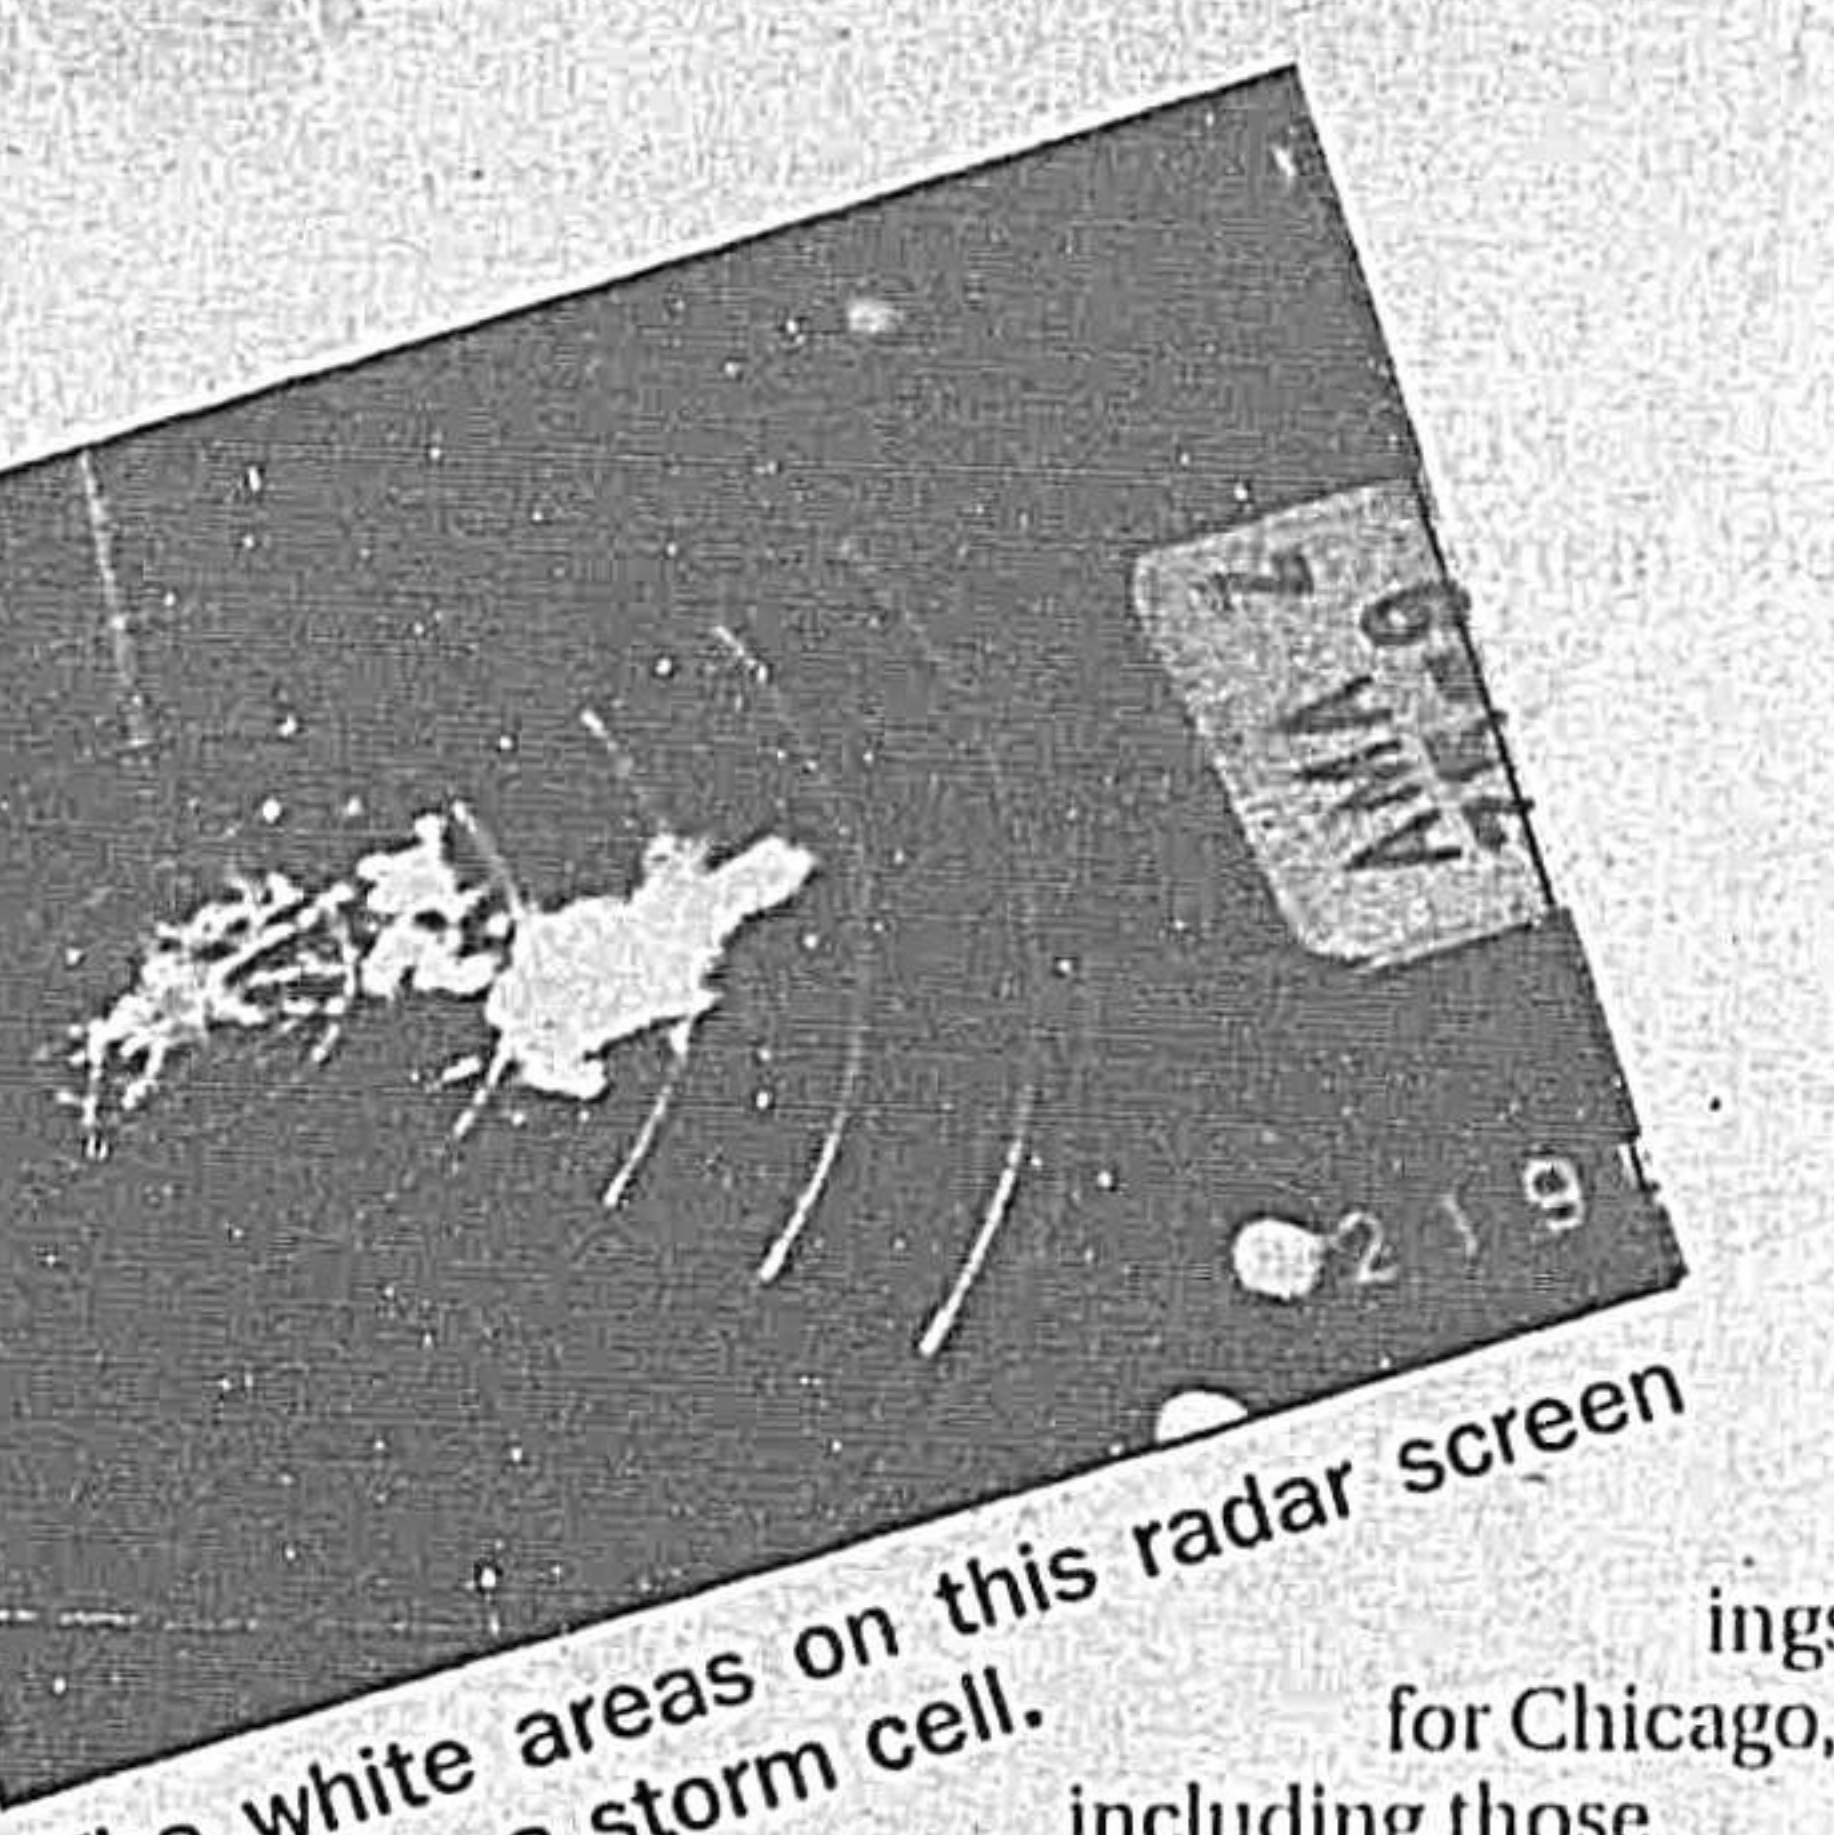

"There's not a day we don't need information from the coop observers," he said. The veteran weatherman explained that suburban temperatures, particularly at night, can vary enormously from those in the city.

Further confusing the issue, the "official" readings for the Chicago area have been based in different locations, at different times.

Frank Wachowski, still considered Midway's official observer, although his observation is now done on a coop basis from his own weather station, recounted the history of the Chicago "official" reading site.

"The center of Chicago, the Loop, was the first site, in 1872," he said. "From 1926-42, it was at the University of Chicago, from 1942-80, it was Midway, and in 1980 it moved to O'Hare."

The repeated relocations have created interpretive problems. While the high and low readings from O'Hare have only been "official" since 1980, readings from the airport are averaged in with all "official" readings including those for Chicago, taken in the Loop in 1875. The variation between average temperatures in the Loop and at either of the two airports is substantial, thus distorting the statistical averages, and sometimes causing records to erroneously be reported as "broken."

The white areas on this radar screen indicates a storm cell.

The coop observers provide consistency, as many have been reporting temperature and precipitation for 100 years or more from the same location.

Aside from tracking weather trends for NWS analysis and prediction, coop observers are considered expert witnesses and sources of reliable information in legal cases.

In one instance, a hog farmer's livelihood depended on a coop observer's log. When a severe thunderstorm hit farms south of Joliet, a large number of the farmer's hogs were killed. The insurance investigators settled the claim based on the information provided by the weather observer.

Bisek recalled a chocolate manufacturer who needed temperature readings to determine the best time to ship his wares to avoid melting.

Observers have been called as expert witnesses in civil cases, criminal trials and coroner's inquests. They also provide information to private weather reporting firms, such as Pennsylvania-based Accu-weather.

Next time you head out the door, grabbing your umbrella as you go, remember who gave you the heads up: it was Joe from Lake Villa—or maybe Phil from Mundelein—or one of the other 11,000 men and women who watch the rain.

This year, the musical performances will be held at the band shell in downtown Antioch, which Porch said will allow people to enjoy the music more comfortably.

"People will now be able to enjoy the grassy area of the park rather than sitting on the pavement," Porch said. "It's also just a very pretty location."

On Thursday, Mr. Meyers, a Caribbean rock group, will perform their calypso, reggae and rock and roll music starting at 7 p.m. The group encourages audience participation and their music is designed for music-lovers of all ages.

Friday night's performance will mark the return of US99's Wild Bill Garcia and the Country Roads Band, which Porch said was "extremely popular" in past years. The group, which features "the man of 100 voices," Billy Handcock, will hit the stage July 19 at 8 p.m.

On Saturday, Porch said teenagers and young adults will be treated to the sounds of local bands including guitarist Jack Lorraine, Standard Gauge featuring Eric Liebert, Danielle Stahl Vocals, Popatrons breakdancing group and the band Grease.

Saturday's main event will bring BBI Live, a rock and roll and classic rock band, back to the Taste after a run of several years as the main concert event of the festival. The band hits the stage with their rock hits at 8 p.m.

On Sunday, a new band will be introduced to the Taste at 4 p.m. The Saxophones, a seven piece band with three saxophonists will introduce their classic rock, soul and swing sounds to listeners following a performance by the Lakes Area Community Band at 1 p.m.

The festival will also feature sidewalk sales from downtown Antioch shops from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Thursday and Friday, 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Saturday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

Porch said other entertaining activities at this year's Taste of Antioch will include bingo on Thursday and Friday afternoon as well as a dunk tank ready to cool off the crowd each evening.

Because of the variety of events scheduled for this year, Porch encourages those who like a variety of entertainment to attend.

"There are a lot of different activities for people," she said. "There should be something of interest for a variety of people."

PRINCIPAL

and was key when he decided to accept the offer as such.

"It says a lot about a district that it is willing to bring parents, students and teachers together to work toward changes in the future," he said. "It's a very exciting process."

Achievements, particularly where technology is concerned, added to Crawford's interest to come to ACHS. "About three years ago, a team from Deerfield came to Antioch to see what was being done and came back with glowing reports about the school. There's a lot to be proud of with what has already been done here," he said.

Crawford previously served as principal of Deerfield High School and continues to live in that area.

"My wife is superintendent of schools in Glencoe," he said.

"The commute to Antioch is, in the truest sense, a reverse commute. It's really not that bad."

No average Joe

When one thinks of golf, especially Chicago golf, Joe Jemsek's name has and will always have a permanent place.

The long-time pioneer of the game, if you will, passed away at age 84 just a few short months ago.

But the mark has been left. It was even greater in magnitude with the Western Open having just concluded. The Western, played at the prestigious and historic Cog Hill Golf Club in Lemont, has been site of the PGA Tour event for 12 years running. It runs deeper, though, because it's Jemsek's course. He acquired it in 1951.

The man they referred to as "Mr. Public Golf," Jemsek actually owned five golf courses. It started when he bought St. Andrews in West Chicago in 1939. In the years to follow, Jemsek added Glenwoodie (in Glenwood) in 1959, Pine Meadow in Mundelein in 1985, and finally Summer Grove in Nenan, Ga. in 1998 to his arsenal.

Why was he called "Mr. Public Golf"? Sure, all of these nationally known and top-flight venues are public facilities.

But before Jemsek came along, many of the luxuries such as playing well-maintained courses while enjoying great service, food and drinks were enjoyed only by private club members. But Jemsek started the trend. Numerous other public golf operators picked up on it, raising their standards as to accommodate and provide top-notch service to the public.

Further reflections on the wonderful career this guy had are endless. And should be. Personal accolades, national awards for certain holes, if not the one of his courses—you name it, he did it.

Some of Jemsek's most decorated awards and recognitions involve Cog Hill, especially when it comes to Dubsdread, one of four courses at the south suburban facility. That's the course the Western is played on. Dubsdread is currently ranked No. 4 among America's Best Modern Courses by Golf Week Magazine. Golf Digest ranked Dubs as one of America's Greatest 100 Courses the year before that.

And the course and facility is only as good as the man running it. Jemsek received numerous individual accolades, like 1991 Illinois PGA Golf Professional of the Year or election into the Illinois Golf Hall of Fame in 1989 or induction into the Chicago Sports Hall of Fame two years later.

On top of that, Mr. Public Golf was just an all-around good guy. He was very friendly and always went out of his way to assist.

Six years ago I called up Jemsek wanting to play Dubsdread. The course was filled with tee-times. But Jemsek, much to my unknowingness, extended the offer to play neighboring Glenwoodie. Many people wouldn't go out of their way to help the ordinary, or average Joe.

Makes sense. Jemsek himself certainly wasn't your average Joe.

The College of Lake County will be conducting athletic physicals on Wed., July 24 from 4-7 p.m. in the Physical Education Center. The cost is $25. Checks should be made payable to Condell Medical Center. Please call 847-543-271 for further information.

Devil contingent dominates Warren Jr. Open tennis

By ROB BACKUS
Staff Reporter

Although around 40 kids from all over Lake County competed in the 5th annual Warren Jr. Open, Warren's contingent came out in the heaviest numbers and dominated the competition.

The event, although not sanctioned by the USTA, gave Lake County boys a chance to compete in tournament format in five different divisions: 18-and-under singles, 15-and-under singles, 12-and-under singles, 18-and-under doubles and 15-and-under doubles.

"I thought the tournament went great," said Warren boys' varsity coach Greg Cohen. "A lot of kids played a lot of tennis and they played some great matches."

Warren sophomore Karol Kocemba was a double winner, taking the titles in both the 18-and-under and 15-and-under divisions by defeating Warren senior Joe Doreza (6-3, 6-2) and Antioch sophomore Robert Reynolds (6-7 (3-7), 6-2, 6-1), respectively.

"Karol played really well," said Cohen. "He beat some of the best competition around, especially in the 18's. It was very important for him going into next season."

Cohen was also very complimentary of Reynolds, despite the fact that Reynolds will be the opposition next spring.

"If I was the Antioch coach, I would be looking at Reynolds very carefully," said Cohen. "He's a phenomenal athlete, a great competitor and a very special kid."

Warren junior Dave Martinez took the consolation title by besting Warren senior Brian Early 4-6, 6-3, 7-5 in the finals.

Libertyville and Carmel were well represented in the consolation bracket of the 15-and-under division as Libertyville sophomore Jon San topped Carmel freshman Nick Smith 3-6, 6-4, 6-0 in the finals.

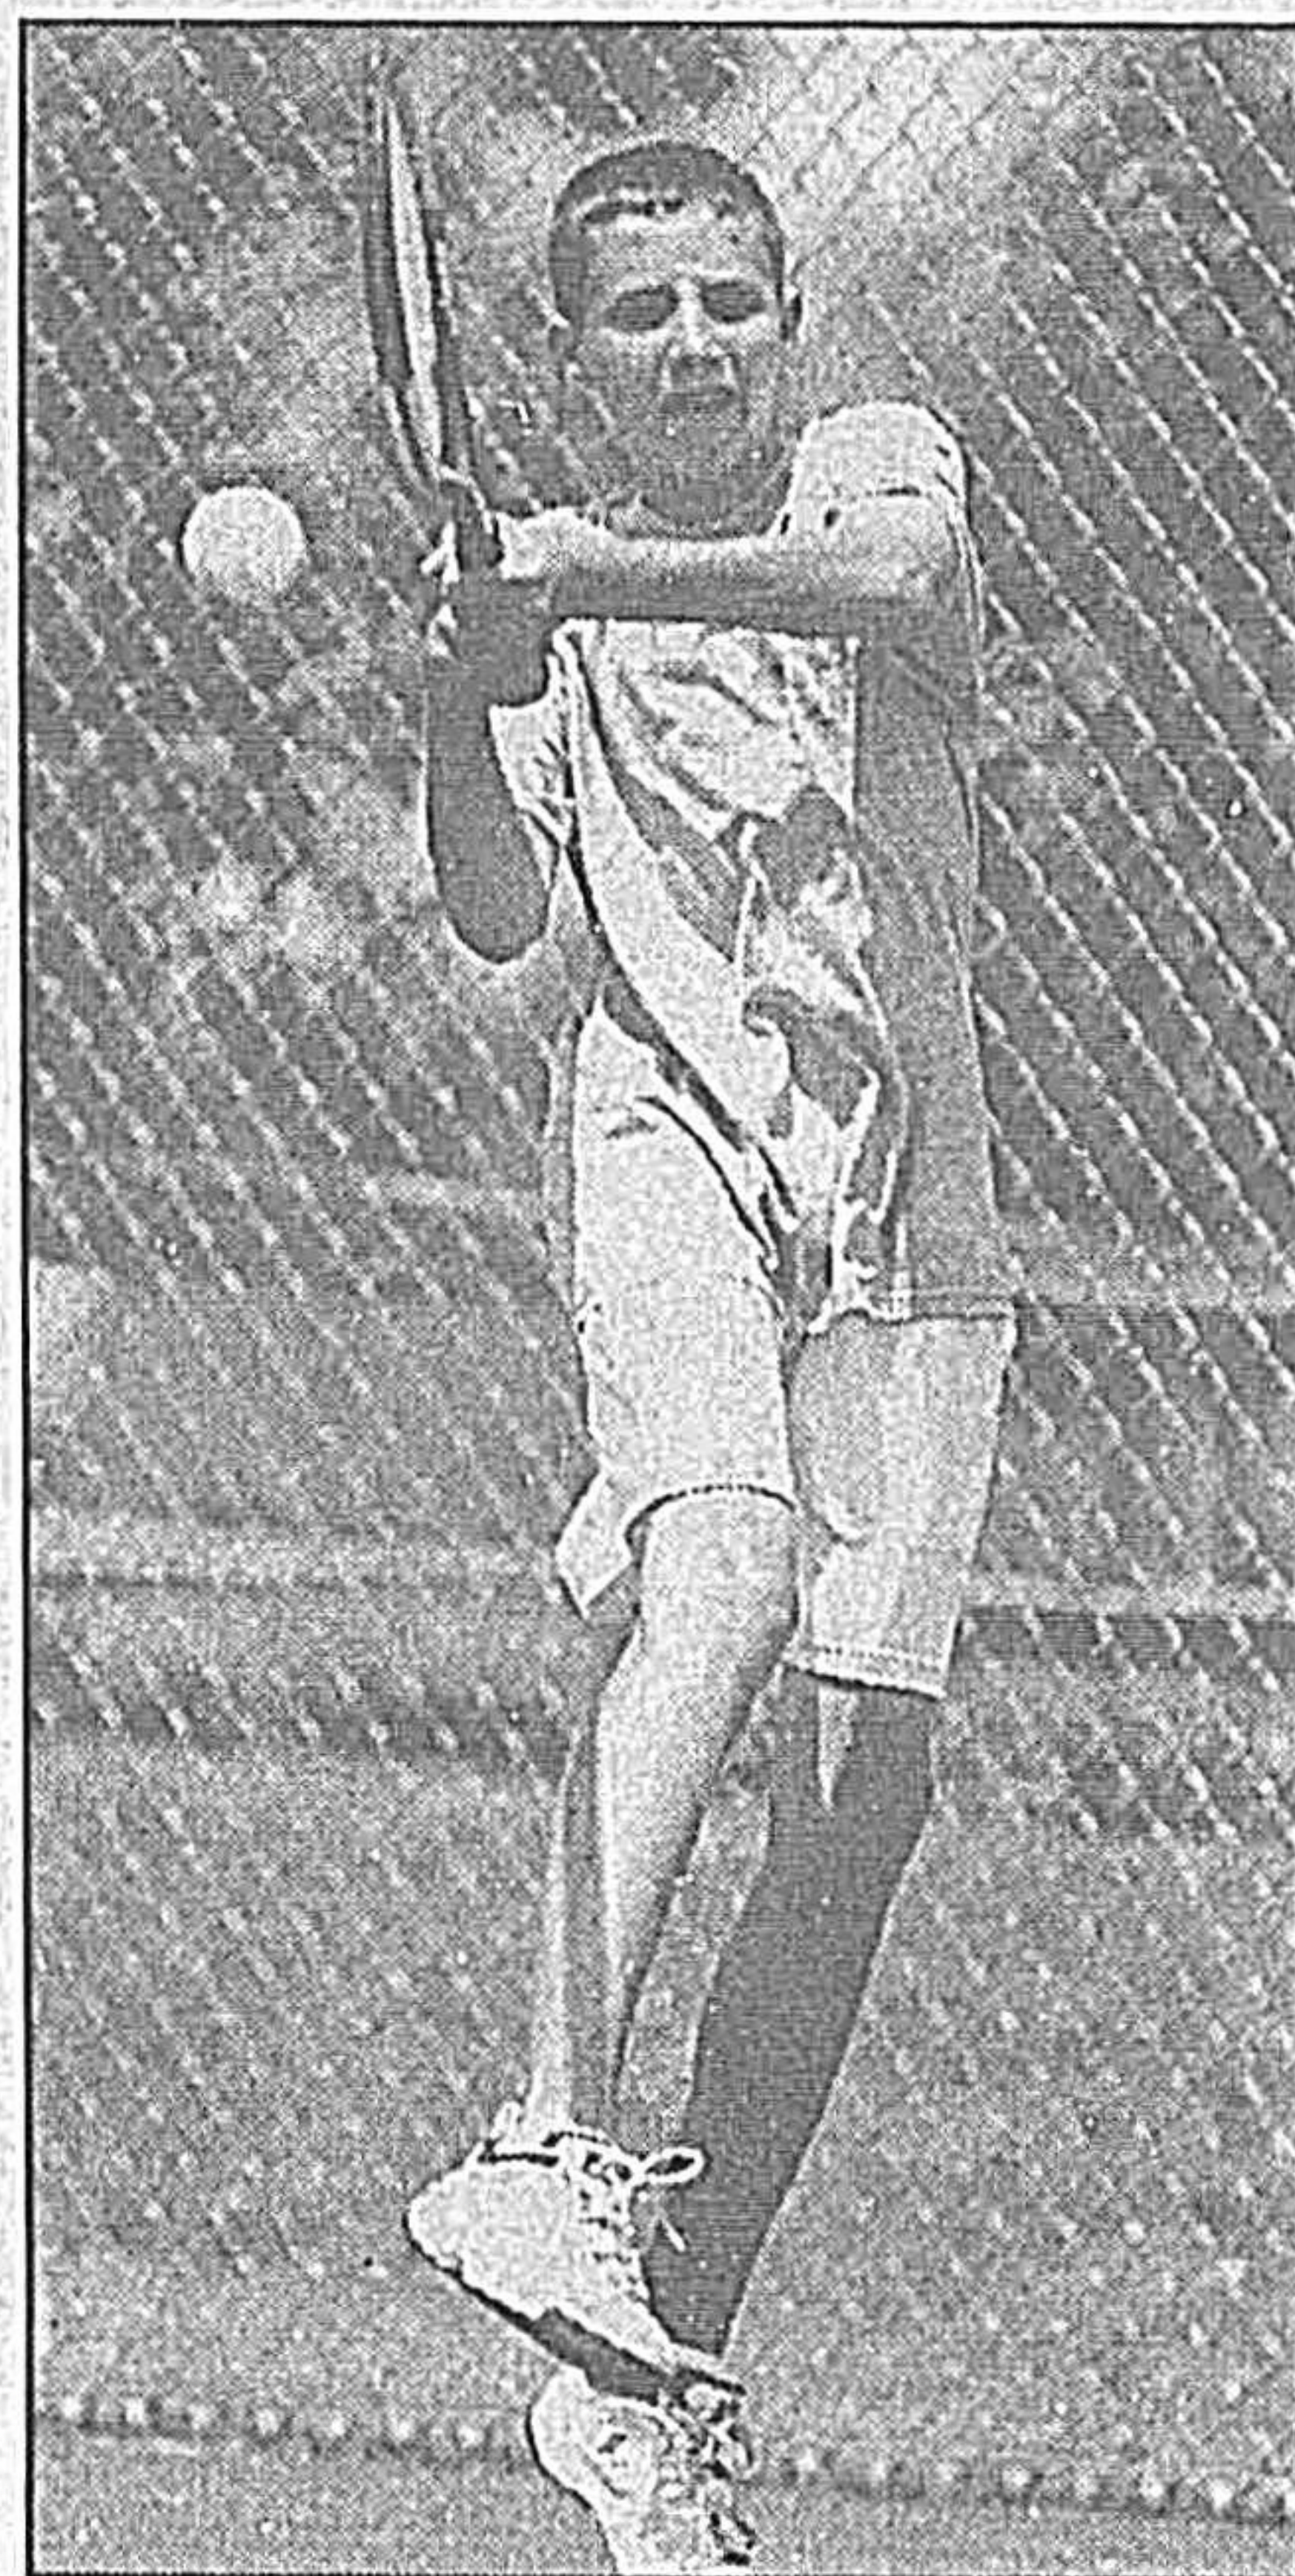

Gurnee's Chris Kuchar was awarded the title in the 12-and-under division for the best results for a 12-year-old in the 15-and-under division.

Doreza also teamed up with Warren senior Bill Baluyot to defeat Early and Martinez 6-4, 6-2 to take the title at 18-and-under.

Warren freshman Dan Blaul combined with Warren junior Cory Mlinac to beat Warren sophomore Brian Silverstein and Reynolds 7-6 (7-3), 6-1 to take the title in the 15-and-under division.

Afterwards, Cohen spoke highly of both Mlinac and Silverstein.

"Mlinac is one of my toughest kids and one of my hardest workers," said Cohen. "I also thought Silverstein had a great tournament. After seeing him, I not only believe he'll become a good player, but he could eventually be a top-32 player at state."

Alm was one great man

By JOE PRUSKI
Correspondent

Former Antioch Community High School teacher and coach Roger Alm died Sunday, June 30, after a long battle with cancer.

Alm, who retired just last month to concentrate solely on his health, passed away last week at the age of 55 after a long battle with cancer. He leaves behind his wife Renee and three children: Jason, David and Melissa.

Visitation was held on July 2 at Immanuel Baptist Church in Gurnee. Funeral Services were held the following day, also at Immanuel Baptist with burial afterwards at Hillside Cemetery in Antioch.

Alm served Antioch High School as a math teacher for 29 years, with nearly half of those years spent as head golf coach for both the boys and girls teams at different times.

Alm served in the U.S. Army from 1966-68, where he received numerous honors. After the service, he attended the University of Illinois-Chicago where he graduated with honors before coming to Antioch High in 1973.

At Antioch High, Alm's highlights as a coach include his 1995 conference championship, which he considered his greatest achievement as a coach. Alm gave up his coaching job in 1998 due to sickness.

"He was a perfect example of someone who lived life by the principle 'do unto others as you would want others to do unto you,'" said Antioch Athletic Director and Assistant Principal Steve Schoenfelder. "You don't find a lot of people like that."

Last month, the Antioch High School athletic department decided to rename the annual ACHS Invitational, played at Spring Valley Country Club, to the Roger Alm Golf Invitational. The school also planted a tree on the campus in his honor.

According to his students and former player's, Alm was a truly unique individual who always put others before him.

"He (Alm) was one of the nicest people you'll ever meet," said former Sequoit golfer Mike Baba. "He would do anything for anyone. The world lost a great person, someone who really made a difference. He took his own time out to help you understand, whether it be math or golf."

Donations can be made to the Roger Alm Memorial Fund, an education fund for Alm's three children, at State Bank of the Lakes in Antioch. Donation envelopes are available in the High School's main office.

Indians split

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Yes, Wisconsin and Illinois folks can come together for a common cause.

The Kenosha Senior Indians under-18 team is competing this summer with a 50-50 mix of players from north and south of the border. The goals: to secure scholarships, improve play and build team unity with a challenging schedule.

"We want to help them to get scholarships. Even when they are not playing, they are working hard at some aspect," said Paul Gagliardi, head coach.

Lake County players, just graduated from high school, include; Grant grads Eric Lemcke, Larry Gempp Jr. and catcher Brendan Lutz, Mundelein's Clay Kovac, Grayslake's Scott Wold and Sean Schuler and Chris Malec, both former Antioch Sequoits.

The Indians worked during the Fourth of July holiday, with a split against the rival Racine Hitters. After a 5-3 Indians win in game 1, the Hitters rallied for a 2-1 win in the nightcap.

The team splits its games between Kenosha and at College of Lake County. It plays in the Springfield tournament July 11-14 before traveling to Racine for a return date with the Hitters at 6 p.m. July 16.

Lake Villa Storm 10s cruise to Brookfield championship

Team hosting AABC State tourney July 10-13

A relentless hitting attack, solid pitching and stingy defense propelled the Lake Villa 10-year-old Storm traveling baseball team to the championship at last week's Brookfield, Wisconsin tournament. In doing so, the Storm avenged a pair of losses they had suffered early in the season and showed they are primed for the upcoming AABC State Tournament which they host July 10-13 at the Lake Villa Baseball Complex, Grass Lake Rd., Lake Villa.

The tournament will feature eight teams: three from Springfield, two from Rockford, and three from locally-run Mike's Memorial League, including area powers Vernon Hills and the Storm.

In the Wisconsin tournament, Lake Villa opened against the host team with a barrage of hits in the opening frame and immediately showed just how unfriendly they would be as guests. Kyle Bessa and Cam Lerina led off by reaching base safely and were driven in by ropes hit by Nick Hibbing and Paul Poirier. Mark Ortman followed with a run scoring grounder to stake the Storm to a 3-0 lead.

Elmbrook quickly answered with a pair of runs in the second but Hibbing, who fanned two of their next three hitters, thwarted their rally.

The Storm stretched its lead in the third and fourth innings led by Poirier and Ortman. Each had a pair of hits as Poirier rattled the fence with a run scoring triple. Ortman followed with a blast into the right field corner and flew around the base paths for an inside the park homer.

Poirier relieved Hibbing on the mound in the third. He blanked Elmbrook for two innings. With the Storm holding a comfortable 10-2 lead in the sixth inning, Elmbrook mounted a comeback.

They plated five runs to draw within three runs, but their rally was squelched by Alex May, who shut down their last two hitters in order to secure a 10-7 victory.

The Storm bats remained hot in Saturday's final game against the Waukesha Braves as they opened up a six run lead in the first inning, led by a leadoff double by Bessa and a run scoring triple by Kevin Smiley. It was more of the same in the second as Bessa once again led things off with his second double followed by RBI singles by Hibbing and Poirier and the Storm was cruising to an 11-0 lead.

Bessa added a homer in the third to cap off a perfect game at the plate. Jerina, Hibbing, Poirier and Ortman joined him in the multiple hit attack.

Waukesha's bats were silenced throughout the game by May and Cale St. Clair as the Braves could muster only two runs. The tandem struck out a combined seven hitters in four innings of work, supported by a defense that was flawless, led by Brian Serio and John Schenning, who anchored the middle.

Sunday's blistering heat did nothing to stifle Lake Villa's assault on the baseball. The Racine Erickson jumped ahead with two runs in the first for a lead they would enjoy for a very short time. Lake Villa answered with a three-run second as St. Clair drove in two with a single up the middle. They put the game out of reach in the third and fourth with timely hitting and stellar bunting and base running. Hibbing, Bessa and Poirier tickled the fence with extra base hits while Schenning, Jerina and A.J. Metzger frustrated the Ericksons with some "small" ball.

Racine's offense was quieted by May and Hibbing as they entered the final frame trailing 11-4. They mounted a mild threat in the their half but the Storm's Ryan Noon quickly shut the door on any comeback, securing a rematch with Elmbrook in the championship game.

Noon continued his mastery on the mound as he shut down Elmbrook in the first, aided by an inspiring inning ending double play from Hibbing in center field, who cut down a runner trying to advance to third on a flout.

Riding an emotional high, the Storm promptly took matters into their own hands in the bottom half, scoring six runs before Elmbrook knew what hit them. Bessa doubled down the third base line. Lerina then laid down a perfect bunt and scurried to first, Hibbing laced a double, scoring two, followed by an Ortman single. Smiley doubled, Schenning singled while May finished off the scoring with a run producing double.

The Storm never looked back as they scored another run in the second and five more in the fourth. St. Clair and Poirier put the finishing touches on a superbly pitched game that was buoyed by tantalizing defensive play.

The Storm is sponsored by, among others, F.E. Moran, Nosco Printing and Little Dreamers Dress Up.

Bronco Travelers World Series bound

The explosive 12-year-old travelers from the Lake Villa Lightning took a trip to Omaha Nebraska to play in a tournament against some elite teams from around the country—it came home with some unexpected results. The team's top-notch play over a four-day period awarded them with a World Series berth.

Their first victory came at the hands of the Fort Collins, (Colorado) Crocs. The are a highly ranked team that was not used to losing. In an errorless game the Lightning won 6-4. Next up were the nationally ranked Kansas City Outlaws. Playing them tough for five innings, the Lightning couldn't hang on before the Outlaws prevailed 13-5 after one big inning.

The next game is where Manager Rich Coles said his team played the biggest game of their lives.

"We were out ranked and up against a wall with the next team," Coles said. "The Quad City Hitmen from Iowa are ranked in the nation and are the Iowa state champs of Iowa. They (Iowa) we also knew that we were eliminated with one more loss. But our team played with the never-say-die attitude and with a lot of heart."

"It came down to the last inning and we were down by two runs," continued Coles. "We not only tied it with a suicide squeeze play, we executed a second suicide squeeze to win it." "I don't think in all my 14 years of coaching I was more impressed with a group of young men as at that moment."

In its next game, the championship semifinals, the Lightning were eliminated by the state's No. 1 team, the Homer Heat.

But the Lightning's performance in this tournament and an eighth-place finish out of approximately 300 teams in the state of Illinois elevated them to the World Series in Hutchinson, Kan., beginning July 21.

"Being the first to go from the area makes it special," Coles says. "We are up against 40 of the best 12-year-old teams in the nation. They are a motivated and hardworking team. I know this team. They are not going out there to just play—they are going out there to win."

The talented players of the Lake Villa Lightning 12-year-old Travelers included: Jimmy Clancy, Eric Vazquez, Randy Ratajczyk, Joey DeBernardis, Alex Coles, Kyle Stroup, Brice Walsh, Joe Burg, Dan Andrews, Jomar Vazquez, Brent Gruber and Kyle Frye. The coaching staff includes Jim Clancy, Ken Ratajczyk, John Debernardis and Manager Rich Coles.

The Lightning would like to thank the most dedicated "Traveling Parents" ever. Also the 70 to 75 game schedule would not be possible without the support of our special sponsors: ULINE Shipping Supplies Specialist, North Shore Lending Group, Prime Time Saloon & Eatery, Awards by Kaydan, Grass Lake Grocery, Limerick Lounge, Marten Petersen Company, Premier Data Network, Robert E. Frank Real Estate and Port of Blarney. T & A Builders, and State Representative Tim Osmond (R-Antioch).

The Lake Villa Lightning is currently looking for additional sponsors to help offset the costs for this weeklong tournament. If interested in a donating to help these kids please contact Coles 847-356-0834.

Runner dies in 5K run

Antioch—While heat and humidity may have caused some of the 1,251 runners and walkers to experience dizziness or dehydration, Gerald Zdanowicz, 37, of Grayslake, died of a heart attack yards from the finish line of the 5K Run for Freedom. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Victory Memorial Hospital on July 4. A memorial fund has been established for the Zdanowicz family. call 847-395-2700 for more information.

Route 45 progress has its price

Lindenhurst—In the case of an improved section of Route 45, north of Route 132 (Grand Avenue), the price was about 10 feet of land, and relief from a couple of well-intentioned ordinances. MB&T Properties, owners of the retail strip anchored by RJB Automotive, annexed into Lindenhurst just a year ago, discovered they could not safely and sanely follow Lindenhurst's rules given the loss of a 10-foot strip of frontage absorbed into the state right-of-way for Route 45.

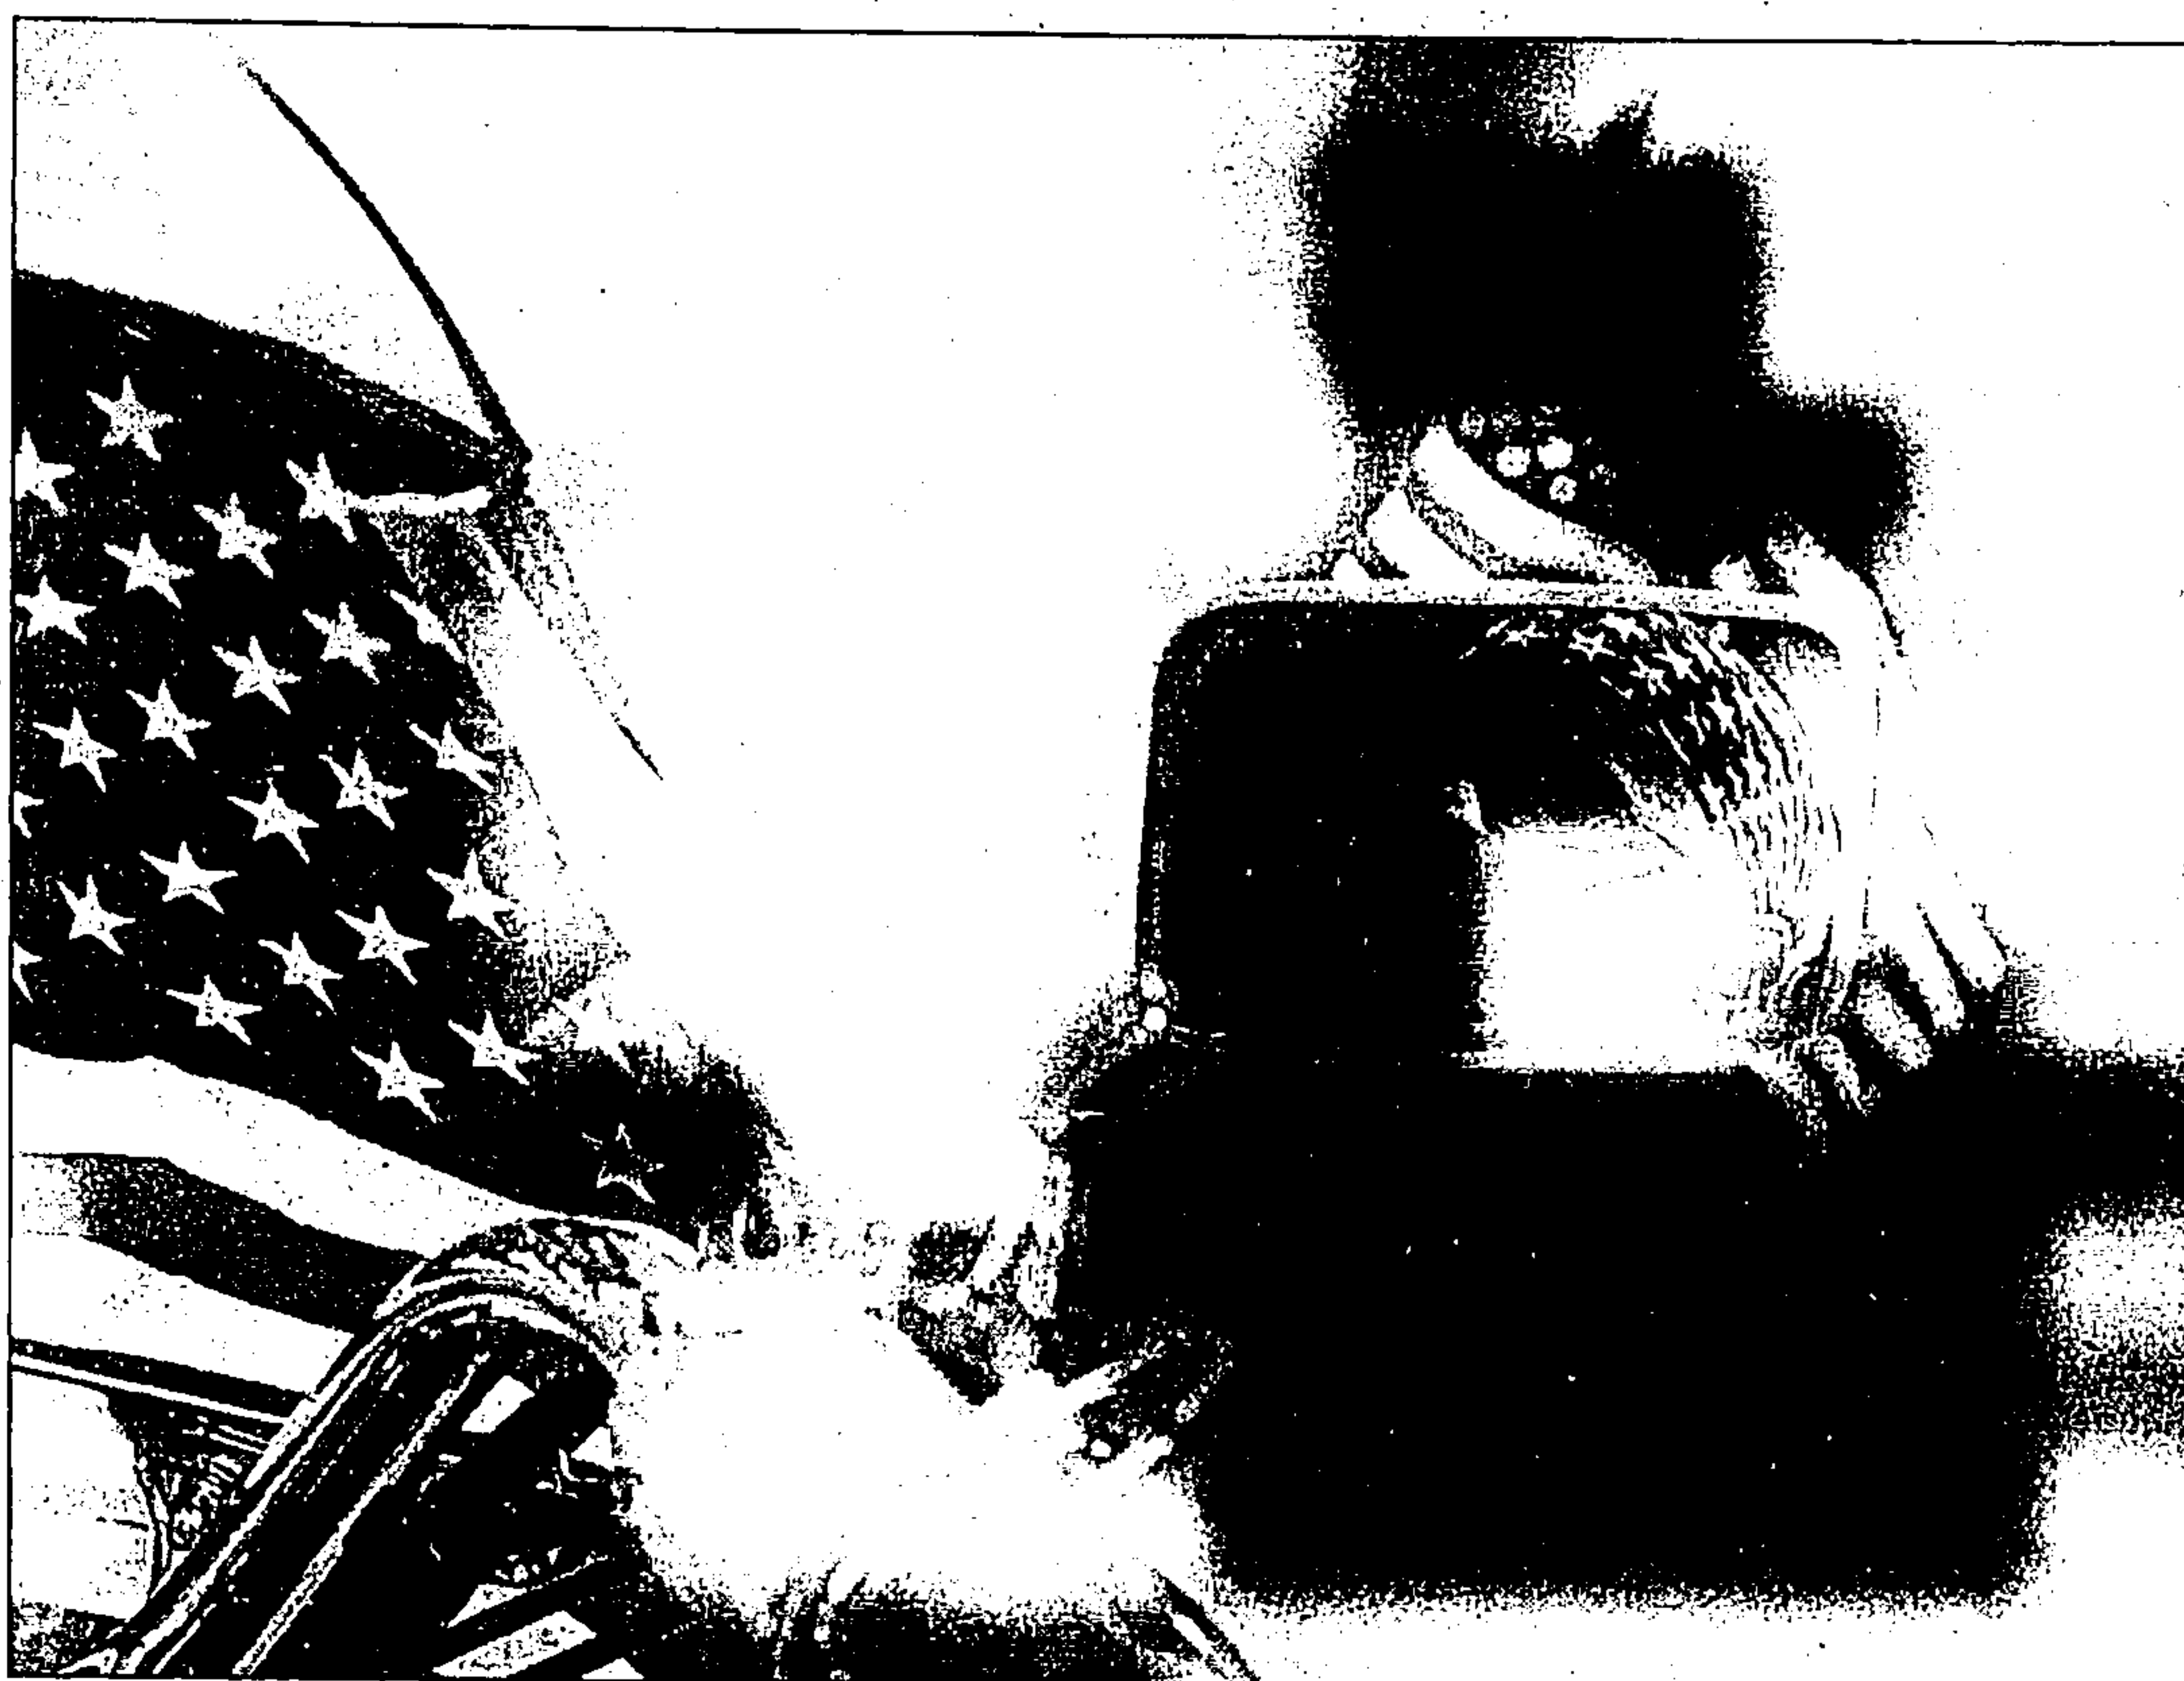

Armed robber caught after crash

Libertyville—A multi-jurisdictional police chase of an armed robber from Wisconsin ended when the suspect crashed his car into a Libertyville squad car, sending the officer inside to the hospital. The chase, starting in Kenosha County, followed the suspect, Roy P. Ballwanz, Jr., 46, of Salem, Wis., into Illinois. An injured officer was taken to Condell Medical Center, where he was treated for a head injury and released. A second officer was injured during the booking process. Ballwanz allegedly robbed the Superb Video store in Somers, Wis.

Cowboys in town for annual rodeo

Wauconda—This year's Wauconda Rodeo will be July 12, 13 and 14 at Golden Oaks Farm, Route 12 and Case Road. About 2,000 people usually attend the show, now in its 39th year.

Gurnee wants value for its dollar

Gurnee—A proliferation of Lake County attractions has caused the village of Gurnee to review the amount of money it gives to the Lake County Convention and Visitors Bureau. Gurnee has been contributing approximately $150,000 per year from hotel/motel taxes. Mayor Don Rudny said a lot of new hotels are being built, but a lot of other communities are not contributing. A state law mandates that a portion of hotel tax revenue is supposed to be used to promote tourism.

New subdivision in the works

Grayslake—From Drury Lane to just past Rollins Road, a new subdivision will provide a stretch of homes. At least, that is what the initial sketches for the Pulte Home Corporation show. Approximately 130 homes are planned for three neighborhoods in the development. The number of homes has been reduced from the 150+ initially planned.

Township questions need for donated land

Grant Twp.—Not wanting to be in the real estate business, Grant Township officials are looking for ways to get rid of property accumulated over the years through gifts and abandonment. Officials raised the possibility of selling some of the real estate and using the proceeds for Field of Dreams improvements, a sports complex.

Cambridge facing pollution charge

Wooster Lake—Wooster Lake residents are calling for the Lake County Stormwater Management Commission (SMC) to prevent what they say is the destruction of their recreation lake by Cambridge Homes due to illegal stormwater drainage. Homeowners charged that Cambridge Homes is in violation by running silt-laden stormwater from Bruce Lake, a man-made pond on the premises of a new townhome development, directly into the lake in violation of agreements.

CATS wants public input on 2030 plan

Public transit use, attitudes crucial to plan work

Sewage spill blamed for beach closings

By MARC JENKINS
News Editor

A lightning strike on a residential transformer this week is believed to have caused between 200,000-300,000 gallons of sewage to leak from a North Shore Sanitary District pump house into Lake Michigan.

After ComEd crews shut down a transformer, which was struck by lightning Monday night, the ensuing lack of power to pumps caused a sewage overflow at Lake Bluff's Sunrise Beach, which was immediately closed by the Lake County Health Department.

"The E. coli test at the Lake Bluff Beach is very high," said Leslie Piotrowski, LCHD spokesperson. "The other beaches, I can't say that (the sewage spill) it's totally attrib-

Watersheds now defined

By JEFF ZACHARY
Staff Reporter

Most people are familiar with tool sheds and wood sheds but not everyone is knowledgeable about watersheds.

"A watershed is defined as any area that drains into a specific body of water," said Jason Obergfell, watershed engineer.

In order to help educate the public on this matter, the Lake County Stormwater Management Commission (SMC) and the Lake County Department of Transportation have partnered up to phase in watershed signs throughout the county defining what watershed people live in and the valuable resources that need protecting.

SMC has chosen the Fish Lake Drain

Watershed and the Squaw Creek Watershed for signage as part of its new watershed management process. Fish Lake Drain and Squaw Creek Watersheds are high priority watersheds because of the expected growth in the area and the potential impacts that may have on additional flooding problems and natural resource degradation.

According to Obergfell, a sign has been put up on Nippersink Road just west of Fish Lake Road dividing the Fish Lake Drain Watershed and the Squaw Creek Watershed.

Another sign has been put up on Cedar Lake Road between Grand Avenue and the old Monaville Road dividing the Sequoia Watershed from the Squaw Creek Watershed.

All three of these watersheds belong to the bigger Fox River watershed.

CATS

updated in 2000, envisions a Strategic Regional Transit System as "an integrated network of high-capacity commuter rail, rapid transit and bus services that are vital for mobility, congestion relief and economic development."

The 2020 plan is figured on the basis of using up to 40 percent of available funds for public transportation. The 2020 RTP financial strategy projects that about $1.025 billion should be available for SRT system improvements through 2020. According to the plan summary "not all the proposed plan improvements are possible with this level of funding."

By late 2003, the RTP will be updated to 2030 to include updated information.

The 2020 strategy recognizes that expansion of local suburban bus service, including that outside the SRT System, is "an integral part of the transportation system serving northeast Illinois."

Eugene Ryan, associate executive director for the Chicago Area Transportation Study, told Lakeland Newspapers this week that there are no doomsayers on the use of public transportation among members on the Policy Committee. But Ryan did acknowledge that there is a selling job to be done before large masses of people will abandon their cars in favor of buses and trains.

"The number one thing with people from the suburbs," said Ryan, "is that they are all for improving public transportation. But people feel that it should be there so that the person who is driving in front of them on the expressway should be the one who will be using it."

Commissioners weigh in

"I never heard of this before," said Lake Villa Township Highway Commissioner Jim Jorgensen when he heard about CATS. It turned out he was not alone. It was a new concept for Grant Township Highway Commissioner Jack Kiesgen, as well.

However, no one lacked for opinions on the state of transportation in the year 2002.

"I don't think they anticipated this much growth 20 years ago," said Jorgensen. "We need widening of major arteries, such as Route 59 and 83, to make it easier to get around," he said. "People are taking the tollway to get from Lake Villa to Libertyville. That's just ridiculous!"

His sentiments were echoed by Kiesgen, who observed, "It used to take 30 minutes to get from Fox Lake to Waukegan. Now it takes at least 45 minutes."

The spiraling price of real estate in a growing county is part of the problem.

"The Illinois and Lake County Departments of Transportation are working on this," Kiesgen conceded, "But years ago the rights-of-way could have been obtained at less cost."

"It's important to set goals and have objectives," said Fremont Township Highway Commissioner Bill Grinnell. "The reality is we won't see this happening unless the state legislature comes up with a great deal of money."

Kevin Zupke, Newport Township's highway commissioner, took a similar stance.

"I want to see more involvement from the state," he said. "I feel the (LCDOT) is doing what it can. Unless the state expands Routes 45, 22 and 21, it does no good to expand the county roads. It only creates a bottleneck."

Background of CATS

CATS was formed in 1955 to develop a long-range transportation plan for the Chicago area.

According to Ryan, there are 8 million people living within the planning area affected by the decisions made by the 20-member policy committee. The policy committee makes all final decisions on proposals.

CATS, permanently chaired by the Illinois Secretary of Transportation, includes members of the following: IDOT, Regional Transportation Authority (RTA), Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission, Council of Mayors from Chicago and collar counties, Chicago Transit Authority (CTA), Class 1 Railroads, Metra, Pace, Illinois State Toll Highway Authority, mass transit districts, private transportation providers, Federal Highway Administration and Federal Transit Administration.

CATS creates plans with a 20-year horizon for the region's transportation system, projects funding and projects the budget to maintain the system as it is today. "Most of the funding ($40 billion for the 2020 plan), 80 percent of it, maintains existing transportation," said Ryan. "That leaves 20 percent for new and additional capacity."

Public input sought

Ryan explained that CATS is in the process of creating the 2030 plan and is looking for community input. A meeting will be held at the College of Lake County on Aug. 5 from 7-9:30 p.m.

Facilitators will head each group to find out what works, what doesn't and what the area needs in the future. By next February or March, recommendations will be made, followed by public hearings with the formal plan on the table in the summer. The 2030 Plan must be approved by the end of 2003.

Contact CATS through e-mail at sp2030@catsmpo.com, its web site at catsmpo.com or call transportation Tom Murtha at 312-793-3466.

Ex-Bear set to open up a Libertyville barber shop

By DENYS BUCKSTEN
Staff Reporter

As an athlete Wendell Davis was always a cut above the rest, and on Monday, July 15, he confesses to game day jitters for the opening of his barber shop.

Big League Barbers, located at Red Top Plaza on South Milwaukee Avenue. Hours will be Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., and Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

There is a sports theme throughout the 1,600 sq.-foot shop, which has eight cutting stations. "We'll have a lot of sports memorabilia and a big screen TV in the lobby, with some stadium seating and individual direct TVs at each station," said Davis. "We'll hand the remotes to the customers as soon as they sit down."

Davis, a 6-foot, 189-pound wide receiver, was drafted in the first round by the Chicago Bears in 1988, sat out the 1993 season with injured knees and retired from the Bears in 1993. The sure-handed receiver finished his National Football League career in 1995 with the Indianapolis Colts, where he teamed up with former Bears' quarterback Jim Harbaugh.

Davis and his wife, Tricia, of Waukegan, live in Mundelein and have three children.

Davis said Monday morning will be the start of another challenge. "I'm sure I will have game-day jitters. That's the exciting part about it."

Davis, 36, said he follows the current Bears and is friends with James "Big Cat" Williams, whom he played with, and other teammates.

Davis, a native of Shreveport, La., said he was always fascinated by barber shops while growing up. "I guess as a kid I always had pretty good experiences in barber shops. It was always a pretty cool place to meet, a place where everything happened. There was always a lot of sports talk, and talk about what was going on around town."

Davis, who has tried his hand at other ventures, was introduced to the Big League Barbers franchise while at Indianapolis. "It got started in New York and in Georgia," said Davis.

Franchise prices are determined by the market, said Davis, and he will open up with a base price of $14 for a shampoo, blow dry, haircut and neck and shoulder massage.

"We want to spend between 20 and 25 minutes with our clients. We don't want to rush anyone."

Davis said he won't be cutting any hair himself. "I cut my sons' hair and I cut my roommate's in college, but I wouldn't attempt to do anyone's hair at the shop."

Ranney's death leaves legacy

By CHRISTY BLANDFORD
Staff Reporter

Leaving behind a half-century long legacy of preserving Lake County's countryside, instrumental conservationist George A. Ranney Sr. died June 30.

Ranney, 90, died of pneumonia at Lake Forest Hospital following a life full of successful land conservation and civic reform.

Ranney, his wife, Nancy, and their neighbors, who included his sister Dorothy Donnelly and her husband, Gaylord, moved to Lake County in 1946. Ranney settled in Libertyville Township, where he lived until his death, and worked with his family and neighbors to utilize government authority in order to protect hundreds of acres of agricultural and forested land.

Their efforts in Libertyville Township propelled the 1989 establishment of the Liberty Prairie Forest Preserve. The preserve legally protects 4,500 acres of land in Libertyville, Warren, Avon and Fremont Townships.

Ranney served on the board of the Inland Steel Company — which merged with the his wife's family's Ryerson Steel Company — and later served as Vice Chairman of the company until 1977.

He also was a major supporter of the International Crane Foundation, the Chicago Symphony, WTTW, the Chicagoland PBS affiliate TV station, which was founded by his father-in-law, Edward L. Ryerson. Ranney also continued supporting family interests as he maintained his the Edward L. Ryerson Conservation Area in Deerfield following his wife's death in 1987.

Memorial contributions in Ranney's name can be made to: The International Crane Foundation, P.O. Box 447, E11376 Shady Lane Road, Baraboo, Wis. 53913, or to the Friends of Ryerson Woods, Edward L. Ryerson Conservation Area, 21950 North Riverwoods Road, Deerfield, Ill. 60015.

able to that, but it's likely."

"I would say some are and some are not, the ones most directly related are the Lake Forest and Highland Park beaches," LCHD's head of lakes management, Mark Pfister, who decides whether county beaches are closed or not, said.

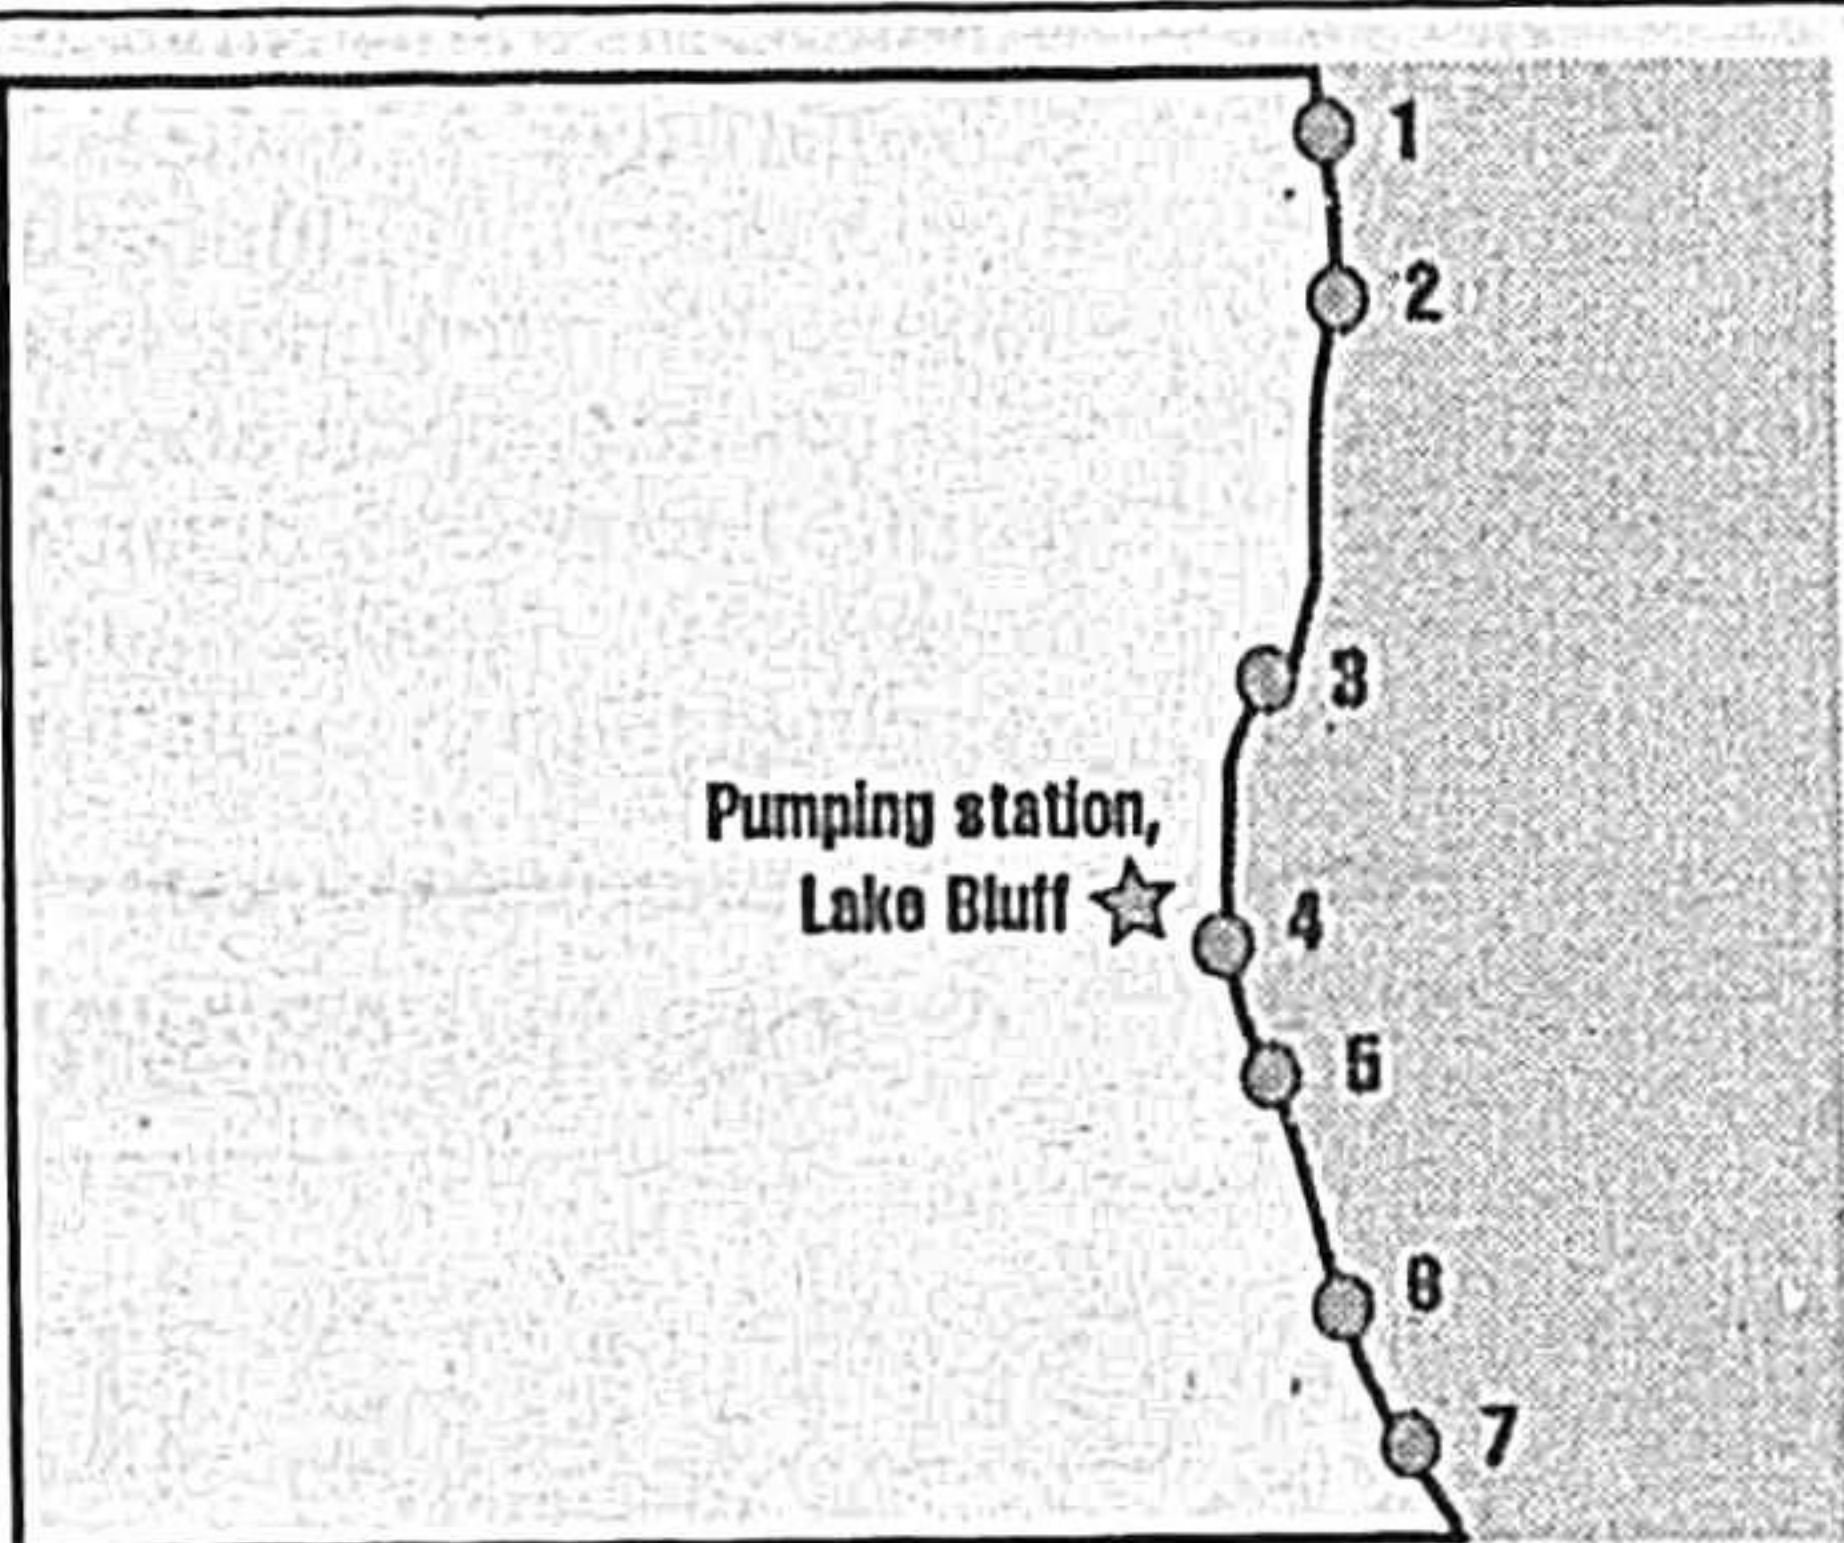

Northern beaches in the county, including those in Waukegan, Zion and Winthrop Harbor have been closed due to a variety of factors, including stormwater run-off this week, seagulls, and heavy rains causing high bacteria count.

In 1999, Great Lakes Naval Training Center had a sewage discharge between 1.5 and 3 million gallons, Pfister said. But it happened in early spring, so there wasn't as many potential users that would come in contact with the waste.

Pfister said in the past ten years the Lake Bluff pumping station plant has leaked sewage into Lake Michigan at least three times, each time at unsafe levels.

Brian Dorn, NSSD's special projects manager, said personnel on the scene cleaned up area, with most waste running through a paved area on its site with the overflows running into the lakefront armor stone that abuts property.

Sunrise Beach and other county beaches are most likely to open by this weekend. If there's a silver lining, it's that temperatures this week are far from those endured recently, and beach use is down, but should be right back up this weekend with called-for highs in the 90s, and the water is expected to be safe again.

Themed 'look' filed for history

Say goodbye to downtown architectural themes, where community business districts seeking to attract customers with unique building styles defined building standards a la Disney theme parks. Scottsdale, Ariz. was a prototype springing up after World War II with an ersatz cowboy town atmosphere that captivated tourists to the southwest.

In Lake County, where downtown architecture could best be described as "Victorian carryover," theme fever caught on in the 1960s. Fox Lake flirted with a nautical theme with New England fishing village overtones and then abandoned the idea. Because it is located in Avon Township and had a history of English settlers, Grayslake tried to inculcate a Stratford-on-Avon theme. Some stucco and a few batten boards still remain. Lake Forest stuck with a "Westminsterian" flavor established following World War I for its distinctive town square. Other towns, like Libertyville, let building tastes of the time dictate style which resulted in a hodge-podge mixture on Milwaukee Ave. of Gay '90s, Roaring '20s and post-World War II contemporary. Lake Zurich adopted an Alpine look to compliment its lake's namesake. The idea stuck and for many years Lake Zurich was the most successful "theme" town in Lake County, including an annual Alpine Festival. Even some yodeling years ago.

Now, Lake Zurich is confining Alpine flavor to history in connection with a downtown revitalization program. Mayor Jim Krischke said support and interest in the Alpine theme has waned.

Developers will be encouraged to go contemporary. That means there'll be A-frame peaks, coined corners, stucco is back in style and a variety of setbacks punctuated with lots of landscaping. Vernon Hills is a good example of modern retail architecture.

What's being replaced is monotonous low-slung strip malls resting at a right angle to acres of blacktop. That's good. Come to think of it, that was contemporary in the '70s and '80s. What's going to be the new look? Contemporary, to be sure.

Times dictated Rte. 22 compromise

Two-lane Route 22, a major south Lake County arterial little changed from the 1920s "hardroad days," is going to be upgraded to four lanes. Finally, thousands of motorists are sighing as the word spreads, "It's about time." Make that more than 30,000 motorists daily who drive the highway designed for about 14,000 cars a day.

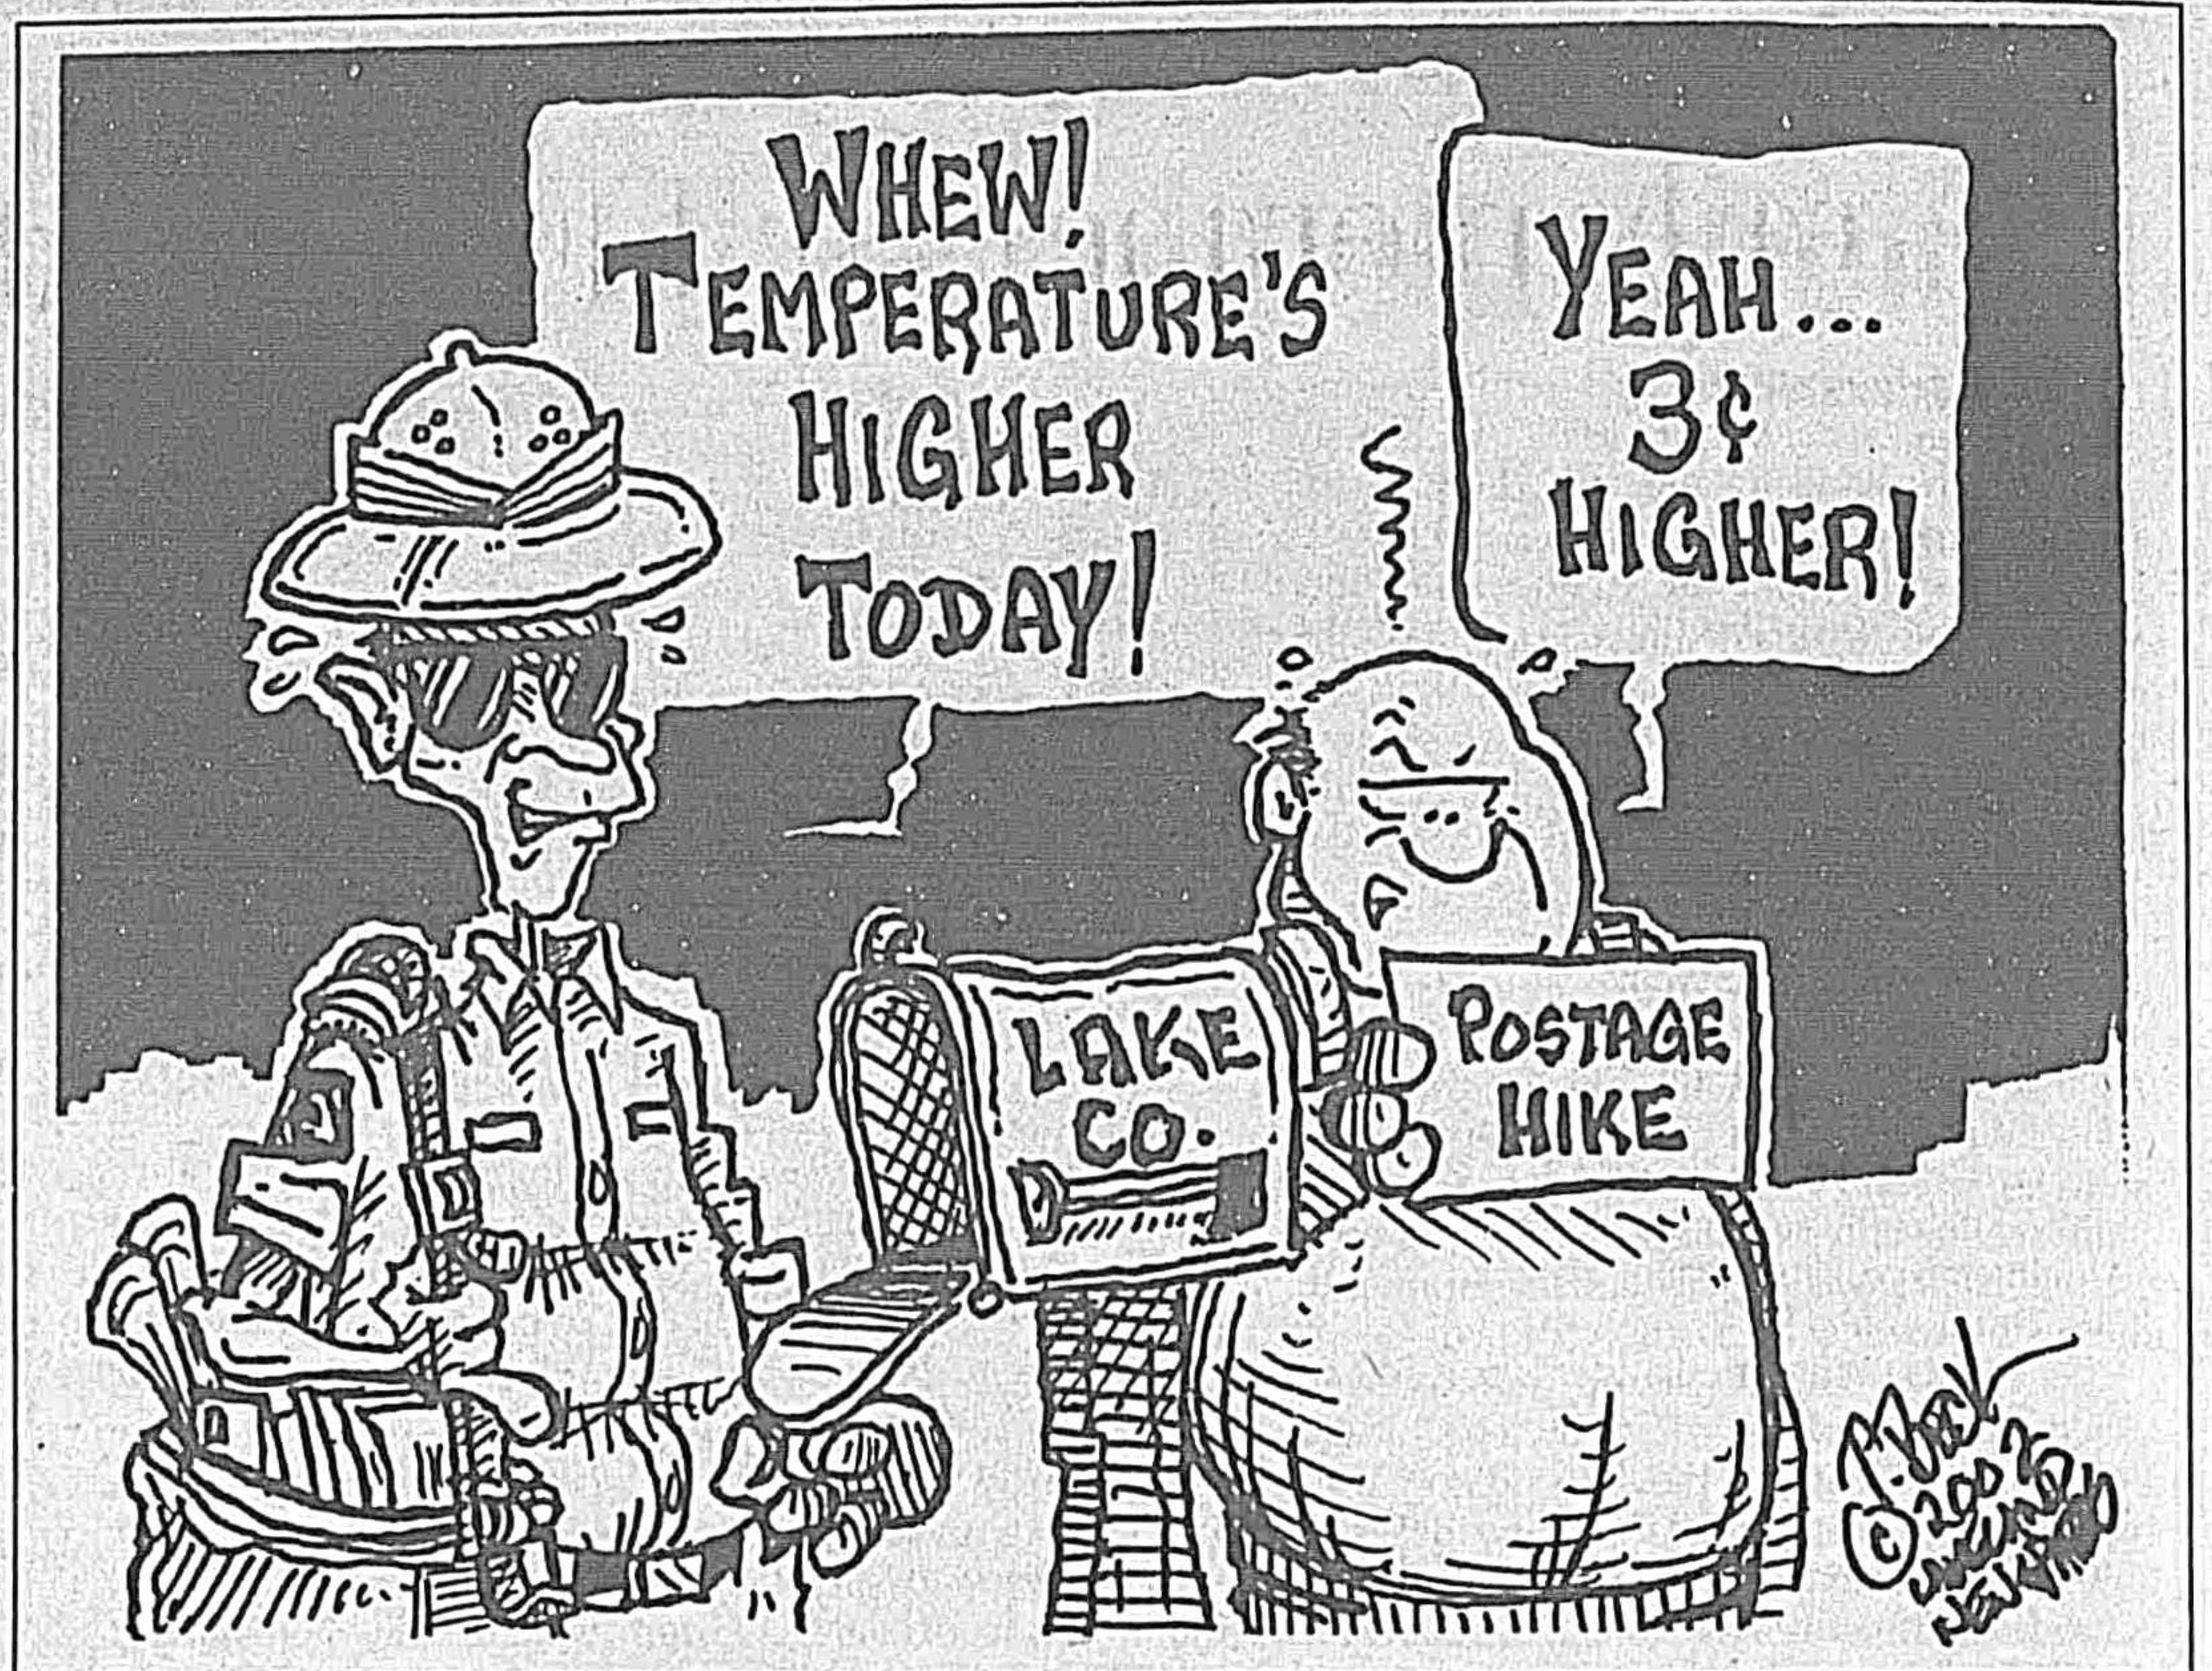

Although on state drawing boards for 40 years, Route 22 was mired in a battle with the Village of Lincolnshire over how roadway improvements should take shape. Original protagonists basically bowed out of the picture years ago. All that was left was intractable opposition on the part of Lincolnshire officials. A lot of differences have been forgotten. Officials of the Illinois Dept. of Transportation (IDOT) put up with Lincolnshire obstinance because construction funds weren't available.

State Sen. William Peterson (R-Long Grove), who represents both ends of the Route 22 stretch from Lincolnshire west to Lake Zurich, brought the warring sides to their senses to hammer out a compromise that he's calling a "win-win for everybody." That's exactly the way it looks from our vantage point.

In fairness to Lincolnshire, the village position wasn't entirely off base. IDOT engineers wanted a typical limited access, high speed thoroughfare designed to move a lot of vehicles—fast. Lincolnshire wanted fewer medians, the convenience of turn lanes and environmentally friendly design. Save as many trees as possible. At one time, they argued that village plans for Route 22 improvements would save considerable millions of taxpayer money. Novel thought, indeed. And not so surprisingly, IDOT engineers weren't all that impressed.

Under the compromise resolution, contracts will be let almost immediately. Work will start later this summer. Interesting how long troubling transportation problems can be solved when conditions are right.

Give a measure of credit for the compromise to a federal judge who indicated strongly an impatience with dealing with a trail of Lincolnshire lawsuits opposing state plans. Enough already. A four-lane modern highway. Hard to believe, but true.

VIEWPOINT

Waiting troubles ADA riders, parents

Like the gang that can't shoot straight, Laidlaw Transit Services is struggling to get their job right, transporting special needs young adults to jobs society and their parents have been preparing them for all their lives.

Transportation is the key link in an elaborate system costing the nation billions. Rather than institutionalizing or letting adult children stay home and collect government support, parents and "the system" join in preparing them and locating jobs that help make them self-supporting and contributing members of society.

In this locality, Pace, the bus arm of the Regional Transportation Authority, contracts with Laidlaw, a private firm, to transport young adults to jobs like super-market bagging, parts assembling and packaging, foods service, custodial work, etc., respectable jobs that pay above minimum wage and provide a sustaining income.

Business and industry is open to hiring the special needs adults. The problem is getting them to work safely and on time. That's where Pace and Laidlaw come in. Only there have been so many problems and so many complaints, two elected officials have intervened to help work out snafus.

After a June meeting which was a follow up of an earlier meeting with frustrated parents, State Sen. Bill Peterson (R-Long Grove) and County Board Rep. Bonnie Carter (R-Ingleside) are moving to involve Lake County's two congressmen which could lead to changes in ADA regulations. The federal government opened up new vistas for the mentally and physically handicapped three decades ago.

Terry Maheu, a post office employee whose son Bryan, 26, works at Dominick's, is an outspoken activist for special needs children and young adults. From personal experience, she knows the mental stress in nurturing to adulthood children requiring special training and support. She was horrified once when Bryan waited five hours for a Laidlaw bus. "He was afraid to go to the bathroom."

He just waited and waited." Maheu said young adults require routine to function. "Bryan could get fired tomorrow," Maheu stated in referring to his spotty attendance because of Pace and Laidlaw miscues.

Frank DeVita, Laidlaw district manager, said significant strides have been made since installation of a new computer system that handles scheduling and routing for 140 buses serving Lake County from a center in Grayslake. He also praised the efforts of Sandy Black, new facility manager in hiring, training and coordinating drivers for 38 routes, a 20 percent increase from January.

Tom Grenninger, Pace district manager, called dispatching an art, pointing out that dispatchers in less than two minutes are required to field calls for rides, schedule pick ups and coordinate arrival times at places of work.

Howard Huffmaster, employed at an auto dealership, emphasized that young adults are serious about their jobs. He said his son, Bryan, who is employed at Jewel, gets up at 6:30 a.m. to make sure he gets to work on time at 9 a.m. Eligible riders are required to make daily calls for transportation.

Both Peterson and Carter agree that the ADA program needs modifications. That's the next step.

Democrats thriving in GOP territory

By ED NASH

An astronomical 10 times increase in the number of Lake County judges...Almost a three-fold hike in the size of the Lake County delegation to the Illinois General Assembly...An historic switch-around in the prevailing gender on the Lake County Board, the county's governing body...

Those are examples of how things political and governmental have changed in Lake County through the years. Throughout, there has been the emergence of the two-party system in the county and the increase of women's political participation. And there have been a number of Lake County connections in State of Illinois office-holders.

Back in 1955, almost a half-century ago, there was a grand total of three judges in the Lake County Courthouse: Circuit Judge Bernard M. Decker, County Judge Minard E. Hulse and Probate Judge Charles E. Jack. Outside the courthouse were a smattering of justices of the peace and police magistrates.

Today, Chief Circuit Judge Jane Drew Waller, the first woman chief judge, presides over a vast array of 11 full Circuit Court judges and 21 associate Circuit Court judges—32 jurists handling criminal and civil cases. Ten are women.

In the mid-1950s Lake County had four men, and no women, in the General Assembly: State Sen. Robert McClory and State Reps. Robert Coulson, W.J. Murphy and Jack Bairstow. The legislative delegation from the county has blossomed today to 11—four in the Illinois Senate and seven in the Illinois House. And six of the 11 are women.

The Lake County Board used to be virtually an all-male congregation with a lone female member or two in their role as a widow of a departed male member. Nowadays, there has been an overwhelming turn-around on the 23-member board. There are 13 women and only 10 men. And the County Board chairman is Suzi Schmidt, the first woman to hold the office.

The Lake County Courthouse and its elected occupants used to be considered a Republican bastion. Since the Civil War and until the 1960s and 1970s, only two Democrats had been elected to county office. And they were quickly dispatched to political oblivion by the GOP-oriented electorate in the next election. Then came two events that changed the political complexion:

A Democrat, Philip Yager, was

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Family members tell Friedlander story

Shirley Friedlander is undertaking her "Mission Impossible" with gusto. Friedlander is the slated Republican in the November general election to challenge popular Democratic County Board Rep. Bob Sabonjian (D-Waukegan) in the lopsidedly Democratic 8th District.

Experienced in business and association management, Friedlander has recruited family members as the core of her public relations team for parades and campaign events.

Shirley's helpers wear T-shirts with tailor-made messages. Husband Dan's shirt say "Elect My Wife." Daughter-in-law Danna's shirt is inscribed "Elect My Husband's Mom." Son Alan wears an "Elect My Mom" shirt. Shirley has a grandson, Max, 4 introducing himself and urging voters to "Elect My Grandma."

At this point, Friedlander is considered a long-shot. She recently was installed as president of the Lincolnshire Morning Star Rotary. She spent 19 years as executive director of the Greater Lincolnshire and South Central Lake County Chambers of Commerce.

Plant watchers

Craig and Lisa Snider of Zion may become the poster couple for people forced to deal with everything that's bad about peaker power plants. Not only do they view the ugly new generating plant from their front door, they have to contend with noise levels that already exceed regulations. David Jacobs, plant manager said, berms yet to be installed should reduce the noise nuisance. The plant is allowed to operate from 7 a.m.-10 p.m., producing electricity for "hosts" ComEd and WE Energies (formerly Wisconsin Electric and Wisconsin Gas).

Mayor's critic

Close watchers of Gurnee Village politics see first-term Trustee Jeanne Balmes challenging Mayor Don Rudny in the next mayoral election in 2005. Balmes was quick to challenge Rudny and the board when Village Atty. Rudy Magna was voted a hefty increase in his retainer. Balmes considered hiking the annual fee from $42,000 to $60,000 as "excessive" and cast the only negative vote on a roll call. Magna became village attorney a year ago when Rudny reorganized village personnel following his defeat of long-time Mayor Dick Welton.

New office

After retiring as Grant Township assessor last Dec. 31, Betty Niemi didn't stay out of politics too long. She is the new women's chair for the Lake County Republican Central Committee, succeeding County Board Rep. Bonnie Thomson Carter (R-Ingleside).

Getting around

Congressman Mark Steven Kirk (R-10th) spent the July 4 holiday marching in parades. Kirk's office released a parade schedule that included simultaneous appearances at noon in Deerfield and Mt. Prospect. Wonder how Kirk handled that? Does the Congressman have a twin? All in all, the Kirk re-election team handled seven parades.

Slow growth

Tim Johnson, president of the Mundein elementary school board, has launched an education campaign directed at village officials. Mundein growth policies are causing financial problems for District 75, Johnson maintains. Johnson and the school board want zoning changes that will slow growth.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Shake down

In response to Ant Simonian's letter trying to defend Sheriff Gary Del Re's questionable behavior, I think it's important to be clear on a few things. Simonian is the paid executive director of the Republican Party. What else can he do but try to say he's a good guy. The facts speak for themselves. Del Re is being investigated for shaking down business owners for campaign contributions. He's complaining that his raise is not big enough, when 2,000 county employees were not even given a merit increase after the economic uncertainty of Sept. 11. And now he's stenciled his name, with taxpayer money, on all of the Sheriff department's transport vehicles. Campaign advertising at our expense. Unbelievable.

This management and abuse must stop. We know when we're being taken for a ride. And the ride will come to a halt on Election Day.

Vouchers not logical

America's greatest asset is its publicly funded, universal access, religion free education system. Over 90 percent of our children still depend on public schools for education. There will never be enough private schools to replace the public schools or to accept even a fraction of the children. So let's devote ourselves and our resources to making the public schools the best they can be.

The voucher system takes money from the much-needed public funds and diverts this money from its primary purpose.

Please explain the logic of how taking money away from the public schools for vouchers can improve the public schools?

Norman Geary

Election propaganda

Despite all of the cynicism directed towards politicians, our democracy remains strong because every few years our elected officials are held accountable on Election Day. Campaigns allow for, and encourage, the sharing of ideas and debate of the direction of government. Throughout my campaign for Lake County Board last spring, I called for greater financial accountability from our elected officials on the County Board. Needless to say, I am pleased to see them implementing many of the reforms I advocated which provide greater financial stability at the county level.

However, I am outraged at the recent publication and distribution of over 130,000 color brochures touting the outstanding county we live in. Ironically, the inaugural edition of this publication comes in an election year when all 23 members of the County Board are up for re-election. Especially troubling is that this propaganda piece amounts to little more than taxpayer subsidized electioneering. In a time when budget deficits continue to grow, county employees continue to be denied even cost of living adjustments, and taxpayers are forced to shoulder more burdensome tax bills, I would hope that our leaders would exercise greater prudence in the future before spending our hard earned money on their own re-election efforts.

County making Fido doggone happy

As I write this our dog Tuesday is nearby, sleeping like a log, or at least a very happy dog.

Maybe he is dreaming of all the new friends he is making at the playground we're taking him to.

It's the new Dog Exercise Area on Grand Avenue near Lindenhurst, the fourth one opened by the Lake County Forest Preserves. The others are in Libertyville, Wauconda and Lake Forest.

The one near Lindenhurst offers dogs 48 acres in which to run and play without a leash. Fences enclose the area, protecting them from traffic. And there's a cool drinking fountain to quench thirsts.

Tuesday is 2 years old now, a peppy teen-ager according to canine calendars. He enjoys fetching and catching tennis balls and Frisbees in our driveway, but Duck Farm is dog heaven compared to that.

Dogs are born to run, and run and run. It's sad to see so many of them, when they do get outdoors, tied on a short tether. Some become so overweight their lives are painful instead of playful.

At Duck Farm, at any given time, there may be up to a dozen dogs sniffing and romping together while their owners also

THE PFARR CORNER

mix, having the common care that their precious pets are happy and healthy.

One wonders: How are all these dogs going to get along without any fights? But they do, probably because they don't consider this their private territory to protect.

The other day, the smallest dog among about a dozen was Lucky, a bichon frise owned by Vivian Straka of Antioch. Some of the bigger dogs wanted to get to know Lucky but he kept darting beneath picnic tables and keeping the big guys at bay.

Vivian's sister, Dianne Green, was there with two dogs, a beagle named Bailey and a Border collie named Grover. Dianne had found Grover wandering on Beach Grove Road and gave him a home.

A man from Round Lake Beach was there with a three-legged boxer named

Pooch, whom he had rescued from a kennel. "Nobody wanted a three-legged dog," he said, "so I took him."

Despite the loss of a leg, Pooch gets around just fine.

"This is a great place," said Gerry Granville of Grayslake, there with her 8-year-old daughter Beth and their Brittany spaniel, Trivette. "This is our tax dollars at work."

Some of those who bring their dogs to Duck Farm also visit the three other Dog Exercise Areas for the variety. An annual permit costs $35 ($15 for a second dog) and $3 for one day. Hours are 6:30 a.m. to sunset. Rates are higher for non-residents. (Phone: 847-367-6640.)

Really enjoying the romp with other dogs was Libby, a year-old Labrador mix with her "family," Curt and Cheryl Dagleish. "She loves to run without a leash," said Cheryl. "She's a big socializer."

We see a big change in our dog Tuesday. Having gotten his all-important exercise in a mammoth park he seems much more content and less rambunctious at home.

There's a saying, "All dogs go to heaven," and thanks to the Forest Preserve people they're now getting a taste of what canine heaven might be like.

elected to the Circuit Court bench, following an improbable set of circumstances. He was appointed by a democratic governor to take the Circuit Court vacancy created by the appointment of Judge Decker, a Republican, to the federal bench by a Democratic president at the urging of an influential Republican U.S. senator from Illinois.

Grace Mary Stern, wife of the Lake County Democratic chairman, was elected to the first of three four-year terms as Lake County clerk and she was followed by the election of Linda Hess for an identical dozen years—giving the Democrats a startling 24 years in the office. That followed a 16-year reign by Garfield R. Leaf, the GOP county clerk.

Ms. Stern and Betty Lou Reed, a Republican, had served on the County Board prior to the Stern election as county clerk and had changed what had been the traditional widow role by being strong political advocates. Subsequently, Ms. Reed became only the second Lake County woman elected to the General Assembly. The first was Adeline J. Geo-Karis, also a Republican and the first female House and Senate member from Lake County.

In Springfield there were two Lake Countians who served on the Illinois Supreme Court. The first was Walter V. Schaefer of Lake Bluff, a Democrat, who served for a quarter-century. He was followed by Thomas J. Moran of Waukegan, a Republican, whose meteoric political rise from private attorney to Lake County state's attorney, Probate Court judge, Circuit Court judge and Appellate Court justice was capped by his election to the state's highest court.

Four of the nine governors in the last half of the 20th Century had Lake County ties. Adlai E. Stevenson lived in Libertyville. William G. Stratton was a native of Ingleside. Otto Kerner had a summer home in Antioch, and Daniel Walker lived in Deerfield.

Even though the Democrats have been making more of a mark in the county, there is the feeling that it remains basically a Republican county. And there have been some Democrats who have changed their party in an apparent self-preservation effort. However, there are those who remained professed, public Democrats. State Reps. John S. Matijevich and Daniel M. Pierce, Judge John L. Hughes and Associate Circuit Judge Terrence J. Bardy are among those in that category. In a unique category is John L. Balen, a former County Board member and present

Waukegan City Council member. He was first a Democrat. Then a Republican. Then a Democrat again.

The Lake County judicial branch is solidly Republican with one exception. The lone Democrat among the 32 on the bench is Brady, who is the senior jurist of all of them, just completing a quarter-century of service. Seven of the eight Lake County-wide elected offices are held by Republicans. Four women and four men hold the offices. Recorder of Deeds Mary Ellen Vanderventer is the sole Democrat. Eight Republicans and three Democrats form the present Lake County delegation to the General Assembly. The Lake County Board is split with 17 Republicans and six Democrats.

But there will be a vast change in the County Board makeup after the Nov. 5 general election.

More than one-third of the 23-member board will be new faces. Six incumbents chose not to run for re-election and two others were defeated in the March primaries.

All of which proves, it seems, that the one thing certain in politics is the uncertainty of it. And Lake County is no exception.

Editor's note: Ed Nash covered politics for the Waukegan News-Sun in Lake County and Springfield before becoming a press representative for the Illinois Dept. of Registration. He now is retired and resides in Waukegan.

Will summer ruin my child's ability to learn?

Hi Dr. Singer,

Our daughter is 9 and we decided this year to not sign her up for summer courses in summer school. Each summer we have done that because we feel it is good to keep her learning all year. This year, we both agreed that it would be good for her to relax and enjoy a summertime like a kid. I was very sure of myself with this until we started seeing a lot of her friends enrolled and going again this summer. It made me question whether this was a mistake or not. Not all of her friends are in school, but some are. Do you think we made a mistake in skipping the school thing for the summer and if so, what might we see from it? G.G.

Hi G.G.,

Don't sweat it! The answer is...yes it is good to improve education every chance you get, but I highly doubt that one summer of fun and relaxation is going to do anything bad for your daughter. We all need a break from it all sometimes. I'm sure she is thrilled about it too! That is not to say that the parents who have enrolled their kids for the summer made a mistake either. There is plenty of summer and plenty of learning time to go around.

If it will make you feel better, you could do some educational things on your own. For example, you can ask for a book to be read over a certain time interval. You could ask for a book of her choice to be read each week or two weeks of the summer time. If you are concerned about the types of books she might choose, you might put together a list of books from the library that are age appropriate for her to pick from. I think an hour or two of reading a day would not be a bad thing. She could even read outside if she wanted to so it feels more summer-like, but only if it isn't too hot out!

PARENT'S PLACE

If you have a computer, another thing you could do is run out to a place that carries computer learning programs or learning based games and ask her to do a certain amount of time on those each day. When picking programs, focus on areas that could use improvement or on weak areas. Best Buy has a lot of great titles.

Now, keep in mind that just because I have recommended some work for the summertime, it doesn't mean that I want you to fill every waking moment with these things for her. That would be very destructive. Be reasonable and relax.

Another thing you could do is to make your family outings educational. Try going to a museum or maybe the Art Institute. Even the zoo is a wonderful educational experience.

This way, you are filling up at least some of her summertime with some educational activities and keeping her brain switched to "on" during the summer. Again, if you choose to not do any of these things, I think she will be fine. Stop worrying about this and enjoy your time together. If your worry is based on your feeling that she is having any problems processing information or learning, or problems with attention, and you think she will fall behind in school because of it, you should call me next week and we can consult further about what kinds of extra help I might be able to offer you prior to the fall or after school begins.

Diabetic eye disease can cause blindness, gives no early warning signs

Annual eye exams crucial to early detection

Loss of eyesight in people with diabetes is a national health problem. People with diabetes are 25 times more likely to become blind than those without diabetes, and diabetic eye disease can cause as many as 25,000 new cases of blindness every year, according to the National Eye Institute (NEI), one of the Federal government's National Institutes of Health.

Nearly half of the nation's estimated 16 million people with diabetes will develop some degree of diabetic retinopathy, the most common form of diabetic eye disease, and the leading cause of blindness in American adults. Diabetic retinopathy damages the tiny blood vessels in the retina, the light-sensitive tissue that lines the back of the eye.

The disease does not have any early warning symptoms such as pain, and vision may not change until the disease becomes severe. "This is one of the most frightening things about diabetic eye disease," says Dr. Paul Sieving, director of NEI. "People with diabetic eye disease do not realize that their eyesight is slowly deteriorating."

The only way to diagnose diabetic eye disease in its early stages is with a dilated eye exam. Using eye drops to enlarge the patient's pupils, a dilated eye exam allows the eye care professional to see more of the inside of the eye to check for signs of the disease. People with diabetes need to make annual dilated eye exams a priority. Ignoring the importance of an annual eye exam could lead to trouble later on, when diabetes begins to affect a person's eyesight.

Vision lost from diabetes cannot be restored. Yet in about 90 percent of those who would otherwise become blind, the early detection of diabetic eye disease, combined with laser surgery when needed, and appropriate follow-up, has helped preserve vision. Laser surgery can shrink the abnormal blood vessels caused by diabetic retinopathy.

Sieving notes that "the longer a person has diabetes, the more likely it is that person will develop diabetic retinopathy. However, studies have shown that people with diabetes who keep their blood sugar levels as normal as possible slow the onset and progression of diabetic retinopathy and lessen the need for laser surgery. This may also help reduce other complications from the disease, such as kidney disease, stroke and nerve damage."

Individuals with diabetes are also at risk for other eye diseases. Studies show that they are twice as likely to get a cataract as a person who does not have the disease, and that cataracts develop at an earlier age in people with diabetes. Glaucoma may also become a problem. A person with diabetes is nearly twice as likely to get glaucoma as other adults. And, as with diabetic retinopathy, the longer someone has had diabetes, the greater the risk of getting glaucoma.

Much research is being done to learn more about diabetic eye disease. For instance, the National Eye Institute is supporting a number of research studies in the laboratory and with patients to learn what causes diabetic retinopathy and how it can be better treated. This research should provide better ways to detect and treat diabetic eye disease and prevent blindness in more people with diabetes.

A free brochure, "Don't Lose Sight of Diabetic Eye Disease," is available by writing to Diabetic Eye Disease, 2020 Vision Place, Bethesda, MD 20892-3655. NEI's Web site, www.nei.nih.gov/health/index.htm provides additional information about diabetic retinopathy.

The only way to diagnose diabetic eye disease in its early stages is with a dilated eye exam.

Antioch G.C. to undergo 'facelift'

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

Growth usually facilitates the need for more space. Such is the case with Antioch Golf Club, located at 40150 N. Rte. 59, Antioch. Demolition of the existing clubhouse will begin Oct. 1 with hopes of it being completed and operational by May 1, 2003.

The new clubhouse will be approximately 5,500-square feet. It will feature a bar area that can seat up to 44 players and a separate grill area, which will have a capacity of close to 100. "We're very excited about the whole thing," said Head PGA Golf Professional Vince Juarez. "The current clubhouse we have is the original facility. It's been added to here and there over the years. But with the rapid growth in the area, we didn't really have more room to add to the existing facility."

"We'll operate out of trailers (during that time)," he said.

The new clubhouse will also feature men and women's locker rooms as well as a brand new patio overlooking the golf course. "We're basically trying to provide the customers, or golfers, with the best possible golfing enjoyment," added Juarez.

A new clubhouse also means modifying other areas. To make for more space, the putting green will also be relocated, as will the cart corral—those two areas will be completely renovated. And right now, only 20 yards separates the first tee and the back of the clubhouse.

Juarez said the new clubhouse will be built a little further east from where the existing clubhouse stands, which will make for more room between the clubhouse and the first tee.

Juarez stressed that the golf course will remain the same and fully playable during the renovations. The driving range will also stay in its current position. The putting and chipping greens, though, will be completely renovated and moved to a different location.

Having a wedding or corporate golf outing? There has been ample room in the past but the renovations will inhibit even more room for that special occasion.

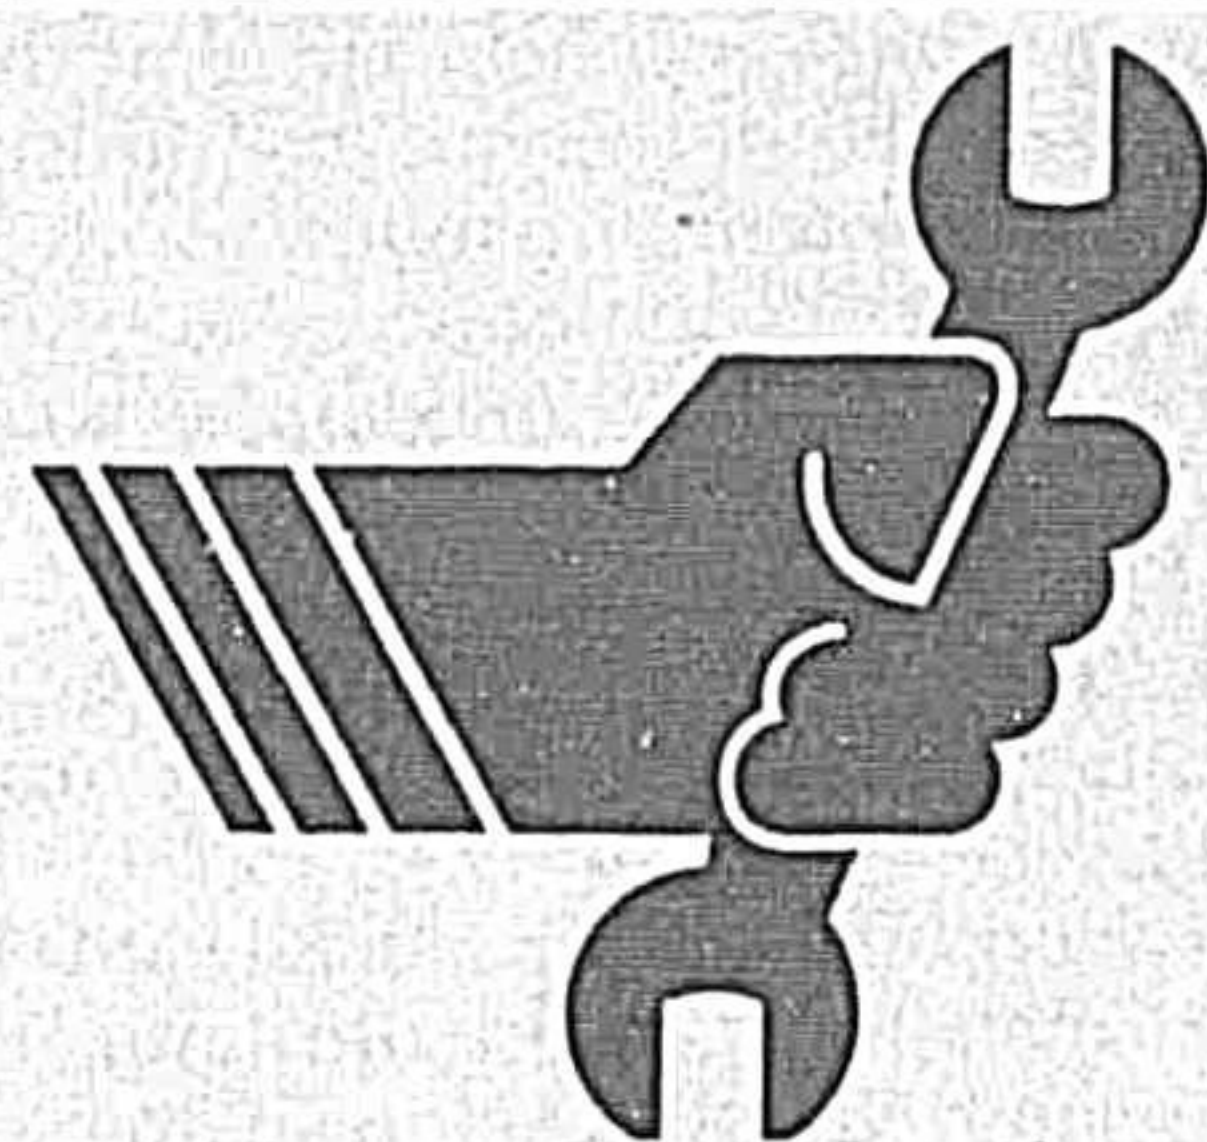

"We'll have a separate area for corporate tents, for whatever we can't hold inside in the grill room of the clubhouse," said Juarez. "It (the tent area) will be for the larger golf outings and weddings. Things of that nature."

"We're just trying to keep up with the rapid growth in the area and we think these changes will be what's best for the community," said Juarez.

Antioch Golf Club first opened its doors in the 1940s.

Demolition for the new clubhouse at Antioch Golf Club is scheduled to begin Oct. 1. The new facility hopes to be completed by May 1, 2003.

Condell offers ways to stay safe in the heat

As Chicago-area residents continue to face stifling heat, humidity and high ozone levels, physicians at Condell Medical Center's Emergency Department in Libertyville encourage the elderly, very young children and people with heart or lung ailments to reduce outdoor activities and stay inside, preferably in air conditioning.

Heat-related illness occurs when the body's temperature control system is overloaded, causing body temperature to rise rapidly, possibly leading to heat cramps, fainting, heat exhaustion or heat stroke.

Heat cramps. Exercising in hot weather can lead to muscle cramps, especially in the legs, because of brief imbalances in body salts. Cramps become less frequent as a person becomes used to the heat.

Fainting. Anyone not used to exercising in the heat can experience a quick drop in blood pressure that can lead to fainting. As with heat cramps, the cure is to take it easy.

Heat exhaustion. Losing fluid and salt through perspiration can lead to dizziness and weakness. Body temperature might rise, but not above 102 degrees. Heat exhaustion is the body's response to excessive loss of water and salt contained in sweat. Warning signs include heavy sweating, paleness, muscle cramps, fatigue, dizziness, headache, nausea or vomiting and fainting. Seek medical attention immediately if the symptoms are severe, last more than one hour or if the person has heart problems or high blood pressure.

Heat stroke. Heat stroke, a more serious and potentially life-threatening condition, occurs when the body is unable to control its temperature and the sweating mechanism fails. In some cases, extreme heat can upset the body's thermostat, causing body temperature to rise to 105 degrees or higher. Symptoms are lethargy, confusion and unconsciousness. Warning signs may include body temperature above 103 degrees Fahrenheit, red, hot and dry skin, a rapid, strong pulse, throbbing headache, dizziness, nausea, confusion and unconsciousness. Death or permanent disability could result without emergency treatment. Cool the victim using ice and/or cold water until paramedics arrive.

Tips for keeping cool

To keep cool this summer, Kent Bailey, MD, an emergency physician at Condell, recommends these precautions to minimize the risk of heat-related illness:

Where to go. Stay indoors, preferably in an air-conditioned environment. A cool bath or shower is an effective way to cool off if you don't have air conditioning. Better yet, visit someplace that does, such as a senior center, theater, mall or neighbor's house.

What to drink. You can lose a liter of sweat per hour just by sitting in the sun in 100-degree heat. The best solution is to replace lost water with water. Drink plenty of water — at least 8 cups a day. Fruit juice and Gatorade are good, too, but avoid alcoholic and caffeinated beverages, which actually cause you to lose more fluids.

What to eat. Many people's appetites lessen in hot weather, which can be helpful. Avoid hot foods and heavy meals, which add heat to your body.

What to wear. Wear lightweight, light-colored and loose-fitting clothing, which shields your body from the sun while allowing the air to circulate around your skin. If you wear a tight T-shirt, the sweat goes through the fabric, cooling the T-shirt, but not cooling you. A wide-brimmed hat provides shade and helps keep the head cool. Sunscreen can prevent sunburn, which can affect your body's ability to cool itself and also cause a loss of body fluids.

What to do. Use the buddy system and check on the elderly and sick who do not have air conditioning and are less able to take care of themselves.

What not to do. Avoid strenuous physical activity, especially during the hottest part of the day. Never leave a child or pet in a vehicle alone on a hot day. Inside a sealed car in the heat, a child may become disoriented in just five minutes, unconscious in 10 and brain-damaged in 20.

Are pollens invading your home?

Another allergy season is upon us, and an estimated 50 million to 60 million Americans are or soon will be suffering from upper respiratory symptoms -- itchy eyes, runny noses and sneezing -- caused by allergic reactions to airborne pollens.

According to the Asthma and Allergy Foundation of America (AAFA), about one of every five adults and children suffers from allergies, which are the sixth leading cause of chronic disease in the United States, including allergic asthma.

Most allergy sufferers use one or a combination of three recommended approaches to control their symptoms: taking medications, being immunized and/or avoiding the offending allergens.

While effective, the costs associated with taking medication, whether prescribed, over the counter or immunization (allergy injection therapy), are astounding. According to the AAFA, Americans spend more than $4.5 billion on yearly medical care for seasonal allergies, attending approximately 8.4 million physician visits each year. The organization reports the cost of allergy-triggered physician services alone totals $225 annually.

With airborne pollens, avoiding "offending allergens" sometimes is easier said than done. After all, it's not practical during peak allergy seasons to live sealed indoors. Yet physicians commonly advise patients to not invite outside airborne pollens into their living environment by closing windows and doors and spending as much time as possible within a well air-conditioned home or building.

However, closing windows may provide a deceptive sense of security for some allergy sufferers. Many windows and doors do not provide a tight barrier, allowing microscopic airborne pollens to flow freely indoors. Older homes are especially susceptible to structural air leaks around windows and doors, not only due to normal aging but because the windows and doors were produced using outdated design and construction techniques when industry standards were less stringent.

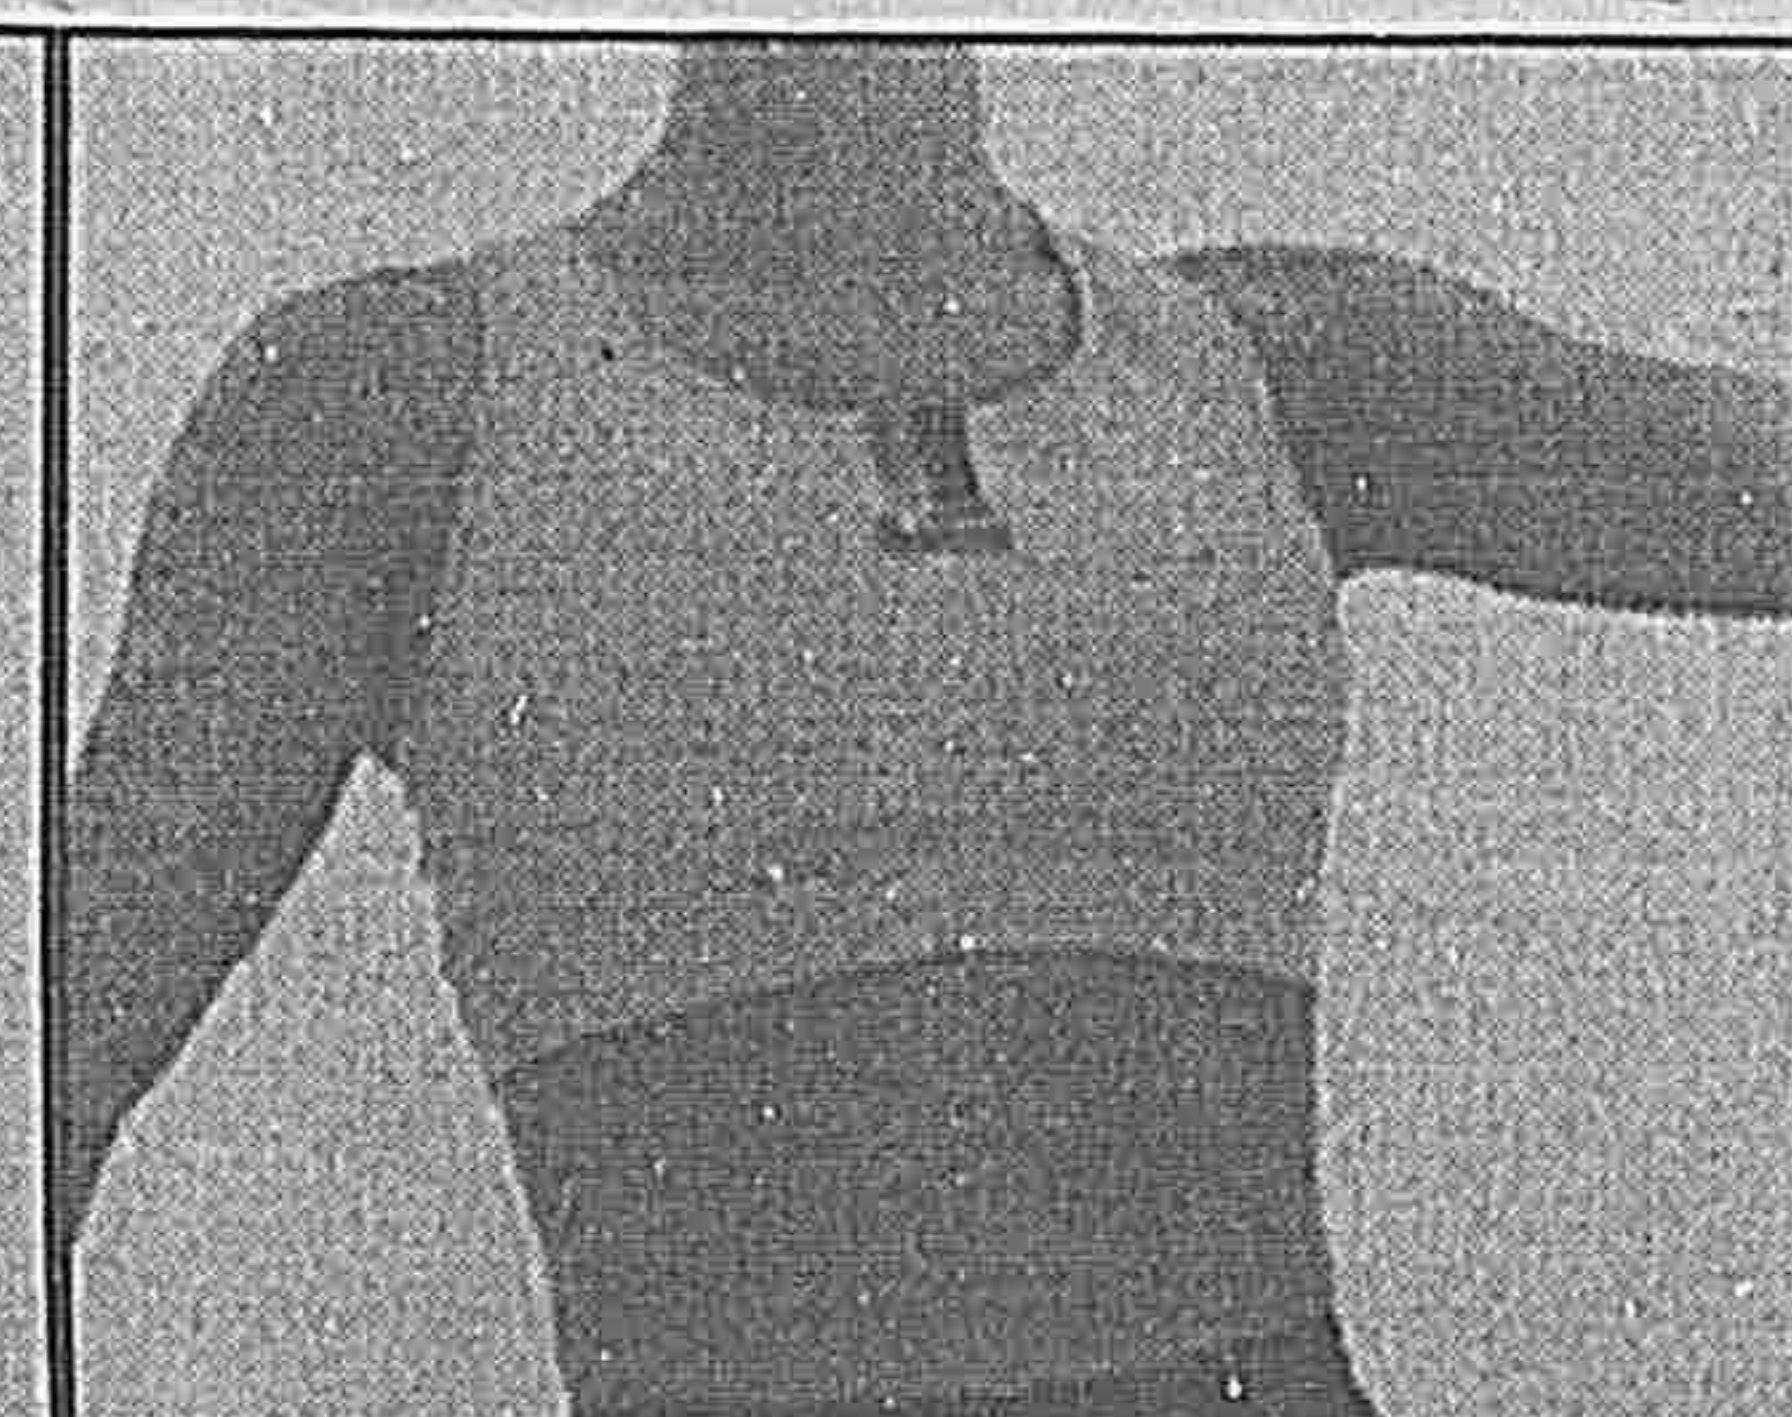

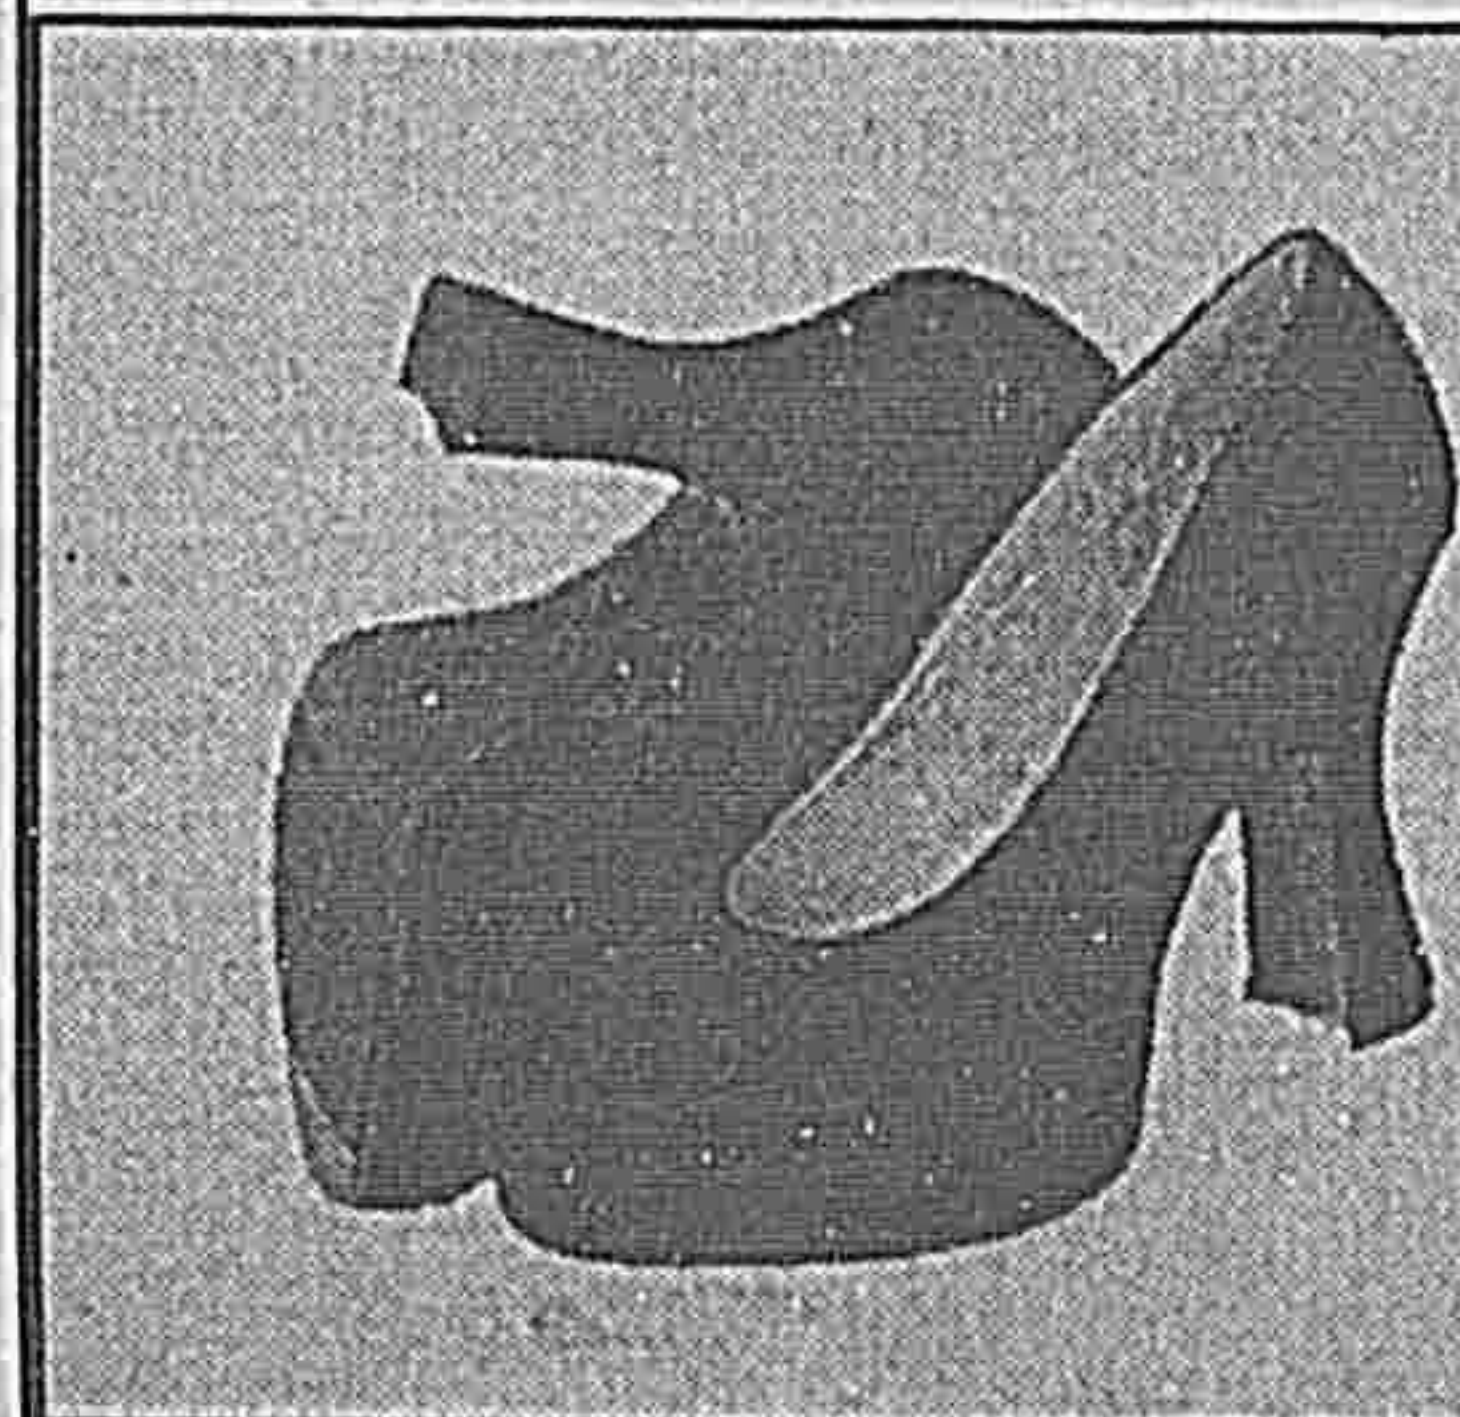

There are three window features that make the biggest contributions to an airtight seal: design and construction, weatherstripping, and the locking mechanism. When buying an existing home, considering window replacement in an older home or building a new home, check the following elements:

1. What is the air filtration standard for the window? The industry standards, set jointly by the American Architectural Manufacturers Association and the Window and Door Manufacturers Association, vary for different types of windows (for example, double hung windows which have two sashes and can be moved up and down versus casement windows, which have a single sash that opens to the outside with a crank handle).

2. Is the weatherstripping worn, dislodged, missing or somehow compromised? In a casement window, is the weatherstripping mitered and securely joined together in the corners of the window?

3. Does the locking mechanism contribute to an airtight seal by pulling the sash tighter against the frame (for casement windows) or compressing the window frame against the weatherstripping for a tighter seal (double-hung windows)?

Garden serenity made simple

Seven tips to transform any backyard into a stress-busting sanctuary

It's five in the morning; even the sun is still asleep. Sue Buerkle is working in her backyard garden, picking weeds from between the marigolds, snapdragons and geraniums. "On my days off, I like to put on a pot of coffee, and head out into the garden early in the morning," she says. "It's quiet. It's serene. It's the most peaceful part of my day."

She's not alone. A recent national survey reported that working in the yard continues to rank as America's number one pastime. Another survey, by a housewares trade organization, identified gardening as one of the top trends for 2002, fueled by people seeking a return to a simpler life.

The rise in gardening's popularity may be just beginning. During stressful times, more and more people tend to rediscover the simple pleasures of caring for a lawn and garden. "When life or world issues seem out of our control, it's therapeutic to be able to cultivate a special place in our own backyard," says Michael Miller, president of backyard tool company Hound Dog Products, Inc.

Miller's life reads like a chapter in the story of America's return to the backyard. Like a growing number of people, he became interested in gardening as a hobby that soothed his nerves and beautified his backyard.

As a corporate cog for nearly 10 years, he often spent the better part of his weekends putting in the yard. "I found I got a huge payback on the energy I spent in the backyard; I enjoyed the leisurely process of doing backyard chores alone or with the kids. On Sunday night we could look back with pride on what we had done, and we could enjoy a nice backyard sanctuary all week long."

In 1994, he decided to make it his living, creating clever tools that made chore time easier. Miller attributes his thriving business to identifying and embracing the trend toward backyard living. "We're in the simplicity business," he says. Innovative tools with names like the Weed Hound (a stand-up tool that pops weeds with the punch of a button) and the Bulb Hound Garden Planter (designed with a hinged coring tube to make it easy to transplant flowers or dig holes for bulbs), are flying off store shelves nationwide. Miller says homeowners are focusing more time and energy on creating a feeling of tranquility in their own homes and backyards, and they're looking for the right tools -- and tips -- for the job.

Looking to transform your own lawn and garden into a personal oasis? Miller offers some tips to create a peaceful backyard sanctuary with a minimum of effort -- and to enjoy yourself in the process:

- Small, bite-sized projects rule. Even when you're embarking on a larger project in the backyard, view it as a series of small projects. That takes the pressure off and gives you more successes.

- Relax and enjoy the process. Take your time; there's no rush when you're enjoying yourself. This is an uncommon opportunity for you to leave any "Type A" tendencies behind. Who knows? Maybe you'll discover the virtue of patience.

- Remove nuisances and clutter. That ugly shrub, those weedy areas, the branches that block your efforts -- get them all out of your way and start fresh. If something's nagging you, vanquish it. After all, you're the master.

- Involve loved ones. Chore time is really playtime in your own backyard. Sometimes it's even more fun when you share it with someone you love. Plant a tree with your children and it will stand as a memory through their lifetimes.

- Use the right stuff. The tools of your craft should minimize strain and maximize results. Think quality, not quantity here. Rather than aggravating yourself with tools that will break or deteriorate, purchase reliable ones, maintain them well and they'll reward you with a lifetime of loyal service.

- Engage all the senses. The most relaxing garden sanctuaries are the ones that tickle all of our senses. Plant some fragrant herbs next to those beautiful begonias, or save some space in the back of the garden for some tasty onions or tomatoes. Install foot lighting along the path to the back door or the gate. Create a small rock garden and install a pump to enjoy the sound of water trickling throughout the season. Express yourself -- this is living art.

- Enjoy the fruits of your labor. Gardening isn't only about getting your hands dirty. Once you've planted, tilled, cultivated and weeded, remember to appreciate your sanctuary. One of a garden's most vibrant therapeutic qualities is how it makes you feel when you're nearby.

The bottom line is to keep it simple, and to make it your own. No matter which kind of backyard or garden you choose, keep in mind that the best backyard sanctuary is one that you create -- and care for -- yourself.

Choosing the right tool for the job is one easy way to turn any backyard into a peaceful sanctuary.

Camp Fun

'Jerry's Kids' enjoy a week of good times at MDA-sponsored event

By STEVE SKINNER
Staff Reporter

The Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA) held its very first camp at the YMCA Camp Duncan in Ingleside.

Kids from the North Shore MDA region, which includes northern Cook County and Lake County, get to spend one week at camp enjoying everything summer camp has to offer.

Stephanie DiCara, 11, from North Barrington said that camp is fun, but she isn't too fond of the camp food. "Gross food, very gross, said Stephanie. Stephanie was excited about the carnival being held for VIP day and was especially excited about the fact that The Olive Garden was supplying the food for the day. She said she loves their breadsticks. "Tomorrow there's going to be pizza," said Stephanie.

Stephanie has the same likes as any other girl her age. N'Sync is her one and only favorite band with Justin being her favorite member. She said she loves her year-old black Lab puppy named Bella, she loves to ride horses and go swimming. "I got to go swimming yesterday. It was fun," she said.

Stephanie is a budding artist who loves to draw, paint and work with clay. She proudly displayed her most recent painting, which included real seashells glued onto the picture.

Stephanie is also part of the 10-member Spirit Squad cheerleading team. The squad is getting ready for the upcoming pep rally for the super soccer tournament, which will be followed by a homecoming dance.

"I have a date for the dance," said Stephanie, referring to unit leader Gregg Ponitch, who will accompany her to the dance.

Two other campers, Mitch Kolver, 11, from Buffalo Grove and Jon Marsh, 10, from Palatine were busy doing a little four-wheeling in their wheel chairs near their cabin. "Let's have a race," said Marsh.

Perhaps they were spurred on to the racing aspect because of the Citgo sponsored stock car that was on display at the camp. WalTom Racing of Burr Ridge owns the car and driver Robbie Pyle was on hand signing autographs.

For many of the kids, this was the first time they had ever seen a racing car up-close. Citgo has agreed to place the MDA logo on the car and will donate a percentage of the point winnings earned by the car during the upcoming ASA racing season.

Another big hit with the kids were the half dozen Harleys on display. Many of the kids were lifted onto the motorcycles to have their pictures taken. One girl was really into being on the motorcycle and she even held onto a small Harley flag while she smiled for the cameras. Harley Davidson is also a sponsor of MDA.

There are 58 kids in the camp with a full-time volunteer counselor assigned to care for each child on a one on one basis. "The counselor is there to act as an aide for the child," said Matt Zubel, District Director for the North Shore District of the MDA.

Counselors must be age 16 or over and undergo training meetings throughout the summer as well as a 1-day orientation held the Saturday before the camp.

The kids get to attend camp free of charge with the funding coming from various fund-raisers and private donations.

The largest nationwide contributor to the MDA is the nation's firefighters. They have consistently raised more money through their "Fill the Boot" program than any other cooperation organization.

There was a MDA camp held previously this summer at Hastings Lake YMCA for the Joliet district and the next one is for the Rockford district to be held at the Inspiration Center in Walworth, Wisconsin.

The MDA continues to fight against 43 different neuromuscular diseases and these types of camps benefit 3,000 families in the Chicagoland area affected with one or more of these diseases. The camps are open to kids from age 6 to age 21.

The funding MDA receives through its telethons, fund-raisers and various contributions help to fund the camps as well as support groups, medical equipment, medical care and world-leading research. For more information, or to volunteer or donate, go to their web site at www.mdausa.org or call the north shore district office at 847-520-6329.

Civil War comes alive in Wauconda

The largest Civil War reenactment in Illinois offered heat, humidity, history and humor last weekend on the grounds of the Lake County Discovery Museum just east of Wauconda.

Civil War Days included evening tours and firing of cannons on Saturday, July 6. The next day featured a battle re-enactment, ongoing camps, demonstrations, exhibits, hands-on activities, and cavalry, artillery and infantry drills and even an address by a President Abraham Lincoln impersonator.

After sharing a Presidential address, Max Daniels, the President Abraham Lincoln impersonator from Wheaton joked around with Jordan Kibitlewski, 7, of Wildwood. Daniels was a dead-ringer for Lincoln both in his attire and his facial features. Although Daniels appeared like he was about 6-feet-4" — President Abraham Lincoln's officially listed height, Daniels admitted he's an inch shorter.

Deb Carr of Lake Forest said "This is our second year here." Carr and her children came late last year. "This year, we wanted to see the entire battle. We enjoy talking to the vendors and people in the tents. They're incredibly knowledgeable about Civil War history."

In the intense heat of the day, Eleven year-old Doug Carr got had the privilege of trying on a scratchy, wool uniform carrying a 10-pound rifle as he marched a bit. He also learned that "Some of the guys firing cannons in the South wore red caps."

One of the re-enactors, Brian Schwatka of Gurnee, can't seem to get enough of the military. When he's not portraying a Civil War infantry private or a representative of the 15th Tennessee Medical Regimented Hospital at reenactment events, he's a Petty Officer First Class at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center.

He's been involved with Civil War reenacting for about a year and a half. He said, "I got involved when I was first stationed here. When I move on, the great thing about it is there are other reenactment units out there," so he'll be able to continue his hobby.

Dressed in Civil War era garb at the 15th Tennessee Medical Regimented Hospital tent, he held out a pan of slimy, black leaches. "Anyone want one?" he asked audience members to see if they'd want to try what was considered the aspirin of that day. He went on to detail Civil War era medical practices, medicine and diseases.

Kim Thompson of Mundelein has been involved with Civil War re-enacting for about 11 years. "Usually I portray a nurse," she said. Eventually she'd like to do a female impersonating a male soldier. "There are over 400 known cases of women who actually impersonated males so they could serve as Civil War soldiers."

ATTENTION BUSINESS OWNERS...

When the Going Gets Tough, The Tough Get Advertising.

Whether your business is doing well or slower than normal, you have to get your share of whatever business is around. Cutting back your advertising puts you at a disadvantage the very moment you need an edge to increase your sales. Increasing your advertising gives you the edge.

In these times of uncertainty, shoppers are careful and a little reluctant to spend. They want information. One of the main ways they get information about products, services, prices and values is from advertising. Yours or somebody else's. Here's a hard fact to chew on. Over any given period, a business that advertises below average has sales that are below average.

Advertising is news about products and services. Most consumers look for this kind of news in the pages of their community newspaper. In plush times, retailers often experiment with other media. But when the going gets tough, they concentrate their efforts in Lakeland Newspapers because it provides immediate payoff at the cash register.

Power plant sound impact debated by Indeck, engineer

By MARC JEWIS

Staff Reporter

The proposed power plant was better described as a "loud" than a "quiet" one, according to an engineer who has studied the impact of the plant on the surrounding area.

Indeck, the company that is building the plant, has been accused of trying to downplay the impact of the plant on the surrounding area.

The engineer, who has studied the impact of the plant on the surrounding area, has found that the plant will have a significant impact on the surrounding area.

Annexation approved for Kildare properties

By MARC JEWIS

Staff Reporter

The Libertyville Board of Trustees has approved the annexation of 1724, 1740 and 1761 W. Kildare Ave., adjacent to the Western subdivision.

However, several points of the annexation agreement were debated by officials and residents before being approved.

Kildare Ave. will be widened to 20 feet, and the current location of the driveway will be moved to the east side of the road.

The annexation will be effective on May 1, 2003, and the new residents will be subject to the same rules and regulations as the other residents in the area.

Wilmot Speedway falls victim to Mother Nature

By PAUL KUYAWA
Correspondent

An early day heavy rainstorm forced promoter, Marie Winker, to cancel the evening's races.

"This was the last thing I wanted to do was cancel the races, especially with the sun shining late in the afternoon. We just had too much water in a short period of time," Winker said. "A good portion of the back straight, turns three and four and a portion of the front straight was just to wet. We couldn't even get the trucks to that part of the track. The pit area was also a quagmire but I think we could have scraped that and made it usable. I just feel terrible about this especially for the fans and drivers that made the trip and did not get to see any racing, somehow will figure away to make it up."

With the increase in the purse it appeared that several outside drivers were coming out for a tune up for the upcoming Interstate Racing Association race scheduled for July 20. Point leader John Haeni was on hand ready to perfect his Wilmot set-up.

Darrell Dodd was also at Wilmot trying to debug his new Avenger chassis; Dodd was ready to compare notes with teammate Todd Daun who has been running very strong at Wilmot this year. Sprint car drivers are reminded that the A-main now pays $1500.00 dollars to win.

"Again I want to apologize to our guests and racers for having to cancel this show, I know lots of people look forward to the races all week and then not to be able to compete or enjoy the excitement of watching the races, well it's a bummer," said Winker. "I want to thank the race fans and the racers for their support so far this year, I am very pleased with the turn out so far this season and want to let everyone know things are going to continue to get better as the season goes on."

Next week will be the re-scheduled Digital Direct night. Antioch Schwinn will also be giving away a new Schwinn bicycle to one lucky young race fan.

For the latest information, call the Wilmot Speedway at 262-862-2446, Winker Engineering at 262-694-0656 or on the Internet at www.wilmotspeedway.com.

Wilmot Speedway Sprint Car Purse Increase

After years of being stuck with the same A-main payout, Winker, president of Winker Motorsports, the new Wilmot Speedway promoter is pleased to announce that effective immediately there will be a new purse for the 410 winged sprint cars.

For years the figure for winning the A-main was $1200.00. Winker has upped the winners share of the sprint car A-main, and it will now be $1500.00.

"I thought it was time that our drivers received more for winning the A-main. It costs a bunch to field one of these sprint cars so I'm hoping the increase will help," Winker said.

Winker wants everyone that comes to the Wilmot Speedway happy, from employees, the racers and the guests that come to enjoy the action each an every Saturday night.

"I am seeing smiles on peoples faces and when that happens that means we have done our job," said Winker.

The new sprint payoff now reads as follows: 1) $1500.00, 2) $750.00, 3) $550.00, 4) $450.00, 5) 400.00, 6) $320.00, 7) $295.00, 8) $275.00, 9) $265.00, 10) $260.00.

From 10th through 17th the pay drops by $5.00 per position, place 17-20 pays $225.00.

"We feel that a local show that pays $225.00 to start is very respectable. Some of the traveling groups pay $250.00 to start. With most of our drivers living fairly close to the speedway there is normally very little expense in travel to and from the track, along with the fact that an over the road tractor trailer is not needed to get to a track that is close to home. They should like the increase and as long as we keep bring in cars and fans it will not be the last", Winker said.

"I want our guests happy, because that's what they are. My staff treats them all well, and will go that extra mile to make everyone happy. The concessions are going to start having some new items and throughout the night we will have our souvenir staff going out in the crowd to sell some of their items. The other night I had our guests thanking me that one of my souvenir employees, Nancy, took it upon herself to go out and sell cans of OFF. While it may not sound like much, it is a convenience to have someone come to you rather than standing in line somewhere and missing the races," Winker added.

This Saturday night will be Digital Direct Satellite Night at the Wilmot Speedway. One lucky youngster will also go home with a brand bicycle. There will be a drawing and that lucky winner gets a new set of wheels. There is also a coloring contest for the youngsters, that is judged each with neat prizes awarded for the two best pictures, these are available at the souvenir stand.

Vintage Day at Hales Corners

The Vintage Modified Stock Car Group has scheduled there first ever Vintage Day at the Hales Corners Speedway on Sunday July 14, 2002.

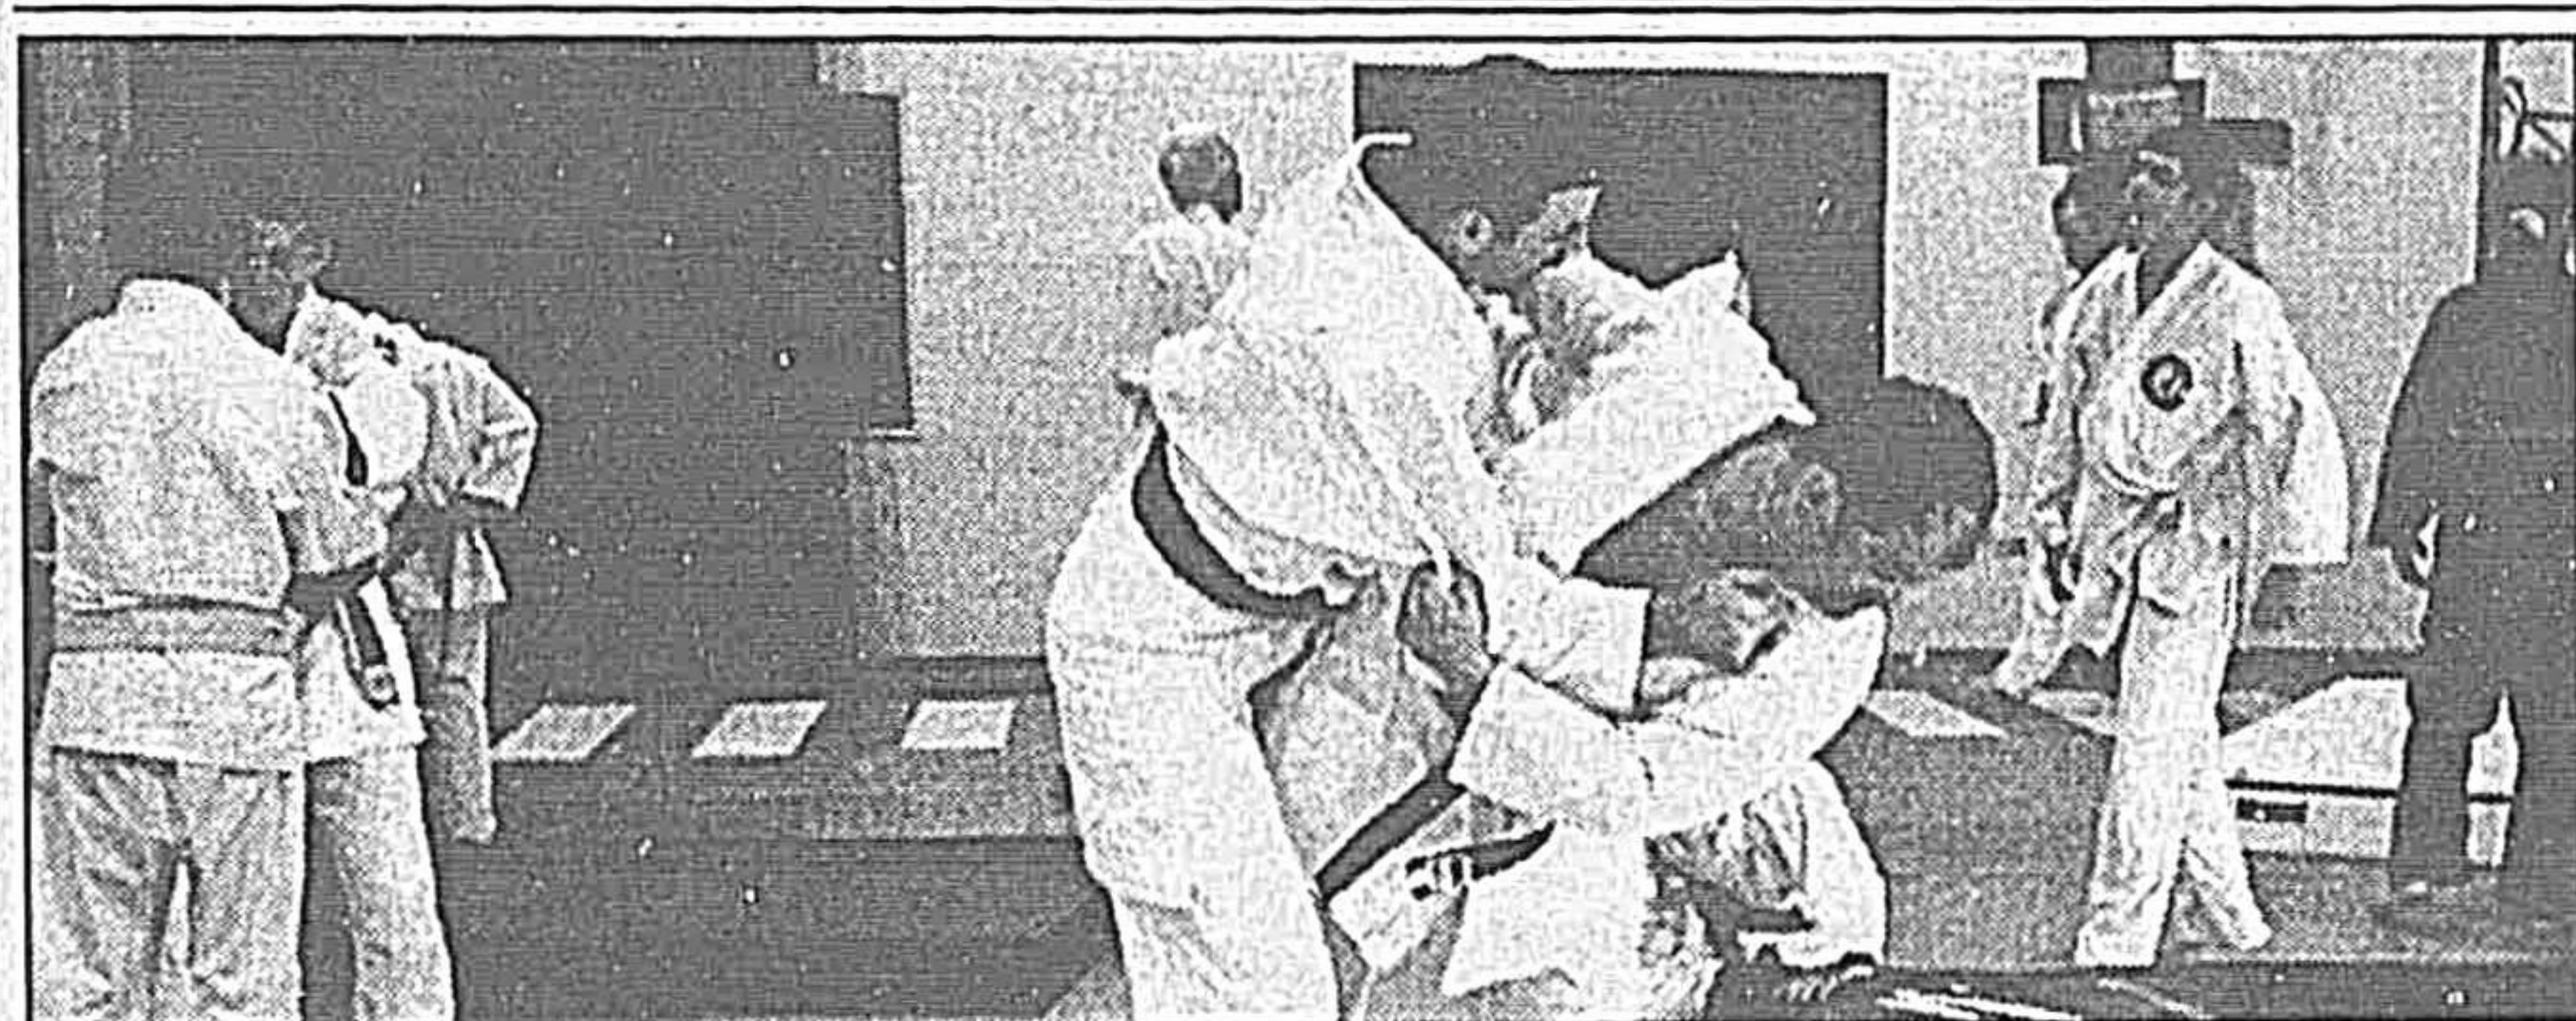

The event is set to get underway at 11:00 am and the final checkered flag will fall at 2:00pm. Come on out and turn back the hands of time as all types of vintage cars will take to the track at controlled speeds and parade laps. See the cars and stars at one of the most famous racetracks that ever hosted the modified and sportsman cars.

Imagine if you will, being able to see the cars of Paul Feldner, Billy Johnson, Willie Goeden, once again, on July 14 you can. There will be plenty of modifieds for everyone to admire; midgets, sprint cars, and sportsman will also have a large contingent for everyone to enjoy.

Some of the old drivers are expected to make an appearance, to check out the action, talk to the fans, sign autographs and maybe take a lap or two in one of the restored treasures.

As an added bonus, the former starter of the Hales Corners Speedway, who also was the official starter of the Indianapolis 500, Duane Sweeney will once again be waving the flags at one of his favorite short tracks in all of America.

Grandstand admission is free, with pit entry costing $15.00. Come out and relive those grand old days of modified, sportsman, sprint car and midget action on July 14. For further information call John Surges at 414-324-7948. The track is located on Hwy. 100 one half mile south of Forest Home Avenue in Franklin, Wis.

Difficult holes: #1 (par 4, 416), #6 (par 5, 529), #12 (par 3, 184), #27 (par 5, 494).

Signature hole: #6 (par 5, 529). With a good drive, longer players can possibly reach the green in two on this dogleg right. Trouble awaits any errant shots, as the hole is lined with water from tee to an undulating green surrounded by two bunkers.

Clubhouse amenities: Full-service bar and grille, with lunch served Mon.-Fri. An 80-room hotel also accommodates this great facility. Breakfast is served in the hotel, where guests can also enjoy a health club and indoor pool. Banquet facilities are also available, which host from 20-500 people. Head P.G.A. pro: Marc Heidkamp
Difficulty: Moderate-Difficult
Easy holes: #1 (par 4, 387); #14, (par 3, 147); #10 (par 4, 282).

Difficult holes: #17 (par 3, 230); #13 (par 4, 444); #9 (par 5, 519).

Signature hole: #17. This 230-yard gem of a par-3 requires a tee-shot through a narrow chute of trees with a 195-yard carry over water. But the fun has only begun as the pin is usually tucked behind a bunker guarding a large green, which invites a three-putt at any time if not careful.

Clubhouse amenities: Old Orchard provides complete banquet facilities, catering to outings, weddings and funerals. The course restaurant features a top-shelf sushi bar and Japanese cuisine to complement its American menu. Old Orchard also features a putting green and two practice nets, one indoor and two outside. Full-service pro shop and golf instruction available.

Prices: Weekdays: $61 for 18 holes, $51 for 18 after 2 p.m., $26 for 18 (walking); $41 for 18 after 4 p.m. (includes cart); for 9 holes, $34 (after 4 p.m. with electric cart), walking $26. Two-for-one special-(6:30-8:30 a.m.)-$86.50. Note: Specials subject to change. All prices include carts, which are mandatory until after 4 p.m.

Comment: "For a public course, Old Orchard is the closest thing in the Chicago-area with country club atmosphere and conditions. The pristine-conditioned and mature tree-lined fairways with gorgeous floral arrangements around all of the tee boxes make it one of the finest courses you'll play in the Chicagoland area. Difficult holes: #4 (par 5, 556), #12 (par 5, 501), #15 (par 4, 425)

Signature hole: #4. Dubbed "The Monster" because of its sheer size, this very difficult hole will provide problems for all but the most accurate golfers. A driver is recommended off the tee, and a three-wood is recommended for the approach but be careful. The elevated green has water in the front, woods in the back and out of bounds to the left.

Head P.G.A. pro: Brad Keilwitz
Difficulty: Moderate

Easy holes: #1 (par 4, 285), #5 (par 3, 145), #18 (par 4, 325)
Difficult holes: #7 (par 4, 395), #11 (par 4, 420), #16 (par 5, 520)

Signature hole: #16 (par 5, 520). A great golf hole, this 520-yard par-5 requires an accurate drive to an uphill fairway, which flattens out after about 200 yards. Unless the player decides to lay-up, the second shot requires at least 200-yard carry over a pond, which then leads to a big green that is guarded by bunkers. Trees line both sides of the fairway.

Clubhouse amenities: Village Green offers a full-service bar and grille, locker rooms and showers, and a full-line pro shop. Putting green accessible for players and lessons offered. Host of the LMV Chamber Outing Aug. 7 and the Libertyville High School triangular meet Oct. 3. Also a great venue for corporate outings.

Prices: Weekday $23 for 18; (twilight-after 3 p.m.)-$15. Juniors and seniors-$19. Weekends and holidays-$34 for 18; $25 between 1-3 p.m.; Twilight (after 3 p.m.)-$19. Early Bird Special (6-7 a.m.-9 holes only)-$18 walking. Electric carts-weekdays-$25 for 18 holes, $16 for 9; Weekends and holidays-$29 for 18, $17 for 9. Weekday Special (except holidays)-two players with a cart-$29 per person; four players with cart-$27 each. Pull carts-$3.

Comment: "Short but tight watered fairways. A well-manicured course suited for players of all levels, Village Green offers a variety of challenges, from water, trees, and bunkers. There is some forgiveness on a few holes, but accuracy and precision will yield the best results-you pretty much have to be straight here."—Brad Keilwitz student Daniel Otway took first place honors in the COUNTRY Insurance & Financial Services Longest Putt Contest held at Prairie Vista GC in Bloomington, IL.

Competing against 46 players in the 12- and 13-year-old boys division, Otway's winning putt measured 24 feet, 2 inches.

"I used the same putter that I have used all along. I have been playing golf since I was 6. My dad helps me with my swing a lot," said Otway, fresh from another round of summer golf.

The event took place during the three-day COUNTRY Youth Golf Classic, which was held over five courses in the Bloomington area. The COUNTRY Youth Classic, for golfers ages 3-22, drew approximately 550 players from 15 surrounding states.

How did the younger Otway pull off his feat?

"The green was hard to read. It was uphill, and broke to the right. I just hit it harder," Otway said.

Popular 'Redbook' goes on sale

The Lake County Workforce Investment Board released its popular guide, "Human Services for Lake County People," commonly known as "The Redbook."

The 573-page guide contains information and contacts for 412 social service agencies and organizations and more than 710 community resources that assist Lake County residents.

The 2002 edition of the "Redbook" provides information about federal, state, county and municipal government, senior citizens programs, chambers of commerce, day-care providers, park districts, nursing homes, libraries and more.

"To help 'Redbook' users more easily obtain information on resources, we decided to include a CD-ROM disk along with the book so that users may print information on specific entries," said Vicky Gordon, Assistant Manager of the Workforce Investment Board.

The "Redbook" has information on the employment and training services offered by the Illinois Employment and Training Center (IETC) in Waukegan and Grayslake, where one-stop shopping is available to job seekers and employers.

The "Redbook" is on sale for $22 and includes the book, binder, CD-ROM and handling cost.

Maria Guerra, who works on the Workforce Investment Board, said the Redbook grew out of a need we had working with job seekers. Other issues we needed to address, to help advise a person. It grew out of an internal directory that counselors used to direct job seekers.

"It was an information referral tool for us to help direct people to community services," said Guerra. "Maybe we didn't specify in family counseling or didn't know about every daycare center in the county. So other agencies knew we had these names and said it would be fabulous if had a directory the community could use."

Each entry includes the business name, a profile, address, phone and fax numbers, the name of the director, email addresses, hours of operation, and a paragraph on the services provided by the agency.

Also included are eligibility requirements for clients and any fees that may apply.

Publication of the book began in the late 1970s, said Guerra. "We have people who use it for businesses, other human service agencies, a number of brochures for pastoral counseling reasons, and government agencies. Many libraries have it."

"We also have a lot of individuals who buy it, including recent college graduates who are interested in a social service career."

Guerra said part of the book's appeal and editorial integrity is based on the fact that "We update the book every 18 to 24 months."

To place an order, contact Maria Guerra at the County Administrator's office, (847) 249-2200, or write to The Illinois Employment and Training Center, at 415 Washington St. Waukegan, IL 60085, Suite 104. One must either pay in cash or by check.

The Lake County Forest Preserve at Independence Grove near Libertyville is inviting residents to a Family Nature Paddle on Saturday, July 20 from 9 to 11:30 a.m.

While Mom and Dad are off learning paddling skills, the kids will be exploring the lake's habitat. Then the whole family comes together with a scavenger hunt on the lake. Each crew must have at least one adult paddler plus one paddler 12 years or older.

The cost of the program is $51 ($46 for Lake County residents) per family canoe. Registration and prepayment is required.

Independence Grove Forest Preserve is located on Buckley Road (IL Rte.137), just east of Milwaukee Avenue (IL Rte. 21) and west of the I-94 tollway in Libertyville.

To register, call 847-968-3321 or visit www.LCFPD.org.

We Do Not Knowingly Accept Ads For Free/Giveaway Animals
If you must give up your beloved pet, please consider these suggestions.
*Free animal ads suggest that there is something wrong with the animal, or that it has no value.
*Some people who respond to these free animal ads are imposters and are only concerned about making a profit and not the animal's welfare.
*Charging a fee to a potential pet owner confirms the responsibility of pet ownership for an entire lifetime of that pet. For more information, please contact the Humane Society.

301 AntiquesEmployers Have Resume Expectations

By Scott T. Fleischmann

Have you ever tried to view your resume from the perspective of the employer who will receive it? This is a worthwhile exercise. In fact, I suggest that candidates have several close friends look at their resume as well, before sending it out.

Friends and relatives who have reviewed other resumes will be able to evaluate yours and give feedback from an employer's viewpoint. In general, employers are looking for experience that is similar to their needs. But here are some of the other expectations that they have.

• Spelling and Grammatical Accuracy. With the advent of spell checkers and grammatical screening devices there is no reason for errors. However, be sure to read your own resume several times before you have anyone else look at it. These electronic tools cannot catch some mistakes. For example, "effect" and "affect" can be overlooked. The grammatical checkers evaluate whether a specific part of the language is being used. But they cannot test for errors of logic. "Bell" and "ball" are both nouns. They look the same to these devices. So one bad keystroke could mean that you have an illogical sentence. Edit carefully!

• Be Specific About Accomplishments. Employers want some details about what you have accomplished. Although putting all your accomplishments on the resume could make it too long, identifying those that most relate to the specifics of the job is helpful to those who review it. Describe accomplishments not duties. The latter only tells what you have done. The prior tells what you have done and how well you have done. When describing these accomplishments use action verbs. "Completed all filing daily" is better than "Responsible for filing."

• Modify Every Resume for the Specific Job. It is a good idea to have several stock resumes that can be modified each time you apply for a position. However, it is too easy to get lazy and send out the resume in its stock form. When the employer receives it he or she will not be able to decipher how your skills and experience relate to the opening that they are trying to fill. Use the words that were used in the company's ad. Also modify your career objective to relate to the job for which you are applying.

• Make the Resume Eye Appealing. Like all of us, employers want to look at things that have aesthetic value. Use a good quality paper, and a plain but attractive font. (An ornate font may appear gaudy and that will detract from the resume.) A good quality paper may be more expensive but it shows good taste and a concern for detail.

Employers are the most interested in your skills and experience. However, they need to make decisions about candidates that have similar skills. Those who focus on meeting their expectations will get the first interviews. Those who don't may be called later if the job hasn't been filled.
